SPECTACULAR FIRE

Blaze at a Newtonville Planing Mill Attracts Thousands of Spectators

By all odds the most spectacular fire seen in this city for many years took place Monday noon, when three alarms were rung from Box 242, located in the lumber yard district on Crafts street, Newtonville. The alarm was immediately followed by a general alarm, calling help from Watertown and Waltham.

Within a few moments from the time the fire was discovered in the second story of the Strangman Company planing mill, it seemed as if the entire structure was ablaze. The mill was full of lumber shavings and sawdust, and the flames spread as if it was oil. The fire started from a hot box on the blower in the second floor. About 25 men are employed in the mill and most of them did not have time to get their street clothes from the lockers. Two of the men on the second floor were cut off from the stairs and were forced to leave by the window.

The flame from the burning building leaped and swirled a hundred feet above the ground and attracted thousands of spectators. The streets ad-

ELKS' FIELD DAY

The joint field day, last Saturday of Newton and Brookline lodges of Elks was a great success. About 125 members of Newton lodge were present with possibly a few more than that number from Brookline. The affair took place on Brookline Field and the athletic sports attracted a large number of entries. The baseball game was a walk over for Newton, the score being 16 to 2. McCourt and Flood for Newton, won the three-legged race, Tip O'Neil was first and McCourt third in the 75-yard dash. Comertford of Brookline was first, McNigh of Newton second and Ryan of Brookline, third in the 50-yard dash for men weighing 195 pounds or over. The wheelbarrow race caused lots of fun, principally because Hughie Fogwill of Newton won second place by backing over the finish line.

After the sports, an enjoyable banquet was served in Gardner Hall, including a cabaret, followed by moving pictures. During the banquet an appeal was made for some wounded service men and $103 raised in the few moments.

The affair was in charge of a joint committee of the two lodges, J. L. McCormick, being chairman for Brookline and O. J. McCourt, William E. Earle and W. P. Connors, for Newton.

This rich heritage is yours. With characteristic American energy and resourcefulness, and with the determination to go ahead, there can be no stopping of the onward sweep of our country as it enters the one hundred and forty-fifth year of its life.

To achieve this much desired result, however, every one of us must put forth our best efforts. There was never a time in our eventful history when working and saving were more necessary.

PLAYGROUND NEWS

On July 6th every-day supervision and instruction in games, occupation work, dancing, etc., will start all over Newton.

There will be at least one man and one woman director on the grounds, both during the day as well as evenings. For the guidance of parents so that they may know that it is safe to send the children to the playground and that they will be carefully looked after and properly employed, a list of the playgrounds is given below. The usual time for opening the playground in the morning is 9 o'clock. Not all the playgrounds will be under supervision during the noon hour. Only those having swimming accommodations will never be left without some supervision on pleasant days. The usual playground hours will be 9-11.30 and 2-5.30 and from 7-9.

Not all the playgrounds will be supervised evenings. Only where the number of young people or men and women warrant a director. Most of the playgrounds will be under direction Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings since these seem to be the evenings when the young people are coming to the grounds. It is the business of the directors to see that every child and every person coming to the grounds gets a chance to play safely and without disturbance. The playground directors will see that they not only learn good wholesome activities but that the general behavior is such that everybody can play without interference from rough or undesirable elements.

The playgrounds are only for those who are good sports.

There will again be special instruction given to young girls in Mother Craft and Health Ideals. This is especially for girls from 13 to 18 years of age but some classes will also be formed in the evenings which will be for young women who cannot come to the playground during the daytime. There will be special instruction given in occupation play. This will teach the children to make useful articles which besides teaching them to employ their leisure time will train hand and eye and thereby develop manipulative skill. There will be special instruction in dodge ball, fist ball, schlag ball, and baseball for the older children. Ring games, sand play, etc., for the younger children.

There will be special instruction for the boys and for the older girls in track and field events. At Allison, Upper Falls there will be supervised swimming. As soon as the bathhouse at Auburndale is finished supervised swimming will be conducted. There are shower baths available on the New Burr Playground on the Stearns Playground, the Bower School at the Newton Centre Playground and West Newton Playground. All except the West Newton Playground have hot and cold shower baths which are in charge of attendants. Two days a week the baths are open for girls and women.

The directors will be glad to meet the parents if they desire special cooperation in sending children home at a certain time. They will also be glad to have the parents come as much as possible with the children. The list of the directors will be announced next week.

List of Playgrounds under supervision: Burr Playground, Newton; Boyd, Stearns and Allison Playgrounds in Nonantum; Horace Mann and Cabot Playgrounds in Newtonville; Eden avenue and West Newton in West Newton; Burr School and Auburndale Playgrounds in Auburndale; Lower Falls playground, Upper Falls Playground; Newton Highlands Playground; Newton Centre Playground; and Thompsonville Playground.

Those wishing to play baseball, tennis or other competitive sports on Sunday afternoons, between the hours from 2 to 6 are reminded that such play can only be permitted upon the issue of special permits from the playground department and that otherwise no play involving an element of competition can be carried on on Sunday except during the hours from 2 to 6 in the afternoon and only if permits are issued. Directors are on all the playgrounds from 2 to 6 every Sunday afternoon. It is their business to see to it that all play is carried on according to the law governing Sunday sports.

Anybody desiring information about playground matters should call up Newton West 103, the office of the Playground Department.

In case of special need on Sunday call up Newton South 196-W and ask for Mr. George Osborne.

POMROY HOME

In spite of unpropitious skies on Tuesday morning, eighteen happy children with Miss Hayes and her assistants started for Wolfeboro in three automobiles. The trip takes about four hours.

The automobiles were loaned for the occasion by Mr. Oliver M. Fisher, Mr. Loren D. Towle, and Mr. Frank W. Webber, and their final destination is the farm on Lake Winnepesaukee, the use of which has been given to the Pomroy Home by Mrs. Smith P. Burton, Jr.

Here, the children can romp, walk in the woods, bathe in the lake and grow healthy and strong before school begins in the Fall.

TELLING STORIES

The Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club has undertaken a unique program in giving a series of story telling hours on the Upper Falls Playground from 5 to 6 o'clock Sunday afternoons. The first hour took place on June 20, and last Sunday over 130 children attended, showing a large interest in the event. Mrs. Ernest Cobb, president of the Woman's Club has told the stories the past two Sundays and with the assistance of others, will continue throughout the summer.

In case of rain, the story telling will take place either at the I ranch reading room or at the pavilion in Hemlock Gorge.

Tire Cost Is Coming Down

That is, the cost per mile.

Miller Tire mileage has in late years almost doubled, through perfection in tire making.

In the factory tests—rear-wheel tests under hard conditions—Miller Cords last year averaged 15,000 miles.

The new Miller tread has added 25% to the tread wear. Since its adoption, not a single Miller Tire has come back with the tread gone.

Both maker and inspector must sign every Miller Tire. Both are penalized if a tire comes back.

Every tire user owes himself a test of the Miller Tire. Its exceptional mileage is talked everywhere today.

Under this plan, defects have become a rarity.

It is giving hundreds of thousands of users new criterions of tire service.

It is winning contests where a score of makes are given million-mile comparisons.

Give it a chance to show.

Miss Penard was attended by Miss Elizabeth Lasell, as Maid of Honor; Miss Lois H. Whitin, and Miss Nancy Lasell as bridesmaids, Miss Katherine Swift as flower girl and Masters Phillip B. and Chester H. Lasell as pages. Russell G. Hemmenway, brother of the groom, was best man. Rev. Walter H. Commons, pastor of Whitinsville Congregational Church, officiated.

The couple after an extended tour will make their home in Worcester, where the groom is in business.

Miss Penard is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Nagel of Lausanne, Switzerland. She is a graduate of the Boston City Hospital Training School, and at the outbreak of the war volunteered her services to the American Red Cross, and served a year in France with Base Hospitals 7 and 120.

Mr. Hemmenway is the eldest son of Mrs. Frederick M. Hemmenway of Newton Centre and the late Dr. Hemmenway, who was for many years Professor of Prosthetic Dentistry at the Tufts College Dental School.

The groom served overseas with the 101st Engineers in the 26th Division, and met the bride in Base Hospital No. 7, where he was taken into her ward when he was wounded at Verdun during the closing days of the war.

ZAHNER-BENNETT

The Church of the Messiah in Auburndale was the scene of a very attractive wedding last Saturday afternoon when Miss Barbara Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Crocker Bennett of Weston, was united in marriage to Mr. Louis Cappel Zahner of Adams. Mr. Zahner is a graduate of Yale.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Endicott Peabody of Groton assisted by the Rev. Percival Wood of Auburndale. The church was decorated with pinks and evergreens for the occasion, and Mr. Twining Lines, organist at the Groton School, played an interesting program.

The bride wore a wedding gown of heavy corded silk and old lace which had belonged to her aunt, and carried a bouquet of white bavaudia and swansonia. The maid of honor, Miss Rosamund Bennett, sister of the bride, wore a gown of jade green organdy, a bronze tulle hat, and carried light bavaudia.

The bridesmaids were Miss Alice G. Bremer of Chestnut Hill, and Miss Caroline Stevens of North Andover. They were dressed in pink organdie and bronze tulle hats and carried pink bavaudia. Charlotte and Lorraine Young, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. B. Loring Young of Weston, were charming as flower girls.

Cushing, Mr. Marcus Morton, Jr., Mr. Donald Geary, Mr. Warren Ransom, and Mr. Elliott Bunker, all classmates of the groom in college and three brothers of the bride, Messrs. ## FUNERAL OF MR. WALWORTH

The funeral of the late Arthur C. Walworth was held from his home in Newton Centre, Saturday afternoon. Because of his wide interests and many activities a large number of friends, relatives and associates were present, many of them coming from a distance. The pall bearers were:

The services were in charge of Rev. Edward M. Noyes, pastor of the First Church, assisted by Rev. William H. Cobb, Mr. D. Ralph McLean, organist and there were soprano solos, "Face to Face" and "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth." A beautiful effect was produced by a harp solo, "Nearer My God to Thee," after the benediction. The burial was in the Newton Cemetery.

Arthur C. Walworth, born in 1844, was a son of James J. Walworth, the founder of the Walworth Manufacturing Company, and a pioneer of the steam heating business in this country. He received from his father the best liberal education. Graduating from the Boston Latin School, he entered Yale College, graduating in the class of 1866, and received his technical training at the Lawrence Scientific School, Harvard, and the Ecole des Pontes et Chaussées, Paris. He entered upon the profession of mechanical engineering, and became one of the leading authorities on heating and ventilating during the years of greatest expansion of this business.

He was once the president of the National Association of Steam and Hot Water Engineers.

Although a tireless worker in his chosen profession, his activities and interests reached far beyond into the field of public and social service. Throughout his mature life a resident of the city of Newton, he was closely identified with the progress and welfare of the city. Perhaps his greatest service was his part in the securing of a large and beautiful tract of land for a public playground in Newton Centre, and this at a time when the value of playgrounds was little appreciated. He represented his city in the legislature in 1887-8.

He received by inheritance the full New England tradition of theology and religion, and accepted and practiced the Christian faith with a wonderfully intelligent appreciation, and with a mind open to the results of all modern scholarship. Knowing much of science and religion, he never found them in conflict, and the fruit of his religion was a life of spotless integrity in all the complications of modern large business. A member of the Congregational Church, he shared in the educational and missionary movements of his time.

He was long a trustee of Atlanta University, taking an active part in its progress. Versatile and intensely interested in art, music and letters, he lived a life of exceedingly broad relations, and not merely enjoyed these finer things but was a keen student of them and gave his best efforts to their progress. Making every moment of his life count, he often surprised his friends by his almost encyclopaedic knowledge of even abstruse subjects. Out of all his activities, he gathered devoted friends, but found his greatest joy in his love and affection for his family. Following are some of his many interests:

At Yale—a member of the Scroll and Key Society and D. K. E. and later an active class secretary; the Yale Alumni Fund; President of the Boston Yale Club; President of the National Association of Steam and Hot Water Engineers; President of the Malleable Iron Fittings Co.; President of the Walworth Construction and Supply Co.; Trustee of Atlanta University; Captain of Company C, Fifth Regiment, M. V. M.; Commander of Society of American Wars; Commander of Society of Founders and Patriots; Member of Society of Mayflower Descendants; Member of Society of Sons of the Revolution; an Incorporator of the University Club; Member of Boston Athenaeum, Engineers Club, Massachusetts Club Mechanical Engineers, Neighbors Club, Brae-Burn; Treasurer of First Church in Newton; Promoter and patron of Newton Centre Orchestra; President of Pomroy Home for Newton Children; Treasurer and past president of the Claffin Guard Veteran Association.

HE GOT THE JOB

Manager of factory: "You want a job as a sardine packer, do you?" Applicant, "Yes sir." Manager: "Have you had any experience?" Applicant, "Oh yes sir; I was conductor on the Newton-Brighton-Watertown trolley cars, and used to run during the rush hours." Manager: "You are hired at double pay."

EXCHANGES TO BE RENAMED

Owing to conflicts in the abbreviation of the names of telephone exchanges that will be used with the new mechanical switching system, the names of several exchanges in the Boston Metropolitan division must be changed preliminary to the opening of the Liberty machine switching exchange in 1921. These changes will be made gradually so that telephone users will become accustomed to the new names. The present plan is as follows:

With the issue of the telephone directory next fall the exchange name Bellevue will be changed to Parkway, Newton West to West Newton, Newton South to Centre Newton and Winthrop to Ocean.

At the same time the exchange name of all party lines in the Back Bay exchange will be changed to Copley, all party lines in the Haymarket exchange to Bowdoin, all party lines in the Richmond exchange to Blackstone, and all party lines in the Beach exchange to Dwyer. The present party line numbers will be retained, the change being only in the exchange names.

In the issue of the telephone directory which will be delivered in the spring of 1921 it is planned to change Cambridge to University, Medford to Mystic, Quincy to Granite and Wakefield to Crystal.

When the new Liberty exchange is opened in 1921, it will serve a part of the subscribers in the present Beach exchange, and a few subscribers in South Boston now served by the Fort Hill and Main exchanges. At that time the name of the Beach exchange will be changed to Hancock. At the same time the name of the Fort Hill exchange will be changed to India and the exchange name of party line subscribers in the Main exchange will be changed to Battery.

Following the opening of the Liberty exchange a new machine switching exchange, to be known as Aspinwall, will be opened in Brookline and will serve a part of the subscribers now connected with the Brookline exchange.

The necessity for these changes in exchange names is because of conflicts in the abbreviations of present exchange names, which abbreviations are necessary to the operation of the new mechanical system. On each telephone instrument connected with the new mechanically equipped exchanges there will be a dial with 10 finger holes, each hole containing one digit. Eight of these finger holes, from two to nine inclusive, will also contain three letters. On account of the operating features of the new system it is impracticable to have letters in the first and last holes on the dial. The letters "Q" and "Z" are therefore omitted from the dial because they appear infrequently in the letters of telephone exchange names in the United States.

The following arrangement shows how the letters will be placed on the dial, in combination with the digits:

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	0
A	D	G	J	M	P	T	W	O	Per
B	E	H	K	N	R	U	X	A	tor
C	F	I	L	O	S	V	Y

This arrangement of numbers and letters and the fact that in making a call from any telephone connected with any machine switching exchange only the first three letters of the exchange called will be used in operating the dial indicate why the changes in telephone exchange names must be made. For example, the change from Bellevue to Parkway is necessary because the first three letters in Bellevue are the same as the first three letters in Belmont and there would be nothing to distinguish a Bellevue call from a Belmont call. The name of Bellevue will be changed because it is not a separate municipality as is Belmont, and therefore, the change is less objectionable.

At present the three exchanges in Newton are called Newton North, Newton South and Newton West. The first three letters in each of these names conflict, as in the case of Bellevue, and for this reason Newton West will be changed to West Newton and Newton South to Centre Newton. Similarly, the first three letters in the names Winthrop and Winchester conflict and Ocean will be used for Winthrop.

The change from Cambridge to University will be made because the first three letters in Cambridge conflict with the first three letters in Canton, as shown in the table above; that is, the letters "M" and "N" are in the same dial hole and dialing "CAN." Furthermore, it is intended to open another exchange in Cambridge in about two years and a few years later the telephone development will probably require a third exchange in the city, so the change also anticipates changes that will be required by the expected rapid telephone growth in Cambridge.

By referring to the table showing the combinations of digits and letters on the dial, it will be seen that the

GALLAGHER-DUNPHY

The marriage of Miss M. Genevieve Dunphy, daughter of Mrs. Rose E. Dunphy of Derby street, West Newton, to Dr. Arthur I. Gallagher, son of Mr. Mathew Gallagher of Brookline, took place on Wednesday morning at St. Bernard's Church, the Rev. Father Keleher officiating.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe-de-chine and chintilly lace, and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas. The matron of honor, Mrs. John O'Halloran, sister of the bride, wore flowered French voile with a hat to match, and carried pink sweet peas.

The best man was Mr. William Murphy of Brookline, and the ushers were Mr. James Conley of Brookline, and Mr. John O'Halloran of Newton. After a wedding breakfast for relatives only, Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher started on their wedding journey to the White Mountains. On their return, they will live in Brookline.

The bride is a graduate of Radcliffe College and before her marriage, was a high school teacher at New Bedford. The groom is a well-known dentist of Brookline.

EDITORIAL

While the nominees of the Republican party for president and vice-president do not meet with universal favor, there is every reason for the belief that as the campaign progresses the sober common sense of the American people will get behind Harding and Coolidge and give them an overwhelming endorsement. The more study is given to the life and character of Mr. Harding, the more one admires the man, not only for what he has accomplished but for the clean, manly way in which he has met all the issues of life. He is a typical American citizen, and one of whom every American citizen can be proud.

The proposed location of an auxiliary pumping plant for the Water department on Ward street is meeting with vigorous protests from residents of that locality. While the objections advanced are largely sentimental and while the proposed plant should be entirely unobjectionable, there seems to be no good reason why, if there is an alternative plan, it should not be adopted, even if it does cost something more. That section of the city is becoming too valuable to ignore in matters of this kind, especially where the tax rate will not be affected as in this instance.

We have a feeling that the men who talk most about the way in which the so called "bosses" lead the Chicago convention by the nose, are the very men who would be unable to inform you who their local aldermen or representatives were. It ill becomes any one, who neglects their local politics to criticize those who do take an interest and who have the real interests of the country at heart.

The problem of meeting the increasing school population appears to be lost until the value of the Junior High School proposition has been further studied.

Let us have a safe and sane celebration of our great Independence Day.

cellent work under trying conditions

YOUR HOME

You doubtless feel that prices will be lower and therefore you will have an opportunity to buy at a lower price.

We wish to call attention, however, to the following facts:
According to the Dodge reports, residential building is $560,000,000 behind in New England at the present time and the program for building in 1920 is so far behind normal that at the end of 1920 New England will be $420,000,000 behind.

It is obvious that it will take many years to catch up to this building, and therefore the law of supply and demand will naturally make it more and more difficult to procure homes and apartments at reasonable figures.

In spite of these conditions we have many houses for sale at prices that have not been advanced since our level of 1915, and we are prepared to show costs and profits to all purchasers to prove that this office is not profiteering.

Our business is the supplying of homes to the better class.
If you are paying a rent of $50 or more we can show you that we can better your condition by purchasing from us.

If you have available $2000 or more, we can place you in your own home immediately.
If you have $200 or more in available cash we can get you started so that within a short time you will be in your own home by using your savings as you go along to purchase this home.

We cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of your getting started. So many put it off and never get started.

You can accomplish this result by selecting the location and paying in a convenient manner for the lot.

When you have this paid for, this office and the banks are ready to assist in the financing of the construction of your home. The banks are established for this purpose and the money they receive as deposits must be loaned.

Your rent money is making and will be making more and more for the real estate owner.

If you are the real estate owner you will make this profit for yourself.

In view of the expected lowering of prices and the obvious fact on account of the shortage of homes that this lowering of prices will be temporary only, we advise the purchase of the lot, the preparing of your plans and the securing of bids at the time of this temporary drop in building costs. If you wait, you will not be ready.

If you will be frank with us and let us know your wants in detail, we shall be glad to tell you what we can do for you without obligation on your part.

Our properties are located in the best residential sections of Brookline, Winchester and the Newtons.

A BUSINESS MAN FOR PRES- IDENT

Warren G. Harding, next President of the United States, will be the first business man by occupation to become President of the United States.

There have been 27 Presidents, holding the office of chief executive throughout a period of 131 years; all soldiers; lawyers; planters or publicists by profession; not a business man by occupation in the whole long line. Warren G. Harding will be the first business man and the first newspaper man to succeed to the office.

Yet the office of President deals with the biggest business concern on earth—the United States of America.
The American government is a great corporation in which a hundred and ten million people are stock holders.
From that corporation the people must draw dividends, or to it they must pay assessments. It deals vitially with the welfare of private trade and industry, upon which depends the material prosperity of all these millions. Yet until now, in all our century and a third of history, not one business man by occupation for the biggest business post on earth!

Under the present national administration the government has broken down completely on the business side. It was a Democratic senator who declared that under the present management every department had collapsed. Through lack of competent business direction the machinery of government has been so incompetently handled that the situation calls loudly for the service of a salvage corps. Waste, extravagance, incompetency, inefficiency have cost the people billions. They have heaped huge burdens of taxation on the backs of the people. They have undermined the faith of the people in their government. They nearly lost the war through the failure to furnish our soldiers at the front with proper equipment, and through a debauch of waste at home that brought inflation, profiteering, demoralization in public and private affairs, in its wake. These abuses, due to lack of business sense on the part primarily, of the President of the United States, still menace the very solvency and safety of the nation.

Along with all this break-down in the management of the nation's own business affairs, has been a totally wrong attitude on the part of government toward legitimate business enterprise, accompanied by an effort to make the government itself the universal employer and provider.
The machinery of government has been utilized, under the camouflage of war necessity, to politicize industry. More interested in politics than in business, for which the head of the administration confesses aristocratic scorn, the aim has been to build up the public payrolls and destroy the private payrolls of the country. We have had, as someone has well put it, too much of politics in business and too little of business in politics.

Out of this chaos comes loudly the call for the reconstructing hand of a real business man, one who has actually wrought in the field of practical business affairs. The answer to that call is the Republican nominee for President, Warren G. Harding who, in a typical American community, built a large and thriving business, under adverse conditions, from the ground up, and who, through years of actual contact with men and things in the business world, knows what business means and how it should properly be conducted.

There is a world of theories and words, and a world of things and deeds. Too many professing to be statesmen dwell in the former, and too often, charged with great responsibility, they make a mess of practical affairs. Warren G. Harding is a product of the school of practical experience; a graduate of "the university of hard knocks." The great business problems of government, now foremost because of the oppressive burdens of taxation, the vital necessity of reorganizing the government on a business basis, and the immediate need of giving to American business enterprise and American agriculture and American labor the encouragement essential to ward off widespread commercial calamity as the aftermath of war—these conditions call for a man in the Presidency who in the world of practical affairs has learned to deal with business problems in a business way.

And, so, in response to this immediate, pressing need, Warren G.
Harding will be the nation's first business man by occupation in the Presidency of the United States.—George B. Lockwood, in the National Republican.

Y. M. C. A. BASEBALL

The Newton Y. M. C. A. baseball team defeated the Boston Y. M. C. A. team at Norumbega Park last Saturday 14 to 12. It was a one sided game for seven innings during which time the locals piled up the big score of 12 to 2 after which the boys let up a bit. Boston took advantage of the situation and scored ten runs in the last two innings. Lane pitched good ball for Newton allowing but one hit in seven innings. Newton was strong at bat using up three of Boston's pitchers for 15 hits. Adams was the big hitter of the day connecting safely four times, one of which was a circuit clout. McDonald, the new short stop played a nice game and got one hit out of two chances.

The team as a whole played good ball and with another pitcher and Phil Newell back of the plate the team will go even better.

Saturday the team goes to Mansfield, and July 5 play Needham in the afternoon at Needham.

joining the fire were lined for great distance with all kinds of automobiles.

The strong west wind caused the Fire Department considerable anxiety.
The old Ross mill adjoined the Strangman property on the east, with a wooden storehouse close by. The department deserves great credit for saving both of these buildings as the burning mill was less than 75 feet from both these structures.

The mill was surrounded by piles of lumber, a considerable of which caught fire and is in a badly damaged condition.

Sparks from the fire caused roof fires at the following places, Daniel Gentile, 66 Lincoln road, Charles Maguire, 24 Crafts street, Michael O'Rourke, 26 Crafts street, John Mc-Grath, 70 Lincoln road and the Mc-Neill Corporation, Crafts street.
The damage is estimated to be from $25,000 to $30,000 and is understood to have been fully insured.

TECHNICAL HIGH SCHOOL

Miss Elizabeth Eaton of the Science Department has been granted a leave of absence for next year for study and travel. Her position will be filled by Mrs. Webster Chandler of Newton Centre.

Miss Page of the English and Commercial Departments and Mr. Busick of the Science Department have resigned to accept better positions.
At the present writing the new members of the faculty are to be:
Miss Sadie V. Johnstone of Attleboro High School in the English and Commercial Departments; Miss Hazel White of the Somerville High School in the Commercial Department; and Miss Margaret Gray, Wellesley College, Class 1920, who will teach some English and Science.

The postgraduate course in secretarial studies will be offered again next year with the opening of school on September 13th. Twenty high School and college graduates have already registered and there is opportunity for five more. Students who have taken this work during the past three years have completed the stenography, typewriting and office appliance courses in about seven months and have been very successful in obtaining desirable secretarial positions.

RAISES PAY—CUTS PRICE

Announcement has been made by the Boston Edison Company that an increase of 10 percent in pay has been granted to all employees, to take effect July 1. About 2200 employees are affected by the order. This is the fourth wage increase by the company as a result of the war and war conditions.

At the same time the company authorized a reduction in price to all of its retail lighting customers, which will affect 115,000 customers out of a total of 125,000. In November, 1918, the company made a flat increase of 10 percent to all of its customers. It now proposes to reduce this 10 percent to 5 percent to its retail lighting customers.

This reduction does not affect any other class of customers, nor does it affect the application of its coal clause, which will still be added to customers' bills.

It is expected that the directors of the company will meet soon to declare the regular 3 percent quarterly dividend.

BOARD OF TRADE OUTING

Complimentary remarks are frequently heard on the class of waiters employed at the Westminister Hotel—whether in the big family dining room, Winter Garden, "Tommy"
Mack's grill room or on the "Roof."
Uniformly courteous and with a genuine desire to please each individual patron, these men are expert food salesmen rather than service or su-percilious waiters. They are loyal to their employer, helpful and cheerful to the guest who is ordering a meal, or when it is being served and as a result the service is appreciated and commented upon most favorably.

Object of the Truest Artists.

It would appear to be the object of the truest artists to give permanence to images such as we should always desire to behold, and might behold without agitation; while the inferior branches of design are concerned with the acuter passions which depend on the turn of a narrative, or the course of an emotion.—Ruskin.

For Musical Beginners.

Builders of modern flats might well take a hint from a unique feature in Buckland's hotel in Brook street, now undergoing transformation to accommodate the new Guards club. This was a suite of "sound-proof" rooms called the "Handel suite," after the composer, who lived and died in Brook street, for the use of musically inclined visitors. This admirable arrangement enabled amateurs of such distressing instruments in the hands of the novice as the piccolo or the bagpipes to practice without disturbing their fellow-guests.—London Times.

Snowballing in Summer.

On the hottest day of the year in Chicago, with the mercury 98 degrees above zero, a crowd of boys on East Austin avenue amused themselves by throwing snowballs made from a drift of snow that steadily increased in size until it was more than three feet deep. The snow was being scraped from the pipes of a refrigerating company, on which it collects sometimes to a depth of six inches. It is scraped off every day.

SOLDIERS LIKED THE PRINCE

Heir to British Throne Fond of Mingling
With the Fighters, When He Was Permitted.

In the front lines a Canadian soldier was building a few one cold night of late autumn. Out of the night behind him came a footstep. He turned, and became doubly alert when he saw that the man was not an officer of his regiment. The visitor approached the blaze, held his hands out over it and said:

"This fire certainly looks good to me."

The tone was pleasant enough, and suspicion was almost unaroused when the voice went on:

"Have you wood enough? If you haven't I'll get you some more."

The fire builder felt some regret that any suspicion whatever remained, but there had been a special warning against strangers not of one's own regiment. In response to it he was about to question the newcomer closely, when an officer whom he did know came within the firelit circle and addressed the stranger:

"Your royal highness, it is best that you return to the automobile at once."

And the prince of Wales reluctantly left the fire and returned to the place where he officially belonged. It was not the first time he had left that place of his own accord and gone forward among the men. The Canadian who tells the story learned afterward that the prince's staff had its hands full to keep him from breaking away from the official circle prescribed for him and mingling with the men on their own ground.

MUST HAVE ENVIED COMRADES

Pathetic Happening in English Court That Marked the Observance of Armistice Day.

The great clocks of London boomed out eleven strokes. The city became as silent as though it were a second Pompeii miraculously swept clean of its ashes. Motor cars and tram cars creaked to sudden stops. Policemen stood like graven blue images at their posts. Pedestrians doffed their hats and stood as though they had not known motion for centuries. It was Armistice day and the city was doing honor to those youths who had experienced the Great Adventure.

In a dingy courtroom a murder trial came to a sudden halt. Judge, counsel, witnesses and the prisoner stood, and for two minutes, with bowed head, did silent reverence to those poppy-wreathed graves of France. Before the prisoner flickered visions of that same France only one year before. He again saw the faces of comrades he had loved and whom he had watched in the throes of death. Incidents of that last desperate sprint across No Man's Land, with death on every side, came back to him. Again he heard the shout with which the trenches had greeted the armistice. He had come safely through, and now—

The two minutes ended. The city came out of its trance. The somber voice of the judge resumed—"and shall hang by the neck until dead."

Poison Gas to Fight Squirrels.

Experiments in the use of poison gas in exterminating grain-eating ground squirrels are under way, according to a report of the county horticultural commission to the Los Angeles board of supervisors.

At the same time it was announced that Los Angeles county has sold its surplus stock of saccharine and strychnine to Orange county in order that the neighboring county can join in the campaign being waged against the destructive ground squirrels.

According to Horticultural Commissioner Ryan, the use of poison gas is necessary at this time because the squirrels, which have been practically eliminated from the worst affected regions in the county by the use of poisons during the past few months, fail to eat the poison at this time, preferring the new vegetable growth.

Bird Preserve Planned.

The proposal to establish an extensive wild-bird preserve on the northern shore of Lake Erie is gaining wide favor in Canada. Something must be done at once, it is urged by bird lovers, to preserve the wild fowl and insectivorous birds, or they will become as extinct as the wild pigeon. There are strict game regulations in the province, but the establishment of a large preserve would assist the legislation. There is already a nucleus of the proposed area in Rondeau park, and it is planned to extend this along the lake shore west for 30 miles.

London Cats Victims of Plague.

The outbreak of a disease, which has many symptoms to influenza, is causing the death of cats by the hundred in London.

The disease is not thought to be communicable to human beings, but distinguished surgeons are unable to confirm the exact nature. It spreads with amazing rapidity, and the symptoms are said to resemble closely that of poisoning, except that death usually takes place within two days.

Plan Memorial for Poe.

Taking as its inspiration a suggestion of Blasco Ibanez, the Spanish novelist, the Bronx Society of Art and Science has decided to erect a memorial in honor of Edgar Allan Poe, whose cottage in Poe park, the Bronx, Senor Ibanez visited the other day. The Spanish writer started the fund with a contribution of $100.—New York Times.

ROME TAKES BACK ITS OWN

Demolition of Pretentious German Embassy in Eternal City Has a Deep Significance.

Today on the Capitoline, the smallest geographically, but historically the most important of the famous seven hills of Rome, there is the sound of hammering, the fall of masonry. Here, for many centuries, was centered the religious and political activity of the Roman empire, and here in the last half century Germany had established herself imperially, residually. In the Palazzo Caffarelli, built near the site of the great temple of Jupiter, consecrated in B. C. 509, was the German embassy, with the throne of the emperor of Germany. Near at hand was the German Archaeological institute, within its garden the famous Tarpeian rock, to be visited of recent years only by obtaining the key of the gate from the German authorities. On the piazza, Romulus is said to have founded his asylum and here in the centuries before the Christian era, as in the middle ages, Rome had the seat of her government. It was here that from house to house, from terrace to terrace, Germany up to the year 1914 was steadily spreading her domains. The statue of Marcus Aurelius by Michael Angelo was in the piazza of the Capitoline, so also were those of Constantine and his son, but there was room for others. Today, however, the Palazzo Caffarelli with its sixteenth-century architectural beauties, and its Teutonic decorations, is being removed from the capital in carts. The authorities have decided that this seventh hill of Rome belongs to the past of Italy and they seek beneath the floors of the German embassy further foundations of the great temple of Jupiter built by Tarquin the superb, that other last of the kings.

LANGUAGE ENRICHED BY WAR

English Newspaper Comments on Addition of American Slang to the Ordinary Vocabulary.

An enterprising publishing firm has issued a post-war English dictionary which professes to contain words that came into use during the war. It might have saved some perplexity on the part of the Willesden magistrate who was told by a witness last week that a man in the case was "all poshed up," and that a certain turn of events "put the kybosh on him." "Poshed up" recalls dreadful things to the demobilized man, for how many weary hours has he not spent in "poshing up" for parades and inspections? To "posh up" means, of course, to make oneself look smart. In civilian life it means speciously polished boots, starched collar, neatly pressed trousers, carefully brushed hair, and a shining morning face. In the army it meant buckles, buttons and cap badge polished to distraction, leather equipment with a supergloss, and well "blancoed" haversack and valise (khaki color, of course). And for the man "warned for guard" behind the lines or in camp at home there was always the hope that by "poshing up" to the nth degree he might escape duty, the prize awarded by the inspecting officer to the smartest man paraded. As for "kybosh," the word is familiar enough to the music-hall public. The extinguisher puts the "kybosh" on the candle, and the allies, in the words of a war-time song, "put the kybosh on the kaiser."—Manchester Guardian.

The Ambidexterity.

The art of ambidexterity, or the usage of both hands, is an extremely practical accomplishment, and one involving not only mechanical skill, but a certain amount of will and brain power.

A society for the cultivation of the left hand was started some time ago in London, but the scheme never had sufficient backing to flourish. Now the French Academy of Medicine is advocating that school children be taught to write with the left hand as well as the right.

One curious point concerns the cult of the left hand, an eminent physician having stated that it tends eventually to increase lunacy. The notion has, however, been contested by other medical men, and the head master of Eton suggests that the further usage of the left hand develops certain organs of the brain which otherwise lie dormant.

Find Color Photo Process.

A secret emulsion, invented by a Russian professor, which, it is asserted, will make color photography possible for everybody, is about to be introduced into this country, says the London Times. The problem of making the process capable of snapshot as well as time work is claimed to have been overcome, and the exposure can be as rapid as with the ordinary emulsion, thus fitting the invention for moving-picture work also.

Special cameras and plates will be on the market shortly, and the cost of a colored film is expected to be only 15 to 20 per cent higher than the ordinary black and white type.

Just the Man!

While at a dance one evening I made the acquaintance of a young man who asked to take me home. While talking about different things, we came upon the subject of religion. He told me he was quite a church member and had attended church regularly. My folks being rather religious themselves, I said, without thinking: "You are just the kind of a son-in-law my people are looking for." Then I woke up and tried to square myself.—Exchange.

GARDEN NEWS

What will we do with our vegetables that have been injured by that awful hail storm? This is the question coming to the writer repeatedly, because of the tremendous amount of damage done by the hail storm of a week ago. Where potatoes, tomatoes, beans and other vegetables having large leaves have the foliage badly shredded and broken off, it is always a question whether it is wise to try to save or plow under and replant. The writer has seen potatoes in home gardens that have been badly injured which have been cut off with a scythe and the plants have outgrown the trouble and come through with a good crop of vegetables. On the other hand, many potato plants have been seen which have not come through, they never seemed to quite catch up.

At any rate, whatever the vegetable may be, if one is going to attempt to save it, it is wise to remove some of the worst of the injured section of the plant and then feed the plant with a quickly available form of nitrogen, such as nitrate of soda, sulphate of ammonia, hen manure or sheep manure. All injured vegetables should be hoed even more frequently than those which have not been injured and those vegetables which are susceptible to disease should be sprayed even more carefully. When a leaf is injured, the spores and fungi have an excellent avenue of entry to the plant, therefore, the reason for keeping plenty of Bordeaux mixture upon the foliage.

Make Bordeaux Mixture

There are a lot of brands of prepared Bordeaux mixture upon the market, but very few of them contain sufficient copper to equal the strength found necessary to do effective work in controlling spores and fungi. The correct formula is what is known as the 4-4-50. This means 4 pounds of copper sulphate, 4 pounds caustic lime and 50 gallons water. Put upon a basis such as a home gardener would use, it is at the rate of 1-3 ounce of copper sulphate, 1-3 ounce caustic lime to 1 gallon water. It is not difficult to make this mixture, and it can be made at home very much cheaper than it can be purchased already made. The correct method is to dissolve the copper in a wooden or glass receptacle by placing the copper sulphate in a little cloth bag and suspending from the top of the receptacle. It is important to do this rather than let it go into the receptacle at the bottom. In another wooden or glass receptacle the caustic lime is slaked by adding a little water. Sufficient water is added to each solution so that they will total two quarts each. These are now poured into the spray pump and thoroughly mixed. They should be poured in at the same time, or else the lime water poured in first with the copper sulphate second. This may seem like quite a chore, but if one will try it once, it will be found that it is not a difficult procedure and that the mixture will do excellent work in keeping blight from potatoes, cucumbers, musk melons and tomatoes. Later in the season it should be used upon celery.

Succession Planting

Some vegetables have been harvested in the garden and the gardener should see to it that the space formerly occupied by these vegetables is planted to some other crop. Spinach, radish, lettuce and early peas in many gardens have been harvested. The question arises as to just what may be safely planted as late as the present time. Shell beans may be planted up to July 1st, and string beans up to July 10th in ordinary years with safety. Beets and carrots for winter use may be sown as late as the middle of July and very satisfactory results obtained. Cress lettuce is an excellent variety to set during the summer months as it withstands the heat better than the other varieties. Cauliflower plants may be put in for early preserving work, likewise cabbage plants.

Wake Up the Slow Growing Vegetables

Home gardeners find oftentimes that even though the garden is fertilized uniformly, certain portions of the rows or the field will not grow vegetables as rapidly as others. These backward vegetables may be prodded along by the addition of nitrate of soda, hen manure or sheep manure.

MARSH-COBB

LIFE

Like a school is this life of ours,
We pass from grade to grade,
And as the years go swiftly by,
Small seems the progress made.

We con some lessons o'er and o'er,
So slow to understand
The rules that we all must follow,
Marked by the Master's hand.

Each morning we turn to a page,
That is spotless and white;
The day begins with hope and joy,
Failures are marked by night.

But is this all? Oh no, not all!
Sometime to us will come
The blessed "rest that remaineth,"
For God's children at home.

Lessons then will all be ended,
Sorrow forever past;
Hearts once sad be reunited,
With loved ones, "Home at last."

S. Evelyn Thompson.

NORUMBEGA PARK—"The Courage of Madge O'Doone", a film play of remarkable intensity and power which scored a big success during its Metropolitan run will be the feature of the big musical and motion picture program in the open air theatre at Norumbega Park for the first three days of the week beginning Monday July 5. The last three days of the feature will be "Rio Grande" a picture of the famous melodrama. Performances are given both afternoon and evening, and on Sundays there are concerts both evenings and afternoon. Dancing in the fine restaurant is proving one of the most popular attractions of this favorite summer amusement ground.

Is your Kitchen Cool and Comfortable?

You can't have a cool, comfortable kitchen if you keep a fire burning all day.

The New Perfection Oil Cook Stove gives you controlled heat when you want it—a high, blue flame with white tips (the hottest flame for fast cooking) or a low, even flame for simmering. Just turn the handle—that's all.

Then, too, all the drudgery that goes with coal hods, ashes and soot is abolished from the cooler, cleaner kitchens where the New Perfection is used.

The New Perfection Oil Cook Stove comes in 1, 2, 3 and 4-burner sizes. 3,000,000 users like it because it means a sure fuel saving.

For your further convenience—the New Perfection Water Heater. Hot running water at a very moderate cost. Ask your dealer.

GARDEN NEWS

Cut Worms Bad in Gardens

Cut worms are again raising havoc where no means have been taken to combat them. Reports continue to come in of the vast amount of damage being done. Poison bait should be sprinkled around plants such as beets, lettuce, beans, etc., in the evening. This poison bait is made by mixing together 1 quart of bran, or any coarse flour to be found about the house, 1 ounce of white arsenate of paris green, 3 pints water and 1 pint of molasses. A little lemon or orange juice added to the mixture doubles the value of it as it helps in attracting the cut worms.

Cabbage Root Maggots

Cabbage root maggots, judging by reports coming to the office of the writer have been more serious this year than ever before. There is nothing practical that can be done at this stage of the growth, as the maggots are in the stems and about the roots in the soil. One should make plans to prevent trouble from maggots rather than kill the maggots after they are in the garden. The adult flies lay the eggs about the stems fairly early in the season. A common means of control for these pests is that of placing a tarred paper disc around the stem of each cabbage plant when it is set out. The disc should fit tightly so as to prevent the cabbage maggot fly from getting down into the soil near the stem where they lay the bulk of their eggs. A common practice among commercial growers is to go to a gas-electric plant and purchase gas tar. This gas tar is mixed with sand and a little of the mixture is dropped by each cabbage plant. Both methods are effective because of the repellent influence of the fumes from the tar, the flies do not seem to like it.

Grape Plume Moth

Backyard gardeners are asking what the insect is that is rolling the leaves at the end of the grape growth. This white fuzzy caterpillar is the grape plume moth. There is no practical way of controlling it except by opening up the leaves and killing the insect. If one tried to kill it by spraying it would be necessary to spray every few days.

Cultivate the Garden

The hard, long rain of last week, packed the soil down so that every bit of the garden should be hoed over. A light dust mulch should be maintained upon the surface soil throughout the growing season.

MANKIND AS PORTRAYED IN BOOKS

"The most interesting study for mankind is just folks", said a prominent business man in a recent address on the importance of good reading as a business asset. "Aside from our daily correspondence," he continues, "we learn about people through such books as novel, drama, poetry and histories, including biographies." The biographies of today do not as of old, give only the dates of a man's birth and death with a chronological account of his performances in the interim; they treat the cycle of life as a masterpiece, so that the whole is a tale at times resembling a thrilling adventure or war story, or a tragedy, and again more pastoral or domestic in atmosphere—yet always vibrant with reality. They are encouraging in their accounts of the very human qualities of great men and of the average man's potentiality. A discovery of the way in which others have met situations basically similar to one's own is also enlightening. As has been pointed out, novels, poetry, and drama in their universalizing of human experience, serve the same purpose of broadening our horizon. Not only is the more serious value of such books to be considered but there is also the pure enjoyment of a tale, in plot simple or intricate as our mood directs and in style charming.

During the vacation days as one strolls away to a favorite nook what is more friendly than a well chosen book and on stormy evenings when the whole clan gathers about a crackling fire, what is warmer than a thrilling tale read aloud?

FRANK A. DAY CAMP OPENS

A happy group of boys boarded the 9:30 train at Newtonville last Friday morning bound for the Frank A. Day Camp at East Brookfield, Mass. Through the courtesy of Mr. H. M. Biscoe, vice-president of the B. & A. Railroad, a special car was attached to the train. Mr. F. Edgar Doubleday was in charge of the party.

The boys had such a good time singing and getting acquainted that the ride of an hour and a half seemed short but all were ready for the hike to Camp and the big dinner which the Chef had prepared for the first day in Camp.

Mr. A. T. Leary, the camp director, and the councillors were waiting to assign the boys to their places.

The following boys are now at camp. Others will follow later. Dwight Colburn, William T. Harper, John Wales, Anthony Gleason, Hayward Woolston, George Wrye, William R. Richards, Jr., Robinson Heath, Roland Burbank, Phillips and Franklin Hoyt, Ronald A. Jameson, Warren Robinson, Theodore Robinson, Franco Montanari, James Colton, Julian Byrne, Ward Schoenfeld, Chester Harris, Francis Tower, William B. ## MRS. LORD WRITES OF FRANCE

Mrs. Myra B. Lord of Newton, former State Regent of the Daughters of the Revolution, now living in Paris with her son and daughter, writes an interesting letter of conditions in and about Paris. The following is an extract from her letter: "It is frightfully expensive living in Paris under any conditions, and while we are living in a strictly modern apartment according to French ideas, the lack of what we consider essentials is appalling. You would love the fancy needlework that is so lavishly displayed here. All doors are the big double French style, and each has its elaborate curtain of embroidered linen strips of fllet, and three or four different kinds of lace for garniture."

"* * * You should see the little tots in their gala array—such wonderful lace and embroidered gowns. Paris is the most fascinating and beautiful city I ever saw. You would also laugh at the toy engines and cars they call trains over here. The other day as we passed one with its tiny whistle tooting shrilly, Kenneth (her son who is chief of Territory Division and has charge of automobiles) said, 'Won't it seem good to hear a real honest-to-goodness train again.'"

She continues, "We have been in Verdun, Rheims, Laon, Lille, Chateau-Thierry and many other places we learned of during the war. We rode for miles through villages and towns without a house standing and the handful of people who are left are living in the veriest shacks built out of army refuse. One night at St. Quentin I slept in a hotel that had been headquarters of the German officers. Only a few rooms were habitable and the kitchen had been shot away, so that we had to go a block away to find anything to eat."

"* * * A great deal is made of Memorial Day over here. One of the largest cemeteries is at Romagne where twenty-six thousand of our boys are sleeping. The majority of them victims of the Argonne Forest conflict which raged only a few kilometers away. The only village is a ruin and as you come in sight up from the valley the cemetery looks like a field of snow on the hillside with the long rows of white crosses, and the American flag waving over it by day. We arrived just at sunset when the gun is fired and the flag lowered as at a military post. The cemetery is beautifully kept and the grounds around it are arranged in terraces and will be very lovely when the trees and shrubs are grown. Every American grave I have seen has been well kept; the stories of neglect and desecration are propaganda of the worst sort."

MORE WAGES DEMANDED

The employees of the Middlesex Street Railway have filed a petition with the officials making a new wage demand, in which they ask for 75 cents an hour for the first three months and 80 cents for the next nine months, with a maximum of 85 cents thereafter. They also want an eight hour day.

This is in contrast to working from 9 to 11 hours now, they say and seven days a week. The present pay is 45 cents the first three months, 50 cents the next nine and 55 cents the maximum.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. H. Lichliter of Central Church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Jay T. Stocking of Upper Montclair, N. J.

The bride wore a georgette crepe gown over ivory taffeta and a veil of tulle and rose point lace. She carried a bouquet of white sweet peas and orchids. The matron of honor, Mrs. A. A. Highlands of Brookline, sister of the bride, wore a gown of pink satin covered with lace and carried pink sweet peas and rosebuds. ## EXTERMINATING RATS BY POISON

In exterminating rats either by poisoning or by trapping it is important to bear in mind that success depends largely on the degree to which the removal of other foods makes the poisoned bait or the bait in the traps attractive to the rat. A variety of poisons may be used, barium carbonate, phosphorus, arsenic, and others, but even with an efficient poison, failure often results through lack of attention to details.

How to use barium carbonate.
I. Kind of Bait. Three or more kinds of bait should be used. Each must be mixed separately with barium carbonate. One kind of bait from each of the collagen classes should be used.

(1) Meat or other animal substance; such as Hamburg steak, sausage, canned salmon, eggs or oysters.
(2) Fresh fruit or vegetable food; such as, cantaloupe, tomatoes, green corn, baked sweet potatoes, bananas, etc.

(3) Miscellaneous foods, milk or cheese, peanut butter, bread, cake, cereals (raw or cooked).

II. How to Mix. The barium carbonate must be thoroughly mixed with the bait, so that the rats cannot eat the smallest portion of the bait without getting some of the barium carbonate. In the case of such substances as Hamburg steak, cheese, etc., use one part of barium carbonate to 4 parts of bait. Mix thoroughly with a spoon.

Substances which cannot be thoroughly mixed with barium carbonate as just described (for example, cantaloupe, tomatoes, etc.) should be cut into small pieces and thoroughly covered with barium carbonate, and then worked in with a knife.

III. How to Set Poison. The three kinds of bait, prepared as above, should be divided into small portions about a teaspoonful each and placed freely about premises, alternating baits 1, 2, 3. It should be set at short intervals, not over ten or fifteen feet. Do not mix the Different Kinds of Bait with Each Other.

IV. General Instruction. The morning after baiting, look for dead rats and remove them. Take up baits. Examine these so as to see which have attracted most rats. If any kind of bait has not been touched, use a different kind of bait instead of this. Fresh bait should be used each night.
V. How Often to Bait. Bait every night, as long as rats continue to eat bait.

VI. Caution. Keep fowls, dogs, cats, etc. away from bait. Antidote. An emetic, followed by Rochelle or Epsom salts.

FREE FIGHT

Because she fired several shots from a revolver during a free fight that resulted from a neighborhood quarrel on Cottage place, West Newton, last week, Mrs. Mary Gorgone, thirty-two years old, was fined $200 in the Newton court Friday for unlawfully carrying a loaded revolver. In addition, she received a suspended sentence at Sherborn for assault with a dangerous weapon on Peter Casella. The woman appealed from the fine.

Her husband, Sebastiano Gorgone, together with Casella and Salvatore Gorgone, were each sentenced to the House of Correction for a month for disturbance and sentence was then suspended in each case. Filippo Gorgone was convicted of a similar offence and his case placed on file. The police declare that if they had arrested all those concerned in the fight the station house could not have accommodated them. The woman contended that she fired into the air to attract the police, but testimony showed that she aimed at Casella.

CITY HALL

The following bids were opened last Friday by the Street Commissioner for building 3000 linear feet of vitrified pipe drain in Parker Street between Dedham Street and Boylston Street.

Antony Cefalo, Roslindale, $11,610.00; James Barletta, West Roxbury, $11,702.50; E. C. Sargent, Quincy, $11,782.50; A. Palladino, Newton Highlands, $11,813.50; A. Baruffaldi, Somerville, $12,411.25; J. Williams & Co., Boston, $12,990.00; D. D. Pietro, Boston, $16,208.50.

POLITICAL NOTES

Middlesex County will have 524 seats in the Republican state convention to be held September 18th in Boston, this number being an increase of 145 over the delegation of last year.

Newton will have 39 delegates, apportioned as follows, Wards 2, 5 and 6, seven delegates each, Ward 1, three, Ward 3, six, Ward 4, four and Ward 7, five. Newton's delegation is only exceeded in numbers by Lowell, 56, Somerville 54 and Cambridge 51.

DEATH OF MRS. WADE

Mrs. Margaret C. Wade, the widow of the late Hon. Levi C. Wade, a former president of the Massachusetts State Senate, and for many years a well known resident of the Upper Falls and Oak Hill section of this city died on Sunday at her home in Middleton, Mass.

She was born in Bath, Me., 73 years ago, the daughter of Hon. William and Mrs. Lydia (Elliott) Rogers. Her father was a shipbuilder of Bath and Boston. She was married in 1869 to Mr. Wade and they settled in Newton, where Mr. Wade was a teacher at the Upper Falls schools.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Wade were prominent socially in Newton, as well as abroad, where Mrs. Wade lived for several years. Since Mr. Wade's death, she had resided in Middleton. Three sons surviving Mrs. Wade are: Arthur C. Wade of New Hampshire; William R. Wade, a consulting mining engineer, of Edwards, N. Y., and Levi C. Wade, a manufacturer of machinery, in Lynn.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in the chapel of the Newton Cemetery. Rev. Edward T. Sullivan officiated.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Citizens of Newton:

When Senator Thos. Weston announced that he would not seek a renomination this fall the report was circulated that I was going to be a candidate to succeed him. This report is not true. Let me say in reply to it that my renomination papers for Representative were circulated ten days ago and have already been filed at City Hall. Inasmuch as there has been some dispute as to whether the Senatorial Candidate should come from Newton or from the western part of the district, it seems to me that for the sake of party harmony the western end of the district should have the honor of nominating the candidate. If the Republican party expects to win this fall, local contests should be discouraged.

DEATH OF MRS. JAMIESON

Mrs. Ida Derby Jamieson, the wife of Mr. Joseph Boardman Jamieson, died quite suddenly at her home on Eldredge street, Newton on Wednesday, following a long period of failing health.

Her death was unexpected, however, and as recently as the holiday, Mrs. Jamieson went by automobile with members of her family to Bass Rocks, Gloucester, and on her return to her home seemed to be in her usual health.

Mrs. Jamieson was born in Warren, R. L. and was the daughter of the late Dr. Parson H. Derby and Edith (Holt) Derby. Her father, Dr. Derby, practised dentistry in Springfield for more than half a century, removing to that city from Rhode Island when his daughter was a very small child and her life, through girlhood and up to the time of her marriage, in 1883, was spent in Springfield. She married Joseph Boardman Jamieson, who was a native of Exeter, N. H., but who at the time of their marriage lived in New York, where he took his wife to reside. Their wedding was in St. James' Episcopal Church in Cambridge. In 1900 they came from New York to Newton and that city had been since then their home.

Mrs. Jamieson, despite the condition of her health, kept in active touch with current events. She was of literary tastes. Surviving her, in addition to her husband, are two sons, Philip S. Jamieson and Joseph B. Jamieson, Jr., and a daughter, Miss Edith Jamieson.

DEATH OF MRS. FLAGG

Mrs. Julia C. Flagg, whose death occurred Wednesday in the Newton Hospital, succumbed to the effects of a second paralytic stroke which she had about ten days ago, following an earlier one about a month ago. After the second attack, she was taken to the hospital, from her home on Pleasant street, Newton Centre, and immediately placed upon the danger list. She was born in Chelsea. During her long residence in Newton she had been active in the work of the Unitarian parish. Mrs. Flagg, who was formerly Miss Julia Clark, is survived by a sister, Mrs. Howard Thorne of Rutherford, N. J., who was before her marriage Miss Louise Clark.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow and the burial will be at Woodlawn Cemetery.

JULY FOURTH

The holiday in Newton was exceptionally quiet. No serious accidents being recorded, no fires of importance and only a few arrests for drunkenness.

Newton Centre was the only section that held a Community celebration, and strange to say, there were two of them in this village. The Improvement Association carried out an elaborate program on the playground, including sports and games for the children, band concert by Teel's Band and a fine display of fireworks which numbered many unusual set pieces.

The winners in the sports were as follows:

Three Legged Race, Girls—1st, P. L. Buxbaum and Madeline Kavorkin; 2nd, the Burns sisters. Boys—1st, Kavorkin and Giles; 2nd, Vaughn and Palmer.

40-Yard Dash, Girls—1st, C. Smith; 2nd, M. Varney. Boys, 1st, Miller; 2nd, Ryall.

Obstacle Race, Girls—1st, Madeline Kavorkin; 2nd, Catherine Sullivan. Boys, 1st, Miller; 2nd, Buxbaum.

Hobble Race, Girls—1st, M. Degeive; 2nd, M. Varney. Boys—1st, Ryall; 2nd, Darling.

60-Yard Dash—Girls, 1st, Catherine Sullivan; 2nd, L. Buxbaum.

Boys—1st, Miller; 2nd, Chase. The prizes consisted of cuff links, pins, flash lights, scout pins, silver pencils, and butterfly racquets.

Dr. West, on the spur of the moment, offered a prize of $5.00 for fat man's race. Weight over 200 pounds. Dr. Edward R. Andrews, "Pop" Powers and Sergeant Desmond entered the race and the prize was won by Desmond.

In Thompsonville the Italian residents held a parade, music by Libba's Band of Chelsea, and a display of Italian fireworks which proved unusually interesting.

The Brae Burn Country Club had its usual fine fireworks display in the evening, before and after which there was a darts on the bowling green. Many members entertained at dinner in the Club before the entertainment.

Children and Malaria.

Dr. C. C. Bass of New Orleans, the great authority on malaria, says that in this disease the dose of quinine for children less than one year old is one-twentieth of the adult dose, and from one to fifteen it is one-tenth of the adult dose.

GARDEN NEWS

We must control the lice of they will "can" our vegetables for us. A previous story told the lice situation, but gardeners have not watched their gardens carefully and the result now is that the gardens in all too many cases are being eaten up by these little aphids or lice. It is very difficult to hit these insects with spray material when the foliage starts curling. One should spray the under surface of the foliage with a fine mist of nicotine sulphate and soap, just as soon as the lice first make their appearance. If this has not been done yet, it should be done now upon many of the vegetables. Lice will be found on radishes, turnips, cucumbers, carrots, parsnips, lettuce and most of the other vegetables. Parsnips seem to be most badly infested this year.

Those gardeners who have a three gallon tank would do well to have made an angle elbow for use on the end of their short extension rod so that they can stand up straight and still spray upwards, thus reaching the under surface of the foliage. Soap should always be added to Black Leaf 40 when it is used alone. The usual suggestion is to use 1½ teaspoons of Black Leaf 40 and one cubic inch of soap to one gallon of water. The soap helps as a spreader and stickler for the material.

FILL IN VACANCIES
The writer has been visiting gardens in the eastern part of the county recently and finds that the majority of the gardeners have had trouble getting a good stand this year; there are lots of skips in their rows. These should be filled in just as soon as discovered. It has cost about so much per square foot to prepare the soil and fertilize the soil for the crop which will be entirely lost if the garden is not too late to put in string beans and an early variety of sweet corn can still be safely planted this week. Cabbage, Kohlrabi, cauliflower, winter beets also may be set or planted at this time.

WATCH OUT FOR TWO DISEASES
Cucumbers and muskmelons sometimes have mysterious complaints and get the dying habit without any apparent cause. The two commonest of these ailments are "wilt" and "downy mildew." The latter is the most destructive pest in the way of a plant disease that hits the cucumbers, as the members of the family are known. It is a fungus disease and Bordeaux mixture is the remedy. It is an excellent idea to be on the safe side and give the cukes and melons a good spraying with Bordeaux as soon as they start to run. It is much easier than attacking the disease after it appears.

The symptoms are angular spots on the leaves, which at first are not well defined but later assume distinct form, the older leaves turning yellow and the small leaves at the ends of the vine going last. The underside of the leaves will show a faint purplish covering on these spots. This pest often does not appear at all. Again it will raise havoc. It generally appears the latter half of the summer. It is a good plan to use a little preventive.

"Wilt," just as its name denotes, is a general droop of the foliage of the vine which dies without any apparent good reason. An insect carries this spore which causes the trouble by clogging the veins of the plant. Bordeaux with some arsenate in combination is the remedy for this trouble.

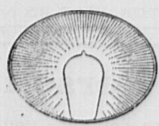

Leaf blight sometimes attacks muskmelons and makes short work of them. It appears in the shape of round spots which rapidly increase in size. Bordeaux spraying is the remedy.

A wise gardener will spray his melons and cucumbers once every ten days with Bordeaux mixture as soon as they begin to make vines. The young growth should be sprayed with care. Whole crops may be saved by this preventive work.

STOP CUTTING ASPARAGUS
Ordinary years, commercial gardeners as well as home gardeners do not cut their asparagus much later than the latter part of June. This year the season has been a little late and growers have planned to cut through the 4th of July demand. By the end of this week there will be practically no commercial growers who think anything of their asparagus plants, cutting. Home gardeners should follow this practice. It is well to add a liberal application of quickly available fertilizer, or else a lot of hen manure or sheep manure in order that the plants may recover from the strain placed upon them during the cutting season and grow a large root system for the coming year.

Origin of the Jazz Band.

The jazz band idea, according to a French paper, originated in the time of the Directory. At the concerts of the Cat orchestra were twenty cats, heads in a row on the keyboard of a harpsichord. The performer by striking the keys pulled the cats' tails, causing a caterwauling which sounded like a jazz band.

SOME CURRENT MAGAZINE ARTICLES OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Our Newton Library is fortunate in having a good list of periodicals, and current numbers offer many articles that should be of interest to our patrons when brought to their attention. In the demand for vacation books comes the question, "What shall we take for the children?" and no better answer can be found than that of Annie Carroll Moore on "Vacation Reading" in the June Bookman, in which she calls to mind refreshing stories that we have all intended to read sometime. In the same number John Erskine writes on William Dean Howells, Harper's Monthly for July has also an article on Howells with his photograph by Edward S. Martin, while the July North American Review is a Howells number.

Stephen Leacock, the Canadian humorist, begins a new series of his Nonsectarian "Winnipeg" articles, entitled "Winnipeg: or, Trial and temptation, narrated after the best models of 1875." Readers of literature will enjoy the "Familiar letters of William James," edited by his son Henry James, which the Atlantic Monthly offers us this month.

The July Century will be received with great pleasure by fond readers of Harry A. Franck, author of "A vagabond journey around the world" and other interesting works of travel, for he writes here of "Santo Domingo, the land of bullet holes." Those living in the vicinity of Boston, as well as strangers, should read the well illustrated account, "Quaint Old Boston," by Mary Harrod Northend, in this same number of Century.

Current History for July has two important summaries—one entitled "The Republican Convention"; a sketch of the historic gathering that nominated Harding and Coolidge, and "text of the platform," and the other, "What the League of Nations has done," a summary of the definite achievements of the League of Nations in the first five months of its existence. Apropos of these are similar articles, "How the League of Nations is actually working" in Literary Digest, July 30 issue, and "Mainstays of the Republican Platform," in the Independent for June 26th.

Allen F. Brewer, engineer with the Texas Company and specialist in the application of oil fuels, writes a very timely article on "The efficient burning of oil fuel," in the July number of Industrial Management. "The Store with the right idea," by Edward Purkin, in the Independent for June 26th, one of a series of monthly articles on master workshops of America, will also interest the business man. This discusses John Wanamaker and his business enterprise.

The Outlook for June 30 has a seasonable article on the educational basis of Americanization, entitled "Political Culture" by J. Madison Gathany, who for sometime has contributed to the current history weekly outline in that periodical. Here, attention may be called to Mrs. John Glover South, Chairman of the Woman's Division, Republican National committee, who writes in the Forum for April-May on what women may expect in politics. "When 20,000,000 women go to vote."

National Geographic for June is rich in colored illustrations of our National parks, and Scribner's for July offers "Masterpieces of Wild Animal photography," with illustrations from photographs. Fascinating to the travel lover are the description of the Yosemite in the June Overland Monthly and the well illustrated article "Motoring in the Yellowstone," that Munsey for July publishes.

Let us not pass over Philip Gibbs' "Ideals and Disillusions," a worth while article in the July Harper's, showing the remarkable change in the European's opinion of Americans. Neither should we neglect to read "Wheeling Parnassus around the Hub" in the New York Times Book Review for June 27, a clever account of the origin of the Caravan Bookshop about to tour New England under the direction of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union.

CITY PLANNING PAYS

That city planning is a profitable investment, both to property owners and to the city, is a statement made in the recent report of the Chicago Plan Commission, which points out that the improvements resulting from its work have a direct financial return in increased property values besides stimulating the commerce, prosperity and welfare of the city. In support of its statement, the results of two recent projects now near completion are cited. The widening and extension of Michigan Ave. is estimated to have increased the value of property in the zone affected by about $35,000,000 and new buildings representing an aggregate value of $100,000,000 are under construction or projected. On 12th St. or Roosevelt Road the frontage value of land and buildings was $8,000,000 prior to the widening and extension, but although the improvement is not yet complete the value has increased to about $10,500,000. From the increased values due to these two improvements the city will receive an annual revenue of $3,575,000 if the taxes are assessed on the full increase in valuation. Property values and city revenues will continue to increase with the full development of these improvements. Similar results are expected to attend the various other improvements, the increased values extending through the adjacent districts and not being limited to the immediate vicinity. As the total expense for promoting the Chicago Plan has been about $400,000, the report seems to have good ground for its statement that the commission "is not a money spending, but a money earning institution." Engineering News-Record.

BAND CONCERT

A band concert, under the auspices of the Metropolitan District Commission, will be given by the Newton Constabulary Band at the Riverside Recreation Grounds next Sunday afternoon, July 11th, from 3.30 to 5.30.

POLICE NOTES

A boy's prank in placing calcium carbide in a bubbling drinking fountain at the West Newton depot caused Frank Priest, a station employee, to suffer burns on one hand and brought fourteen-year-old Earl Wheeler of Curve street, West Newton, into the Juvenile Court last Friday for delinquent assault and battery. The boy admitted the mischief. Priest was burned when he attempted to drink from the fountain. The boy was given a suspended sentence, in the Lyman School at Westboro.

—A recent agricultural department bulletin states that a parasitic fly, compsilura cinnamomea, has been used with great success to destroy gypsy moth and brown-tail moth in New England. It will also aid in the control of other insect pests. A few years ago the white-marked tussock moth was a serious pest in New England, but has practically disappeared since compsilura became established. The cabbage worm, the celery worm and the fall webworm have all been reduced by the activities of the new parasite.

AIRPLANE TO DEVELOP CHINA

American Commercial Attache Points Out How Problem Facing That Country May Be Met.

The keynote of the great problem of development which is facing China is transportation. The American commercial attache at Peking, Mr. Julian Arnold, has laid emphasis on this in an article in the Chinese Recorder—"China's Economic Problems and Christian Missionary Effort." Mr. Arnold deals with the necessity of preparing the Chinese people for the great economic change which is upon them. Railways will mean much to China, but the necessity for the training and preparation of which Mr. Arnold speaks is shown to be distinctly urgent when Prof. Middleton Smith's views on the use of airplanes to China are known. China is a land of waterways, and these waterways afford the necessary existing lines of transportation along which, to secure the success of commercial aviation, airdromes and supply depots should be established. Schools of technical training should supply the necessary Chinese skilled labor, and with these aerial services established, Professor Smith foresees such an incalculable increase in the rapidity of communications as completely to revolutionize the country internally and add to its deep importance as a world factor.

HAC AN OBJECT IN POSING

A moose out in the wilds does not stop to pose for her picture. There is generally a reason for the peculiar actions of wild things. In the current issue of the Hunter-Trapper, published in Columbus, O., hunters write of their experience.

"We had an early start Thursday and Sam soon proclaimed that his pipe foretold moose. The first bend was rounded and knee-deep in the water stood a fat sleek cow. Our canoe advanced toward her, the camera set for an exposure. Sam called softly and she advanced a hundred feet toward us, ears erect, with a curious 'what are you' manner. "At 75 feet she stopped and posed for the picture, and then waited until we were 50 feet away before she turned into the woods. At the top of the bank she waited for us to pass before crashing into the timber. "Her action was explained when we turned the bend and at the water's edge saw her calf, a fine four or five months' old fellow, which climbed the bank and was away after her at once."

New Cloth for Hard Wear.

A new textile fabric which, it is claimed, will tend to lower the present high cost of men's clothing is being placed on the market by a Pudsey (Yorkshire) manufacturer, writes United States Trade Commissioner Henry F. Grady from London. The London agents of the manufacturer state that the new cloth is made entirely of silk noil (or short fibers); and that, while superior in wearing properties to a pure worsted, it can be sold at the price of shoddy cloth, or one-fourth the price of the best wool fabrics. It is said to be strong and almost untearable, very suitable for hard wear, and can be obtained in grays, browns and blacks.

No Novelty.

"As I came from the station just now," said a recently arrived guest, "I noticed a crowd in front of the Right Place store and heard considerable yelling. What was the excitement?"

"A farmer and the storekeeper were telling what they thought of each other's infernal hogghishness in wanting five prices for the stuff they had to sell," replied the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "But there wasn't any particular excitement—it happens every day. The crowd merely gathered in the hope that they might accidentally say something new and interesting."—Kansas City Star.

Weds During His Lunch Hour.

How to be married through working was the title of a little sketch staged the other day by E. W. Griener, a printer employed on the St. Paul Dispatch.

Griener faced a problem. He was slated as a principal in a marriage ceremony. His only spare time was a half hour for lunch.

—So he called his fiancée, Miss Clara Lovitz, by telephone, arranged with her to meet him in the office of Henry Gallick, court commissioner, and the ceremony was performed. Griener then took lunch and returned to work.

BIRD'S SONG IDENTIFIES IT

Once Heard, One Is Not Apt to Forget the Trill of the Beautiful Dickcissel.

As far as we are informed, there is but one American bird whose song can be heard above the roar and rattle of a swiftly moving train, when the receiving end is on the said train.

You may be "jazzing" along at sixty or seventy miles an hour in your comfortable Pullman seat, and over the tremendous hum and racket of the steel caravan will come to you from the little feathered fellow on the telegraph wire outside the incessant song of hot-weather joy.

"Dick! Dick! Dickcissel!"

Or, if you prefer another analysis: "Chip! Chip! Chee-chee-chee!"

So the Dickcissel has a distinct stunt of his own—something that no other bird can imitate or rival. Sometimes we think Dick is a bit proud of it, too, for he lines the railway right of way clear across the middle western and plains states in such numbers his song is ever in our ears while you are travelling.

The Dickcissel was formerly called the black-throated bunting and is a very beautiful creature as well as very useful. He is mostly of a rich yellow hue, with a black throat—but nobody need identify him by his dress, for his song is inimitable. In our experience we never heard any of the mocking birds attempt to imitate the "Chip! Chip! Chee-chee-chee!" of the hot-weather friend.

He is really a salamander of the air, too, for he is late in arriving and early in departing, and does his best vocal stunts when you and I are gasping beneath an electric fan. He eats lots of bugs and weed seeds and is a mighty good citizen.—Omaha World-Herald.

POETS BRAVE FIGHTING MEN

Writers of Deathless Lines Also Won Immortality on the Bloody Fields of Battle.

What power have the sacred Nine over their loved ones to make poets take to war?

Sidney, writer of deathless lines, died a gallant soldier.

Dante defended his tenets in arms.

Byron contracted a mortal fever helping to free Greece from her tyranny, and Burns was a member of Scotch dragoons, with no opportunity arising for heroics that marked him a soldier. He was, however, valiant, and left what is probably the greatest war poem in all poetry, "Scots Wha Hae Wi' Wallace Bled!"

And now out of the great defenders of humanity in the war just being fought out comes D'Annunzio, Italy's bard, fighting the fight of a captain who will hold out "if it lasts all summer!"

Joyce Kilmer sleeps in France.

Allan Seeger is proud "a few brave drops were ours."

And Robert Service was at the front bringing in the mangled, and has given us a poem in his "Rhymes of a Red Cross Man," entitled "Grand Pere," that will make the bravest shudder.

O, ye, who called the land to arms, ye hypocrites that gave an outburst of fine fire with your pens, reddened with shame and bow a humble head to these who, as Edwin Markham says, "fought the poetry they sang."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Land Question in Chile.

The land question, particularly as it relates to the Indians, has of late been receiving attention from those interested in the future of Chile. The tendency has been to take every advantage of these natives, who, despite the many handicaps that official and unofficial greed have placed in their way, are admitted to be making substantial progress. They have, as might have been expected, shown themselves particularly proficient in agriculture and cattle breeding. Crying evils in the administration of the lands have been pointed out in the public press, but as yet the authorities do not seem to be sufficiently interested in remedying a state of affairs that does much to alienate the sympathies of an important, if subordinate, part of the population.

Preserving American Scenery.

While the members of the Associated Mountaineering Clubs of North America are not all devoted to mountaineering, they have a common bond of interest in the preservation of American scenery and in the protection of plant and bird life in their natural environment. The association is co-operating with the national park service for the creation and development of national parks and "monuments." A fine collection of literature on mountaineering has been formed by the association at the New York public library and bibliographies are being compiled and published. When this organization was founded in 1916, it embraced nine clubs and societies. Now there were 29 and the aggregate membership is over 45,000.

Bombarding Sky With Names.

By means of new wireless invention it will be possible to project sounds into the air which will enable an aviator to know exactly where he is. For example, suppose he were passing over Calgary, from the moment he approached the region he would receive the message "This is Calgary" until he had left it behind him. And so on with all places over which he may pass. In this way his chances of losing his way will be considerably diminished.

FOOD FOR CREW OF AIRSHIP

Most Careful Consideration Had to Be Given to Proper Nourishment of Daring Navigators.

The average housewife would hold up her hands in horror at the thought of cooking and providing for thirty men during a four days' aerial voyage.

Yet this was only one of the tasks, and by no means the most important, which confronted the organizers of the R 34's trip to America and back, remarks London Tit-Bits. When it is remembered that the men had to conform to the rigid limitations of the accommodation, the task assumes even more formidable proportions.

While the provisioning of the crew takes a back place, relatively, when compared with the navigation and other scientific arrangements, diet was, nevertheless, a subject requiring the most careful consideration. The digestive organs, if impaired, react at once upon the nervous system, and in an enterprise of such a daring character as the flight nerves had to be tenderly nourished.

The medical department of the air ministry was early consulted and devised a menu consisting mainly of meat, bread, cheese, chocolate, tea, eggs and potatoes.

Then came the problem of cooking, and the R34 has surely the strangest kitchen existing. Instead of fixing an electrical or other usual type of stove, the hot exhaust gases from one of the motor engines were trapped, and led around a receptacle shaped for boiling or frying, the heat thus obtained being sufficient to meet all the requirements. There were three of these boilers provided altogether—one in the fore car to hold three pints, and one in each wing car to hold one and a half gallons. By means of these, soups and hot sustaining drinks were able to be made.

The type of flying clothing provided for the crew is another example of the attention paid to detail to give the flight every chance of success. Each member of the ship's complement was provided with two complete suits of silk underclothing. Over this, woolen gear, similar to that provided for submarine crews and divers, was worn.

You doubtless feel that prices will be lower and therefore you will have an opportunity to buy at a lower price.

We wish to call attention, however, to the following facts:

Signifies Intense Imagination.

In numerous types of handwriting the manner of throwing the looped ts, is and other long letters to excess above the line become the most striking feature, one which catches the eye immediately. Whenever this formation appears it symbolizes the existence of a startling, vivid, intense imagination, which gives the writer a mental trend which will overbalance other qualities and produce the effect of high nervous tension and a lack of poise.

Elephants Indispensable.

It is said that Siam's teak forests could not be worked without the assistance of elephants, as hauling machines could not be used in the inaccessible places where teak trees grow. One elephant can handle from fifty to seventy logs in a season.

THE MOTHER

By S. Lillian McMullen

Dear little boy with the cherub face
Your honest eyes are alight with fun.
Your little fat legs set a lively pace
From early morn till the day is done!
Your shoulders are squared right sturdily.
In pockets your hands go deep as they can,
And, oh! but you're all the heart of me
My strong little, brave little six-year Man!

In your smile there's a trace of the angels yet, (What if there's missing a tooth or so?)
And you valiantly whistle with lips firm set,
(And what if the music is mostly "blow"?)
And life is but one grand round of play
As only a "Six-Year" understands,
So play little boy as long as you may—
You hold my heart in your grubby hands!

Dear little "Six-Year," my love for you
Is so much joy that 'tis almost pain;
Why! heaven without you would seem less blue Till I held you tight in my arms again!
But you mustn't love me, too much,
little boy,
For then when I go you'll lonesome be,
And, oh! but I never would take the joy
And song of your youth away with me!

NEWTON Y. M. C. A. BASE BALL

The team traveled down to Needham Monday afternoon and defeated the fast Needham Town Team 19 to 4. The batting of the Newton players featured.

Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Y. M. C. A. field the team representing Motors Specialties of Waltham will be the attraction. This team comes well recommended with a fair record so far this season, so the game should be a hummer.

"Pick-ups" at Needham Louie Bills swatted out a peach of a three-bagger but on account of "marking time" at first, only went for a double.

Barnes brought the fans up with a yell in the fifth with one of the prettiest one-hand catches ever seen on Needham field.

Old standby "Mecca" Adams was at short-stop with all the "pep" one could handle.

Varley in left field had a busy afternoon, having four chances and killing them all.

Young Curry who is filling "Joe" Carling's shoes at third is sure a fast youngster and will bear watching.
On the bases he reminds one of "Max"
Carey of Pittsburgh.

Lane in the box pitched a good steady game and with Phil Newell on the receiving end, rounded out a strong battery. Newell, by the way, is a smooth working catcher, and seems born to the position.

The individual batting star of the game was Gullian, hitting safely four times out of five trips to the plate.
On account of the short right-field Bressler had no chance to shine, but in batting he contributed a neat single which helped in the scoring.

KNIGHT-BAILEY

Miss Eva Bailey, daughter of Mrs.
C. J. Bailey of Surry road, Newton, and Arthur Francis Knight, son of Mrs. Marion G. Cook of Boulevard terrace, Allston, were married by the Rev. James C. Sharp of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Waban, at the bride's home on Wednesday evening.

The maid of honor was Miss Gladys Hodgson of Knowles st. and the best man was Mr. E. Edmund Bailey of Brookline, brother of the bride.
Flower girl was little Miss Barbara Hills, of Newton Centre, niece of the bride.

The ushers were Mr. Montgomery
C. Reed of Brookline and Mr.
Alexander W. Pope of Newton, Mass.
The house was beautifully decorated with southern smilax and pale pink roses. Music was furnished by Knight's orchestra of Newtonville.

NORUMBEGA PARK

The variety of attractions and amusements at Norumbega Park, Boston's favorite summer place on the Charles River is so great that every taste is assured of satisfaction.
For those who like dancing, there is the spacious restaurant with its fine kept floor and unexcelled music.
For those who delight in a quiet day or evening out of doors, strenuous or the contrary, the athletic field and picnic grounds, for those who prefer the water canoeing on the Charles.
The feature of the big motion picture and musical program the first half of the week beginning Monday, July 12, is "Tillie's Punctured Romance" with Marie Dressler, Mable Normand, and Charlie Chaplin as the creators of hilarity. The second half of the week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be seen, "The Fortune Teller" with Marjorie Rambeau in the principal role. The special added attraction for the coming week in the theatre will be Agnes Lindstrom the Swedish soprano.

MAKE THEIR WORK DRUDGERY

Colonel Roosevelt Had Little Sympathy for Those Who Find No Enjoyment in Their Occupation.

One day Colonel Roosevelt told me what a good time he was having working with all of us (in the office of the Metropolitan Magazine), writes Sonya Levin in the Woman's Home Companion. He told me that he felt radicals laid too much stress upon the drudgery of the day laborer's work.
That the details of most kinds of work
—the director's, the artist's, the writer's—were drudgery. That very often it was a spiritual sluggishness and a consequent failure to discover the human aspects of one's job.

Urged on by an old belief that Colonel Roosevelt's viewpoint on economics was not sufficiently radical, I grew warm about the vast throngs of people who drag themselves every morning at 7 to the factories, work at some trifling job for eight, ten hours, day in, day out, year after year, without respite, without hope of ultimate release except through death. The unpleasant memory of my own similar beginning keeps ever alive for me the sordidness of such an existence. My deep resentment against an industrial order that extorts so unreasoning a toll from its masses did not meet with the sympathy I had expected.

I suddenly found myself driven to an issue by that implacable will of his which gave no quarter to any socialistic problem that did not lend itself to practical solution. He had a sane and temperate appreciation of the workingman's difficulties, but my sen-sibilities about their sordid existence did not touch his sympathy.

He agreed that the toiler in most cases has received less than his due and must be more protected and more respected for his share in the world work, that he must get shorter hours and more healthful conditions to labor and live in, opportunity to better himself and enjoy his leisure, but he felt that ultimately any man's success or failure depended upon the man's own character.

"There is enjoyment in every kind of work that has usefulness, but there are people that enjoy nothing, that have not the capacity for fun and contentment—no matter in what status of life they happen to be."

Milestones.

One of the many curious effects of the war was the way it put news into cold storage. Almost every day that passes, in England as elsewhere, some story or other is gaining publicity, and is being eagerly read and discussed, which, if peace had reigned instead of war during the past five years, would have, long since, been forgotten in the back files of the newspapers. Thus Major Hesketh-Pritchard, one-time famous as a cricketer, and now famous as a soldier, has been pouring out news as to the many ingenious devices resorted to at the front in establishing an observation post. This is for instance the case of the milestone. It stood on the summit of a little ridge at the cross roads, between the two front line trenches.
The French photographed the milestone, had a facsimile made of it in thin steel with a gauze-covered observation hole, and successfully changed the real thing for the dummy by night;
in this way gaining a perfect observation post in the center of no-man's land. Thus some milestones even have greatness thrust upon them.

Rowboats Carried in One Hand.

Many a vacationist during a summer in the north woods has watched his brawny guide balance the canoe upon his shoulders and carry it thus over a trail of several miles. For the sportsman intent on only a few days' pleasure, however, such a feat is distasteful when not impossible. For his benefit have now been built two small boats that he can carry 12 hours a day without exhaustion, says Popular Mechanics Magazine in an illustrated article. One is the invention of an Englishman. It weighs but 18 pounds and collapses to the size of a small handbag, yet its canvas bottom easily holds a heavy occupant. Each of the four sides is formed of an air-tight bag which is inflated by a hand pump.
The second featherweight boat is more complex in construction but easier to paddle. When collapsed it fits into a wooden box, about the size of the case that is used to hold the popular croquet mallets.

City's Heat and Warm Water.

An engineering account of a new system for supplying heat and warm water to public buildings of Berlin states that the distribution area is to have a radius of a mile and a half,
and to include some tenement houses.
The warm water is to be derived from the exhaust steam of the Berlin electricity works and from some coke-heated boilers. It is to start on its way superheated to 120 degrees C., and it will pass through pipes laid in concrete conduits along the streets, with sections welded together and provided with stuffing boxes and sliding bearings.

The Harpist's Fingers.

Two hundred members of the Professional Musicians' association of New South Wales—a fifth of the total membership—served at the front in the great war. Returned men tell with much relish the story of a distinguished harpist who in peace times devoted a great deal of time daily to the care and preparation of his fingers. "The last time we heard about him he was mixing cement in a tunnel in France," was the report which they gave at a welcome home in Sydney.

THE JACK LONDON CLUB

Jack London Club is a society with no officers and no dues. It was started, primarily, because of Jack London's disclosures in his book, "Michael Brother of Jerry," of the cruelties behind the trick animal performances in our theaters and other places. He was no sentimentalist.
He never cried "wolf" when there was no "wolf" or asked you to weep when there was no cause for tears.
But he says that in the trained animal performance cruelty has blosomed into its perfect flower.

To join this Club all you have to do is to agree to do the one thing that London says will finally banish these performances from the stage, viz., get up and go out of the theater during that part of the program.

The Jack London Club would like the names of 100 members in Boston upon whom it can count for some actual service, from time to time, in pushing forward the work of the club. If you are willing to help, we do not mean financially, send us your name to 180 Longwood avenue.

Questions.

Do you always ask when you go to buy a ticket to a vaudeville performance, "Is there any trained-animal act on the program?" And if there is, do you say that you cannot, for that reason, purchase a ticket?

Whenever you have a chance, do you tell your friends about the Jack London Club?

Have you ever written for a Jack London Club poster illustrating the cruelties of the trained-animal performance, and then placed it somewhere where it can tell its story?

Did you ever write to your local theater manager and, telling him of the growing opposition to these animal acts, urge him to discontinue putting them on his bills?

Have you ever protested to a film company against a moving picture in the preparation of which cruelty to animals was clearly evident?

The Lost City of the Jungle

We refer elsewhere to the moving picture with this title. To our mind it is an appeal to those elements of human nature which, in the case of many, need but the opportunity to break forth in deeds of violence, lawlessness, and bloodshed. The film company—this production is known as Selig's Million-Dollar Wild Animal Serial—advertises that 55,000 dollars' worth of animals were killed in staging it. Tigers and lions are seen shot and writhing in agony before the final bullet ends their suffering. Nothing is spared that can excite the spectator to anticipate either a hairbreadth escape or serious injury to the people whose lives are repeatedly put in jeopardy. The influence of such exhibitions upon youth, if we know anything about human nature, must be to awaken every savage impulse that remains latent in it. In such times as the present, with lawlessness and the mob spirit so prevalent, we believe it is a positively dangerous film to be presented to the public.

The Jack London Club must include in its campaign against the trained-animal business its opposition to these brutal exhibitions that involve in their production an amount of cruelty and inhumanity that is appalling.

Messrs. McKenney & Waterbury
Co., 181 Franklin street, corner Congress, Boston, Mass., have on exhibition in their showrooms the largest display of Fire-place goods, Andirons, Screens, Grates, Bellows and Gas
Logs in this country.

Lines to Be Remembered.

Advice is like snow, the softer it falls, the longer it dwells upon and the deeper it sinks into the mind.—

THOSE indented grip spots, in the

HER LIFE FOR HER PUPPIES

Airedale Never Hesitated When Called Upon to Make the Supreme Sacrifice to Duty.

Again a mother has given her life for her young. This time the setting is the San Francisco waterfront, down where whistles scream, hoists squeal and rattle, engines chug and there is a mechanical ensemble of industrial noise the long day through. The principals are dogs—a wiry-haired Airedale mother and her four puppies.

A scow was home to the canine family. One day a swell overturned the basket in which the pups lay, and overboard they went. There was no human aid near. But the mother leaped to the rescue of her drowning offspring. One by one she brought the little pups to safety. But before she could reach the last one it drowned.

Men found her on deck, still holding the body of the dead puppy, and with the three others scrambling and whining around her. The mother was too exhausted to move. They sent for a physician, but when he arrived the rescued pups were orphans.

To the burden of her own six pups, an Irish setter who lives aboard the same scow, has added the care of three foster children, the orphans of the Airedale mother.

DIDN'T QUITE GET THE IDEA

Japanese Geisha Girl Meant Well, But American Traveling Man Remained Hungry.

Baron Rempel Kondo, president of the Japan Mail Steamship company, said at a dinner that he gave recently in New York:

"The Japanese are a very clean people. I know an American traveler who will testify to this.

"The traveler, half famished, made his way one day into a teahouse in a remote Japanese village. The geisha girl ushered him into a spotless, airy room, and brought him a cup of unsweetened tea. As he could speak no Japanese, he tried to explain by signs that he wanted a full meal, but the girl, though she smiled politely, failed to understand.

"So the traveler thought he would resort to another means. He took out his notebook and pencil, drew a fish and an egg, and handed the drawing to the geisha. This time she laughed delightedly, clapping her hands and ran from the room.

"The traveler was pleased. He waited contentedly for his meal. Five or ten minutes passed. Then the door opened, and two attendants staggered in with a portable bath, brimful of hot water, and a cake of soap."

Startled Even New York.

Mrs. Carl Lamb, of Philadelphia, wife of Lieutenant Carl Lamb, U. S. N., recently startled New York by walking down Fifth avenue with a rag doll about twelve inches tall tied to her arm by a silken cord of about the same length—not a pretty doll at all. "Just cute," Mrs. Lamb said herself. "Of course, he's got a name," she said. "He's Patsy Dooley. His brother, Thomas Squeelix, is in Philadelphia with my sister. I have no intention of starting a Fifth avenue fad. I made Patsy to take to China and keep me company when I go there within a few months."

Strike Oil in Morocco.

Important petroleum developments are expected from the French districts of Morocco where one small well, located at Dgecel, is producing three tons of oil a day. Twelve more wells are being drilled. Government committees supervising supplies of gasoline for France are considering leasing the petroleum springs at Pechelbrown, Alsace, a short distance north-west of Strasbourg. Exemption of petroleum from import duty is contemplated, and many important industries are transforming their furnaces so that oil may be burned instead of coal.

Chinese Masons Celebrated.

A sea lion, a fusillade of crackers, a banquet, and the raising of the Chinese flag, indicated to the Victorian town of Echuca that a branch of the Chinese Masonic society had been formed. Chinese from all parts of Victoria attended the ceremony and the mayor and councillors of Echuca were guests. The Chinese master of ceremonies was interviewed by returned soldiers who objected to the flying of the Chinese flag alone. Australian and British flags were at once hoisted to the top of the flagpole.

Soldiers Left Books Behind.

Mystery surrounds the "dumps" of books which are said to be lying in various camps in France, awaiting disposal.

At one camp 400,000 volumes are said to have accumulated, and there are reported to be still larger collections at other camps.

Inquiries in official quarters and among the organizations which sent out books to the troops during the war have failed to trace the owners of these derelict volumes.

To Develop French Water Power.

A bill for the canalization of the Rhone and the employment of water power was introduced in the French chamber of deputies on August 9. The cost of the scheme is estimated at 2,500,000,000 francs ($482,500,000) and the total power to be obtained will not be less than the equivalent obtained from 5,000,000 tons of coal, or one-fifth of the coal production of France for 1918.

SALTON SEA IS DISAPPEARING

Possibility That the Land It Has Covered Will Be Soon Available for Agriculture.

An inland sea which, according to geologists, has changed from sea to desert, and back again to sea, at least fifty times since its inception, is one of the wonders of the Imperial valley in California. At the present time the Salton sea, which is 160 feet below the ocean's level, is receding from its banks at the rate of approximately a mile a year. Today the sea is 18 miles long and nine miles wide at its widest point. In the heat of the torrid season the temperature in its neighborhood is from 10 to 20 degrees cooler than that of the surrounding country and outdoor dances are held on one of the abandoned fish-piers left high and dry by the receding waters. The Salton sea is situated in the very heart of the principal date-producing region of America. The land left bare by the retreating waters is eagerly sought by agriculturists, who stake their claims far out into the water in anticipation of further recessions. The soil is of salt-incrusted adobe clay and very fertile. Mud volcanoes, miniature geysers and bubbling "paintpots" attract many tourists to the spot. The quality of the volcanic "paintpots" is declared to rival the best European sienna and amber. Utilization of this new-found color supply may soon render the continuation of European imports of such pigment unnecessary.

MADE BOAT FROM SIDE CAR

Enthusiastic Duck Hunter Found Valuable Use for His Motorcycle Attachment.

On the opening day of the duck season at Baldwin Lake, Cal., last fall, a strange craft was sighted in the ell-grass of the shooting grounds. Its occupant was known to have ridden a motorcycle in more than 150 miles of mountain and desert road, and then to have been so unfortunate as to find all the boats gone. When he came in that night with his limit of birds, it was seen that he had made a queer but efficient duck boat out of his motorcycle side car.

Wood plugs closed the bolt holes where it was removed from the frame, and a can of pitch, judiciously applied, sealed all possible leaks. Rock ballast of some sixty pounds steadied the somewhat cranky craft, and its inconspicuousness aided the ingenious sportsman in securing an unusual bag of birds. So well pleased was he with the adventure that now he contemplates constructing a real combination side car and boat.—Mechanics Magazine.

Have Earned Place in History.

They failed to get overseas as a unit in the recent world conflict, but the famous Hell-for-Lether Fort Garrys, who charged into the blue at Cambrai, the Strathcona horse, the Royal Canadian dragons and the Canadian Mounted rifles were filled with rankers who had worn the red tunic of the old Royal Northwest Mounted Police.

The police have not been empire-builders, but they have smoothed the road for empire and kept it smooth. Western Canada is western Canada today largely because of them. Though the old name under which they won fame and glory is now numbered with forgotten yesterdays, it will live forever in the history of the Canadian west as a symbol of efficiency, loyalty, heroism and law fearlessly enforced.

To Think and to Know.

A Charleston housewife being suddenly deserted by her cook advertised for another, stipulating that applicants must bring good references. The only response to the advertisement was a very fat and very black old woman who seemed promising until she was asked for her references.

"Deed, honey, Ah done tore up dem references," she responded.

"Destroyed your references? How unusual. Don't you realize that that must cause people to suspect that you are not a good servant?"

"Yassum, maybe dat's so," the applicant agreed. "Yo' des' speck Ah ain't er good serbent, but ef Ah had brung dem references yo'd know Ah was crazy!"

Dog Answers Doorbell.

There is one dog in London which, were its duties known, we should all join in voting an extra ration. It is the care of an entire household. All the human members of the family are deaf and dumb.

The dog answers the door. That is to say, when it hears a knock or a ring, it conveys the information to its betters by barks, which are detected by the opening and shutting of its mouth, by wagging its tail, and in the last resort by gently pawing its master or mistress and running toward front or back door.—London Chronicle.

And if It Wasn't.

The man who had served throughout the war as a private in the base hospital at Angers was loud in his scorn of a neighbor who hadn't gone into the service at all. A friend let him rave on till the Angers soldier had used the word slacker. Then he said:

"That's right, give it to him. All he did during the war was hang on to a nice soft job as testing pilot for the Curtiss people. All he had to do was to fly each machine long enough to see if it was safe for one of our aviators."—The Home Sector.

Furnished Entertainment for Ex-Service Men Now Studying at Rutland

Last Sunday morning at 10.30 a party of 14 men and women left the Newton Y. M. C. A. for Rutland, Mass., where they provided entertainment for 103 ex-service men, many of whom are studying at the New England Vocational School—an institution established by the Government to provide Vocational instruction for ex-service men recovering from tuberculosis.

In the party were three groups of entertainers. After the concert in the auditorium which was under the direction of Mr. Phillips, these groups visited different sanitariums where there were ex-service men who were unable to attend the concert in the auditorium. Musical numbers were rendered by the artists in the rooms below while visits were paid to the men in the wards. Candy and magazines were left for their enjoyment later.

The entertainers were Adeline M. Packard and Florence Carey, violins; Blanche Sears and Asa Coffin, accompanists; Arthur J. Phillips, soloist and song leader; F. E. Doubleday, banjo and mandolin; Philip Horne, saxophone, Alfred L. O'Brien, piano, and Mr. Gordon of Needham, club swinger.

Autos were furnished by R. G. Broderick, C. D. Mills, and Leroy Leach. Magazines and candy were given by the Girl Scouts of Newton and Watertown and other interested friends.

Mr. H. M. Jenkins of Auburndale, although unable to make the trip, with the party, had a large share in preparation and plans. The committee of arrangements consisted of Miss Beth Brown of Watertown, Mr. Leroy Leach of Needham, Mr. H. M. Jenkins of Auburndale, and Mr. H. W. Bascom of Newton.

Mr. Hackett, head of the New England Vocational School at Rutland and his Associates invited the members of the party to partake of refreshments before leaving for home.

The War Workers from overseas living in the Norumbega district are planning other affairs for ex-service men and would appreciate knowing about any places where service of this kind can be given.

schools a baby clinic is operated at which a special nurse is in attendance to weigh and measure the little visitors, of which there are about 25 at present. The clinic also includes courses on Malnutrition for the Mother. Milk is supplied for three cents per cup. The teachers include many of the regular staff of Newton schools.

This school is opened only during the month of July.

NEWTON RED CROSS

Wants 500 Layettes to Send to Europe Before September 15th

Before the middle of September the Newton Chapter of the Red Cross hopes to have ready to send to Europe five hundred layettes as its share of the hundreds of layettes which the Red Cross plans to send.

Every traveler who comes home from visits to the Central and Eastern countries of Europe tells of the appalling conditions in those countries, of the needs that exist and of the shortage of clothing and food. Mr. James Jackson, the manager of the New England Division, in his letter to the Chapter says, "If we could only make our people at home realize the extent of suffering and the fact that throughout Central Europe the people have only the bare necessities of life there is no question but what the response to our appeal would be most gratifying."

In Europe today many a new born child has to be wrapped in newspaper because there is nothing else to use. Every woman knows what it must mean to a mother to know that for her expected child there will be nothing ready. The Newton Chapter of the Red Cross has bought and is ready to furnish the materials for five hundred mother-made layettes. Women who are willing to help may get the material and directions from the Red Cross branches in the different villages or they may telephone directly to Newton Red Cross Headquarters, Newton North 2717.

Magellan's Famous Voyage.

On the 27th of November, in 1520, Ferdinand Magellan, the Portuguese navigator, entered the Pacific ocean through the straits which bear his name. He navigated the ocean for three months and twenty days without finding a single island. During the voyage the weather was so fair continually that he gave the ocean the name of Pacific.

Mark Twain's Dire Threats.

When Mark Twain wrote "Huckleberry Finn" he penned this introduction: "Persons attempting to find a motive in this narrative will be prosecuted; persons attempting to find a moral in it will be banished; persons attempting to find a plot in it will be shot."

SURPRISED

Newton Lodge, K. of P. Guests of P. G. C. Will C. Eddy

Past Grand Chancellor Will C. Eddy arranged a surprise for the members of Newton Lodge No. 110, Knights of Pythias, at their convention on Tuesday evening, consisting of ice cream and cake and cigars.

The occasion was the 25th anniversary of William Eddy's becoming a member of the order in Massachusetts by transfer from Rochester, New York in 1895.

But he was in return, the most surprised one of the party for Chancellor Commander John B. Proudfoot presented Mr. Eddy with a solid gold veteran's jewel on behalf of his friends in the lodge.

Two of the Grand Lodge representatives were present, Past Grand Chancellor George E. Howe, Grand Keeper of Records and Seals, and Past Grand Chancellor Albert F. Kirkley of Brockton, Probation officer for Norfolk and Plymouth Counties. Both paid a just tribute to Mr. Eddy's work for the order and his loyalty to his friends. It was an event long to be remembered.

Mr. Eddy is not only a worker in the lodge and the order but in Auburndale, where he has lived for the past ten years, he is known as a leader in church and local affairs. He is chairman of the Standing Committee of the Congregational Church and for five years was the assistant treasurer and treasurer. Has been secretary and president of the Brotherhood and is now chairman of the Republican League of Ward 4.

SIXTH ANNUAL OUTING

Newton Board of Trade Enjoys Sports and Dinner at Nantasket

For six years the Newton Board of Trade has held an annual outing. Each time an effort has been made to outdo all previous affairs of the kind but the outing of Wednesday was voted the "best ever", one casualty only occurring. Harry Ellis in trying to catch a fly ball, accidentally stepped in a hole, and as a result is now going on crutches.

The Villa Napoli at Nantasket was the gathering point, the trip being made by automobiles. A list of sports had been arranged, but after the baseball game had gone along for a few minutes, the intense heat proved too much. Bats and balls were tossed aside, and the entire party headed for the bathing beach.

At dinner Pres. Arthur W. Hollis presided, and after a speech of welcome turned the affair over to W. U.

(Hughie) Fogwill, who, as toast master, was at his best. Speakers included Atty-Gen. J. Weston Allen, Supervisor of Administration Thomas W. White, Frank L. Richardson, Treasurer of Newton Trust Co., Walter H. Blackler of N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co., and John T. Burns.

A feature was the awarding of burlesque prizes to P. A. Murray, Ex-President Sidney R. Porter, John T. Burns, Walter Wright and D. L. Weeks of N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. Joseph Antonelli of Newton sang several tenor solos.

In the evening the party inspected the many wonders of Paragon Park.

The committee in charge were John T. Burns, chairman, M. E. Beardsley, John W. Evers, E. H. Delesdernier, W. U. Fogwell, Walter H. Blackler, Henry K. Rollins, Walter Winn and Harold Moore.

WHAT AMERICAN LEGION OF MASSACHUSETTS IS DOING

At a recent convention of the Department for Vocational Training Mr. H. B. Parker of West Newton, an injured veteran, introduced and amended the following resolution and it was passed.

Whereas, inasmuch as State Institutions, State Alms Houses, and such like, sometimes contain ex-service men, and

Whereas, the people do not desire to keep ex-service men in these institutions, therefore.

Be it resolved, that if ex-service men there placed, desire to be released, steps be taken by Legion members to make their release possible.

And in addition, that, until he can be released, steps be taken by Legion members to see that he should receive instruction in spelling, arithmetic, etc.; and,

In addition, that this being true of our Comrades, we in Massachusetts, have found that paupers themselves need, deserve and desire instruction in spelling, arithmetic, history, etc.; so

We therefore suggest that the National Headquarters inform the State Post Headquarters, (they in turn to inform Local Posts) of our findings in this regard. We suggest that conditions in State Public Welfare Institutions be reported to, and circulated by the National Headquarters, (perhaps an Americanization Commission) toward solving this problem.

Mr. Parker has taught at one of our state institutions since coming from the Army Hospital, just before entering Boston University. He found an army man among the inmates classed as a pauper. He also tried to apply the policy of salvaging which he had learned so well during a frugal life and strenuous army experience, to the saving and reconstruction of paupers. His findings in this regard are embodied in his resolutions. In addition to ex-soldier paupers and regular paupers he has discovered ex-soldier prisoners who greatly need encouragement.

He has recently been appointed by the Executive of the Department for Vocational Training to act in the interest of our fellow citizens, whom we, as their neighbors and friends care for in our state institutions. He urgently wishes that all those interested in education, especially along lines suggested here will write to him for further information.

MATERIAL THAT RESISTS ACID

New Substance, Duroprene, is Said to Be Adapted to a Wide Range of Uses.

Recent acid-resisting materials include such notable products as silicon-ware, iron rich in silicon, monel metal and various other alloys. Not least interesting is duroprene, obtained by the chlorination of rubber, and resisting reagents that readily attack rubber, such as ozone, nitrous and nitric acids, hydrochloric acid, etc. Describing it to the Liverpool section of the Society of Chemical Industry, Mr. A. Lambie stated that it can be obtained in the solid state as a white amorphous powder. It is soluble in benzene and coal tar naphtha, carbon tetrachloride, and trichloroethylene, but the ordinary varnish is a 10 per cent solution in benzene and solvent naphtha. This varnish dries quickly, leaving a colorless, transparent film. The very thin film has been immersed for days in caustic potash, caustic soda, ammonia and the mineral acids—hydrochloric, nitric and sulphuric—without sign of decomposition. It is quite insoluble in alcohol, ether, petroleum oils, and paraffin. Being also highly insulating and very adhesive, duroprene is adapted for a wide range of uses. It serves as anti-corrosive varnish or paint, for lining steel petroleum tanks, and wooden alcohol vats, for building up electrical condensers, as colorless lacquer for bright metal work, and as a gas-tight cement.

VOYAGE FAMOUS IN HISTORY

Wooden Paddle Wheel Steamer, the Golden Age, Paved the Way for the Mighty Megantic.

Departure from Sydney recently of the White Star liner Megantic for Liverpool by way of New Zealand, the Panama canal, the West Indies and New York, recalls her historic forerunner of 1854, says the New York Tribune.

The vessel, the Golden Age, was a wooden paddle wheel steamer, belonging to the New York and Australian Steam Navigation company. The intention of the company was to run six vessels "via Panama," the Panama railroad, capitalized at $7,000,000, being the connecting link on the then undivided isthmus with the West India Royal Mail Steam Packet company, running from Southampton.

The Crimean war, yellow fever on the isthmus and other causes conspired to defeat the company's plans. The Golden Age was commanded by Lieut. David D. Porter of the United States navy, who afterward became famous as a Union admiral during the Civil war.

The Golden Age left Melbourne for Panama via Sydney and Tahiti, May 5, 1854. She reached Sydney on May 11 with 300 passengers. Her cargo included a consignment of gold dust and she reached England in 66 days.

New Idea in Ventilation.

The Ayrton antigas fan, which, according to Munsey's Magazine, may revolutionize all our systems of ventilation, is based on the principle that a fan should be brought down sharply from the perpendicular to the horizontal, and thus drive the air forward in steady puffs and set up a fresh current from the rear. The inventor, who is an Englishwoman, has given public demonstrations in London with glass models of ducts and tunnels from which the fan readily expels the smoke. At one demonstration, Mrs. Ayrton, with a three-inch fan, sat at one end of a six-foot table while smoke poured forth from a funnel at the other end. The action of the miniature fan not only dispelled the smoke but quickly gained such control over it that it prevented it from coming out of the funnel. The fan works on the hinge-and-spring principle and is constructed of light material. It has been used successfully in factories, theaters, mines and sewers.—Youth's Companion.

Airplanes in Mining Operations.

It is predicted that the airplane and the dirigible will prove a great stimulus to the mining industry in presenting a means of getting material and men to and from locations which are known to be rich with ore and which are at the present time inaccessible. There are many such places known to exist, but the cost of building a roadway to them would be so great as to be prohibitive. Attention to this phase of the subject has been recently attracted by a report made by Doctor Lyon, supervisor of the mining stations for the United States bureau of mines. By this means a regular communication could be maintained with sections which are not to be reached by any ordinary means. It is also suggested that the same means might be of great value for getting rescue apparatus to the scene of mining disasters.

Cats and Diphtheria.

"It is a widely accepted belief that cats may suffer from diphtheria and convey the infection to human beings," says the Journal of the American Medical association in recounting the experiments by which Doctor Savage proved that this is entirely without foundation.

Doctor Savage planted vast numbers of diphtheria bacilli in the noses and throats of kittens, but in no instance did these take the disease, and within 24 hours the bacilli were dead. Doctor Savage reviewed all the evidence in connection with epidemics of diphtheria and came to the conclusion that so far as it implicates cats it is quite valueless.

TIMES "SURE HAD CHANGED"

Doughboys in France Hailed as Friend Man Whom They Had, When "Kids," Feared Greatly.

The story of how two doughboys found their old enemy in France is told by Mike Nolan, former police lieutenant of New York city, who served as a K. of C. secretary assigned to the Sixteenth Infantry, First division. Nolan is fifty-two years old and put in 23 years on the New York police force. When he changed the blue uniform for khaki, he was in charge of the twenty-third precinct, the old Tenderloin.

On his breast is a victory ribbon with two bronze major offensive stars and three silver citation stars. He has been recommended for the D. S. C. by the commanding officer of the Sixteenth Infantry.

He had wandered up to a "little bunch" of doughboys who were "shooting craps," and gave each of the boys a pack of K. of C. cigarettes. The game was an exciting one, and a soldier who was about "to roll the ivories" looked up at him and asked him to "kiss 'em for a five." Nolan did so, and the dice turned up a two and a three.

One of the unlucky boys who had lost on the toss of the dice looked up at Nolan and recognized him as an old enemy.

"Holy cat! Look, it's Tenderloin Bull Nolan!" he said to his pal. "Don't you remember, he's de cop who used to chase us from doorways for shooting craps when we was kids?"

"Shure," said the lucky soldier, "and he pulled us once for smoking butts. And here he is shelling out packs of real cigarettes and kissin' de bones for us. Damm'd if it ain't right dat de war changes de whole world!"

INSIGNIA OF ANCIENT ORDER

That Now Worn by United States Army Medical Officers Goes Back Four Thousand Years.

The caduceus, which was introduced in 1902 by Col. John Van R. Hoff, M. C., U. S. A., editor of the Military Surgeon, as part of the medical officers' insignia, dates back 4,000 years, according to F. H. Garrison, M. D., U. S. A., writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association. For a number of reasons the serpent was always the symbol of medicine in antiquity. The Babylonians' caduceus, which is the insignia shows today—two snakes entwined with wings at the top of the staff—occurs in Hittite remains. It stands for an actual serpent god, Ningishzida, who as the special messenger of Ishtar, was the awakener of life in the springtime, and the Mesopotamian prototype of the Greek Hermes. The Romans had a special functionary, the caduceator, who was a sort of peace commissioner. The caduceus was used on the title pages of books published by the famous medical printer, Frobenius, in 1460 to 1527. The "wand of Mercury," as it is sometimes called, was also carried by merchant traders in ancient times, on excursions where peaceful negotiations were desired and they wanted to be known as neutrals.

Labor Troubles in China.
The $40 a month which the Chinese coolie with his family drew from the Chinese government during his period of enlistment in the army is the basis for the labor disturbance which is rocking China at the present time, says C. C. Thompson of Shanghai in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Mr. Thompson explains that prior to the war the average coolie made a monthly wage of $12 to $15, while having become accustomed to the new standards of living made possible by the $40 allotment he declines now to return to the old basis. Even household domestics have become affected by the new unrest and are demanding more money, he says. Recently because of the unsettled conditions there was a strike of dockworkers in Chinese ports which held up all trans-Pacific traffic for a considerable time. Mr. Thompson states.

Owes All to Uncle Sam.

Building upon his past experience as an employee in a shoe factory, the federal board for vocational education placed a young chap of 24, who was disabled at Soissons, in a shoe manufacturing plant for training. His left hand and arm were severely injured by a high-explosive shell, but he finds he can carry on, in spite of the handicap, and is fast becoming an expert shoe cutter. The management, finding his service valuable, are paying him $1 a day—this, of course, in addition to his training pay, which comes from the board. He is enthusiastic and writes: "This training is great stuff. Everything is going fine. . . . I wouldn't have been able to do anything if the government hadn't given me this chance."

Movies Set Distance Record.

Two moving picture records were broken recently, according to the Popular Mechanics Magazine, at the centenary celebration of the Methodist church in Columbus, O. An ordinary projecting machine, equipped with a special lens, a rapid shutter, and a 150-ampere light, was used to throw pictures 100 by 75 feet, on a screen 350 feet away from the machine. The light employed was three times the strength of those commonly used. It generated so much heat that it was necessary to operate the cinematograph at great speed to prevent burning the film. The screen on which the pictures were thrown was 115 feet square.

GARDEN NEWS

Hot, rather dry weather has been with us for a few days. One of the first results to be seen from this type of weather in home gardens is the tendency for gardeners to go to using the water hose. Keeping the surface soil loosened up in good shape does more good than half an hour's sprinkling with the hose. If one's garden really needs water, soak it thoroughly as suggested in a previous story. The whole garden should be given a thorough cultivation at least once a week, better twice a week during this time of the year. One need not cultivate deeply but just enough to keep an inch or two of the surface soil loosened up. Such a practice conserves soil moisture and is the best method known of improving seed growth.

Destroy Pests

All growers are reporting an unusual amount of damage from plant lice. It is during the hot weather that they increase most rapidly. Some gardeners report that practically every kind of vegetable in the garden is infested. As soon as the aphids put in their appearance, they should be sprayed. A good hard, soaking rain probably will kill a big percentage of the lice. On the other hand if they go without this type of natural killing, aphids will have opportunity of doing a tremendous lot of damage. One cannot depend upon the weather, therefore must spray using "Black Leaf 40" and soap.

Squash bugs and cucumber beetles make their appearance in tremendous numbers. Strong arsenate of lead spray is as good a spray for these pests as we know of. Squash bugs may best be controlled by trapping. A piece of chingle should be placed on the ground near the roots of the plants and the squash beetles will hide beneath the shingle at night and may be collected in the morning. Some gardeners use one or two moth balls in each hill.

Potatoes should be sprayed every ten days or two weeks with a Bordeaux-arsenate of lead combination spray. It is also desirable to make the Bordeaux at home. If one uses the prepared mixtures they should be used two to three times as strong as the manufacturer recommends.

Rose Bugs Bad

The majority of the telephone calls to the county horticulturalist are upon the method of control of rose bugs or rose chafers. They seem to be unusually troublesome in many parts of Middlesex County this year. A lot of experimental work has been done looking toward an easy method of control, but nothing has been found to be entirely satisfactory. Self-boiled lime sulphur seems to be as effective as anything now known. This is made at the rate of 1 pound flour sulphur, one pound caustic lime to six gallons of water, or any proportion of this formula. The caustic lime is placed in a receptacle, sufficient lukewarm water added to start it slaking violently. As soon as it starts slaking the sulphur is added. The stirring process should continue until slaking stops. If at any time a cherry colored or mahogany colored liquid appears, cold water should be added to stop the slaking. As soon as the slaking is over, sufficient water is added to bring the total mixture up to six gallons. The mixture is now ready to apply to rose bushes, grape vines or any vegetable or fruit that the rose bug is troublesome on.

Some Menial!

Speaking of names, as the Nomad has been in recent issues, we once read of an English baby being christened "Aetsotheapostles Kennett." Which is some menial, you'll admit. No doubt it was considerably abbreviated later, and it is not difficult to imagine the lad's mother exclaiming in a moment of exasperation: "Aetso, how can you act so?"

EDITORIAL

We wonder if the average Newton householder fully realizes that the Public Utilities Commissioner of the state is now considering and holding hearings on the proposition to increase the price of gas from $1.05 to $1.50 per 1000 cubic feet, which will mean about $25 added cost per year to each gas consumer in Newton. The hearings this week have been sparsely attended and City Solicitor Bartlett has succeeded in obtaining a continued hearing until next Wednesday at 2 P. M.

The matter comes up on two petitions, one of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company to increase the price of gas it sells to the local company by 40 cents, and the other for a petition of the local company to increase its price by 5 cents, making a total increase of 50 cents.

The matter should be seriously considered, the reasons of the companies carefully analyzed and all the facts well known before such petitions are granted. In addition every householder should take an active interest in matters of this kind.

SAXONY WINS OVER MAVERICK MILLS, 2-1

In a closely contested game last Wednesday evening the Saxony boys triumphed for the second time this year, over the Maverick Mills of East Boston.

The game was well played with both teams evenly matched. Saxony scored their first run in the first inning. No runs were scored by either side until the sixth when the Maverick Mills scored the run that tied the game.

J. Fitzgerald scored in the eighth inning bringing the game to a close in favor of the Saxony.

Twilight games are very popular at Victory Field as is evident by the large attendance every Wednesday evening.

The Natick Town Team will be the Saxony boys' opponent next Saturday. It is rumored that this team is one of the strongest teams in the State.

"Eddie" Casey, Harvard's star football player is on the Natick team. A hard fought contest is expected.

Handicapped by Height.

As a rule very tall persons are said to be over-sensitive about their height to such a degree that it often proves a handicap in the way of their success in life. A notable instance of this character was the nine-foot giant of Russia, Machnow, who made a fine living by exhibiting himself, yet he was the most miserable person on account of his height.

USE IN ADVERSITY

Generally a Working Out of the Law of Compensation.

Undoubted Fact That Opposition or Hardship Tends to Bring Out the Best There Is in Man's Composition.

"I wish I could slide along in business as easily as George Seagrave," said John Nelson, as he joined his father in the library after dinner.

"What's up now?" asked his father. "Oh, nothing," replied the son, "only George has just been appointed assistant general manager of his father's firm. It doesn't seem right for a fellow to have an advantage like that given to him, while fellows like me have to dig for everything they get."

"But that seems to be the way the world is made, John, and the more I see of it the more I'm convinced it's a capital arrangement. I used to feel as you do, but I've lived long enough to see a great many things adjust themselves. There is a law of compensation at work, my boy, and no class has all the advantages. It would be a very poor world if we all slid along as easily as George does."

"What do you mean by that?" asked the son.

"Just this: It takes opposition or hardship, or whatever you please to call it, to bring out the best in us and make us good for anything. You know the old saying, 'It's three generations from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves.' A man goes out in his shirt sleeves and gets his living, but he decides that his children shall have more opportunity than he, so he gives them an education. The sons make money by their educational advantages, and they pass it on to their sons, who have never known the struggle of acquisition. The sons' sons go through it. And so the shirt-sleeve process begins again. It doesn't always happen so, but it happens with sufficient regularity to form the basis of a proverb. The exception proves the rule."

"Yes, but it needn't be so," replied the boy.

"I know that," replied the father, "but there is enough truth in it to prove what I want to say. Even God himself put the Jews through the process of adversity to whip them into shape. It was only about four hundred miles in a bee line across the wilderness. But God made the Jews take forty years to get to Canaan, because he wanted to toughen them and make them ready for the conquest, when he got them there. The Bible says he led them not through the way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near. They would have got there too quickly to stand the hardship. And if they had defeated the Philistines, they would have been unprepared for a still worse enemy: I mean the opulence and plenty of Canaan."

"Men are defeated by easy victories and cheap successes more than by adversities. Disraeli was hissed down in the British parliament when he made his maiden speech. But that only toughened his fibre and stiffened his resolve. Grant's reverses were the school in which he learned how to win his later victories. It makes all the difference whether a closed door is a final rebuff or an invitation to battle through. I'm more afraid of a cheap and easy success for you than I am of struggle. If you struggle before you achieve, you will have character to hold you steady when success arrives. The trouble with many persons is that they have no character to go with their acquisitions. It is a case of diamonds on dirty fingers."

"Have you never seen an engine pounding itself to pieces on a slippery rail in winter? What it needed was sand, opposition. Friction spelled progress. Even a kite can't rise with the wind. It must ascend against it. Don't spend your time quarreling with the order of things or fretting about some one else's easy success. An oak grows in the open, tortured by a thousand storms. The hothouse plant never knows the glory of the sky."—Youth's Companion.

Russian Bison Exterminated.
What has happened, during the war, to the bison herds of Central Europe? Protected by a ukase of the Czar Alexander, bison still existed in some private parks of Poland and Lithuania, the last of their kind in Europe. Count Potocki's herd was kept in an immense park, and for some time was protected by the Cossacks of the Don. But according to a French writer, M. Grandfleur, there is no doubt as to their ultimate fate. In 1917 the bolsheviks thought fitting to include the herd in their policy of extermination. Bison could not be owned by everybody, therefore they must be owned by nobody, and so, in the general cataclysm, the famous herd disappeared.

Maggie Pet of Public.
The magpie in Kensington gardens has many friends who attend his daily levee. One of so tender a heart that she conceals chicken bones in her muff for his delight was told that an offering of meal-worms would prove irresistible.

She sought this delicacy, but only to learn that it is now unobtainable. For meal-worms, as an article of bird-fare, came from Germany.

Most of us will bear with equanimity the disappearance of this strangest of Russian trudes. To the authorities of the Zoological gardens, however, the problem of meal-worm production is said to be a weighty one still unsolved.—London Chronicle.

HER LITTLE TRICK A FAILURE

Situation That Rather Mortified Indiana Miss Saved by Sense and Tact of Her Companion.

He had come all the way from Chicago, so the Terre Haute young woman was anxious to entertain him in style. Clad in her best dress she accompanied him to a hotel for dinner and then afterward to a picture house for the afternoon. But her joy had one rap when just before she started away from the home mother commissioned her to buy a pound of cheese while she was downtown. And after she saw the very modish costume of the young man she hated that errand worse than ever. "He'd be provoked if I carried a greasy package along the street home," she thought. "But, still I have to get the cheese or mother will be angry."

They left the moving picture house and the young woman told of her next errand—a visit to one of the large department stores. "I have to get some cream and other toilet goods," she said, when they had reached the store. "You wait here and I'll be back in a minute."

So while the young man strolled up and down in front of the store, she bought the cheese, having it put into a fancy sack so that the package would resemble beauty preparations. Then, happy over her own ingenuity, she tripped out to meet the gallant. "We'll stop at the drug store for a soda and then we'll go home," he suggested.

They stopped at the drug store. Carefully the young woman deposited the sack of cheese on the empty chair opposite the young man so that he would not obtain a whiff of its contents. Placidly she went on with her conversation until some one touched her on the shoulder. "Lady," a man's voice said, "that cat has got your cheese out in the middle of the floor."

Horrorstricken, she turned to see a large cat happily eating the large wedge of cheese. She also noticed that her companion had heard and seen the man and the cat. She moistened her lips to speak but he spoke first: "If more girls would use such beauty preparations as that," he said, smilingly, "they wouldn't find husbands so hard to get."—Indianapolis News.

Hatless M. P.'s

Among the changes noticeable in this house of commons is the absence of the hat when members are in the house itself. Formerly hats were universally worn when members were seated or in the lobby. Only the whips were hatless in the lobby; that marked them out from the others. Now nearly the only members who still retain their headgear—both glossy silk topers—are Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Frederick Banbury. Both make great play with it. Sir Frederick raises his hat when a minister answers one of his questions or when, in the fencing phrase, he is touche in debate. The chancellor of the exchequer takes his off when he rises to speak and puts it on the table in front of him, and when listening to a speaker sits with it well forward over his eyes and his feet planted high up on the side of the table.—London Morning Post.

Week of Fasting Advised.

Fayette county, Pennsylvania, physicians are advising a fast of one week to cause a reduction in food prices. The physicians state that anyone above sixteen can fast a week with beneficial results and that a half-million dollars would be saved by Fayette county folks in that time.

The physicians suggest that only water be taken in the six-day fast. In discussing the proposed fast, a physician said:

"Such a fast will positively not injure anyone. I would be willing to undertake a trial fast of a week simply to demonstrate the feasibility of the plan and its beneficial results physically. Water, of course, is to be taken, but, thank heaven, that costs little. If there are any persons who desire to join me in a trial fast I am willing to start any time."

Belgians Retain Old Customs.

When the Germans invaded Belgium, several of the fleeing families sought refuge in Staten Island, New York, says Popular Mechanics magazine, where they have settled permanently, adopting many American ways of course, but clinging to certain home-land customs which are of much interest to their neighbors. One of these is the use of dogs as draft animals. Dog teams are hitched to two-wheel carts, loaded with milk or vegetables, which are made like hundreds of others to be found in Belgium. The animals wear muzzles of special design, which do not interfere with eating and drinking. A special collar, made in part of pronged egg-shaped units, is used in training the dogs to work.

Recognize God's Guidance.

The hand of the Lord is to be recognized officially in South Africa. A resolution unanimously passed the provincial council at Pretoria, calling on the government to amend the South African act in such a way that it clearly appears therefrom that the guidance of the Lord is acknowledged in all matters of the Union of South Africa.

Boys Discovered Cavern.

Boys snooping around at Look Haven, Pa., found a hole fifteen feet wide and twelve feet deep extending under the state road near the Clinton Country club. They could hear water running, and it is thought that the cavern, unsuspected by those who use the road, had been sprung from an underground stream.

CHINA EASTERN RAILROAD

The Chinese Government has despatched a delegation under leadership of Dr. John Ferguson, to investigate conditions in Siberia with special reference to the operations of the China Eastern Railway. The delegation proceeded to Vladivostok at the invitation of the provisional government there.

Dr. John C. Ferguson's home is on Arlington street, Newton. He has had long and varied experience in China. He became president of Nanking University in 1888 and of Nanyang College, Shanghai, in 1897. He became secretary of the Chinese Ministry of Commerce in 1902 and from 1903 to 1907 occupied the post of chief secretary to the imperial Chinese railway administration. He was foreign adviser to viceroys of Nanking from 1898 to 1911, and of Wu-chang from 1900 to 1910; was foreign secretary of the Ministry of Posts and Communications in Peking in 1911; counsellor of the Chinese Department of State 1915-17, and in 1917 became adviser to the president of China. The Chinese Government sent him on special missions to the United States in 1901, 1904 and 1907, and his new mission is therefore of a sort familiar to him.

NEWTON HOUSES STRUCK

Peter Brady, 66, of 13 Lucas court, West Newton, was badly burned about the arms, legs and face when a bolt of lightning struck the house yesterday afternoon. He lived alone and was engaged in cooking his supper when the bolt struck, causing an oil stove to explode. He was sent to the hospital for treatment. Another house on Clark street, West Newton, occupied by John J. Gallagher and family, was struck by lightning in the same storm, causing damage to articles in three rooms. Both houses are owned by M. Frank Lucas.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Michael P. Laloooses of Boston, said to have escaped from a Newton sanitarium was killed by a train Tuesday afternoon about 500 feet west of the Faneuil station of the B. & A. railroad.

The crew of a passing train saw the badly mangled body of the man beside the tracks. Police of the Brighton station removed the body and began an investigation of the case to ascertain what train killed him and what time the accident occurred.

REAL ESTATE

Many people complain about the prices (present) of Real Estate, Homes, etc. I have had an opportunity in the past to observe the judgment of assessors in every principal city from California to Maine. I have passed the greater part of the year in Newton for the past twelve years. It has been my observation that Newton enjoys the services of the most intelligent and fairest board of assessors that it has ever been my privilege to know. If there is any doubt in their minds as to a fair valuation they are not too proud to consult with others who they think may have an intelligent knowledge of this valuation. Therefore, when you can purchase absolutely new solid colonial brick and frame houses, including the latest and most skilled architecture with 2-car garages (heated) to match, houses with splendidly laid out grounds, in the most select and fashionable locations in the city of Newton, and there is no more select and beautiful a city on the face of the earth, for 40 per cent less than you could possibly produce the same for this year or for the next 10 years to come, and when you can purchase practically new and modern splendidly finished homes with every possible comfort and convenience, splendid locations (select) in many cases for less than assessed value, in other cases slightly in advance of assessed value, your argument of high prices falls to the ground. I have an extensive list of the above mentioned estates in all the Newtons and Back Bay, Boston. Please enquire for what will interest you.

YOUR HOME

You doubtless feel that prices will be lower and therefore you will have an opportunity to buy at a lower price.

We wish to call attention, however, to the following facts: According to the Dodge reports, residential building is $350,000,000 behind in New England at the present time and the programme for building in 1920 is so far behind normal that at the end of 1920 New England will be $120,000,000 behind.

It is obvious that it will take many years to catch up to this building, and therefore the law of supply and demand will naturally make it more and more difficult to procure homes and apartments at reasonable figures.

In spite of these conditions we have many houses for sale at prices that have not been advanced since our level of 1915, and we are prepared to show costs and profits to all purchasers to prove that this office is not profiteering.

Our business is the supplying of homes to the better class.

If you are paying a rent of $50 or more we can show you that we can better your condition by purchasing from us.

If you have available $2000 or more, we can place you in your own home immediately.

If you have $200 or more in available cash we can get you started so that within a short time you will be in your own home by using your savings as you go along to purchase this home.

We cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of your getting started. So many put it off and never get started.

You can accomplish this result by selecting the location and paying in a convenient manner for the lot.

When you have this paid for, this office and the banks are ready to assist in the financing of the construction of your home. The banks are established for this purpose and the money they receive as deposits must be loaned.

Your rent money is making and will be making more and more for the real estate owner.

If you are the real estate owner you will make this profit for yourself.

In view of the expected lowering of prices and the obvious fact on account of the shortage of homes that this lowering of prices will be temporary only, we advise the purchase of the lot, the preparing of your plans and the securing of bids at the time of this temporary drop in building costs. If you wait, you will not be ready.

If you will be frank with us and let us know your wants in detail, we shall be glad to tell you what we can do for you without obligation on your part.

Our properties are located in the best residential sections of Brookline, Winchester and the Newtons.

How We Got Collars.

It is about a hundred years since the collar came into being as a commercial proposition. It has been suggested that the necklace of teeth or claws, or string of beads, with which our early ancestors adorned themselves, was the forerunner of the modern collar.

Mr. French, war risk insurance officer of the Post, told the members that the time limit on renewing insurance policies had been extended until July 1, 1921, which will enable men a much longer time in which to reinstate.

BOTH SLIGHTLY IN ERROR

Physician and Lovesick Youth Were Alike Too Quick to Jump to Conclusions.

There's a certain physician in Los Angeles who admits the joke's on him. Incidentally, he will shortly lose his daughter. He tells it this way:

"I was in my study when the door was flung open and in came Jack. I know him well, and just a glance told me that he was far from being his usual self. Indeed, he looked positively ill.

"Without waiting for him to speak I commenced an examination. His heart was fluttering, his brow was fever heat, his pulse was racing.

"I sprang toward the phone, crying over my shoulder, 'You're a case for the hospital, young man.'

"Sure," he admitted; 'but you might have let me ask you first!'

"Ask me what? I demanded in astonishment.

"I want to marry your daughter," he said, and then I realized that I had made the wrong diagnosis and that he had misconstrued my reference to the hospital."—Los Angeles Times.

HISTORIANS HAVE NOT SAID

Of Course There Is Just a Possibility That Mrs. Patrick Henry Was Unsympathetic.

They were having one of the usual family quarrels over his having been at a meeting at the Commercial club while she was "at home all alone and so lonesome."

"You don't wish me to have any city or country spirit, either," he finally told her hotly. "I wonder where our country would be today if all the men who have lived in it had stayed at home and petted their wives all their off hours as you are wanting me to do for you?"

"Well, the women always suffer," she retorted. "Public men never have time to appreciate their wives and sympathize with—"

Then he interrupted her. "Oh, that cry for sympathy" (he was angry now). "I suppose that it's a national old cry. I imagine that while Patrick Henry was at the Virginia legislature making his famed speech, 'Give me liberty or give me death,' that Mrs. Patrick H. was at home wailing, 'Give me sympathy or give me death.'"

Shakespeare Down to Date.

Justice Wayne, dramatic actress, finds an explanation of the question as to why Shakespearean plays seldom win financial reward in what she terms Shakespeare's inability to give his productions catchy titles. She suggests a repertoire of the bard's plays rechristened to meet popular demands for stimulating titles. She suggests "How Could You, Juliet?" as more appropriate than plain "Romeo and Juliet." She also would substitute "Call of the Flesh" for "The Merchant of Venice;" "Strangled in Bed" for "Othello;" "The Nutty Princess" for "Hamlet;" "Henry, Whom Do You Love?" for "Henry V.;" "Big Dick" for "Richard the Third;" "The Knife" for "Julius Caesar" and "Moonlight and Honeysuckle" for "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The Cheerful Exterminator.

On moving into our honeymoon apartment we discovered that it was sadly in need of the services of an exterminator. With a bride's ignorance of apartment house life and the clubby ways of the cockroach, I regarded this as a personal disgrace, and took great care to keep it a profound secret from our friends.

One day, while exhibiting my shiny new kitchen equipment to a club friend, I answered the back-door buzzer, and there was the exterminator, inquiring in a loud, cheerful tone, "Well, how are the cockroaches?"

The situation reduced my mind to such a pulp that I babbled, "They're well, thank you!"—Exchange.

The B to That Failed.

As a rule the relations between Russians and Japanese soldiers in Siberia have been friendly enough. But at a town on the Transiberian railway, which had just been freed from the foul tyranny of bolshevist rule, a Japanese soldier hailed a big, staring moujik into the presence of his commanding officer. "What has he been doing?" asked the colonel. "I gave him a cigarette," said the soldier, "and then he tried to bite me!" Kissing, even between members of the opposite sexes, is not a Japanese custom.

Enormous Demand for Furs.

Siberian furs are almost entirely shipped in the raw state. Very few furs are sent abroad, the exceptions being Tibetan lamb, muffin (plucked goat skin), and a few other varieties. The great demand for furs in all countries and the keen competition in the trade has sent up the prices of raw furs to figures unheard of a few years ago. Sables have enormously increased in value, due to the short supply and the closure of the Russian sable markets.

THE NEWTON BUREAU OF HOUSE- HOLD OCCUPATIONS

The Newton Bureau of Household Occupations which is closing its office July 16 for the remainder of the summer, is the latest attempt on the part of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs to meet the needs of the community. This Bureau is the fourth of its kind to be established in the country, and the first in a city no larger than Newton.

The aim of the Bureau is to provide non-resident help, to put household service upon the same basis as any other business, and in various new ways to help solve the domestic problem to the satisfaction of both employer and employee.

After the plan was presented in detail to the Federation, it voted to furnish sufficient financial support to start a Bureau of Household Occupations, and to discover whether it could be made of practical service to the homemakers of Newton.

Such a Bureau has been in active operation since April 15, thus giving it a three months' trial. Approximately 225 employers and 100 employees have been registered and probably 100 connections have been made between employer and employee apparently, in most cases, to the great satisfaction of both.

All calls could not be filled naturally as an unlimited number of workers were not available, and being human, sometimes the employee failed to realize her obligation, sometimes the employer failed to be fair.

Yet voicing the gratuitous opinions of many of our registered friends the prevailing feeling seems to be that the Bureau filled a needed niche in the scheme of Newton's civic activities and there seems to be an earnest demand for its resumption with the coming of Fall days.

THE ONLY ROOF GARDEN IN TOWN

E. F. Coulon of the Westminster is entitled to the distinction of having the only roof garden in a city of 700,000 people. Its attractions are manifold—located high above the noise and heat of the streets, the "Roof" is always cool and in every way delightful; cosy dining tables, two, four and eight seaters, with ample room and no crowding, makes dining here on a warm summer evening a positive delight. Two orchestras, one for dancing and one for the singers, provide most pleasing entertainment for the throngs of people who appreciate a well conducted affair of this kind, and here a word must be said concerning the class of patrons who go to the Westminster roof to dine. The rough element is noticeable by its absence—not an objectionable person will be admitted, and as this is evidently well known, they keep away. Lawyers, doctors, clergymen and business men, with their families, are to be found on the "Roof." Of course, the younger people congregate for the dancing, which to them is always a delight, for the dance music is appealing and is not excelled anywhere.

The cooking and serving of food on the "Roof" is perfection itself, and one wonders how it can be done so successfully. The prices are most reasonable, considering everything, and the public really owe a debt of gratitude to this progressive hotel landlord for providing such a place to spend the evening. The "Roof" is open from noon until midnight, and will continue to serve the best of food, music and entertainment of a high order until the season closes. When the weather is inclement the diners will be served in the Winter Garden.

MOORE—HITCHINS

A pretty home wedding took place last Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hitchins, Auburndale avenue, Auburndale, when their daughter Miss Hazel Hitchins, became the bride of Mr. Harold Moore of Ellensburg Centre, N. Y. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. Dr. George Butters, of the Methodist Church.

The bride was gowned in white satin, beautifully embroidered in pearls, her tulle veil being caught with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white roses, with a shower of white heather and lilies of the valley. She also wore a pearl necklace which her great grandmother wore at her marriage.

The maid of honor, Miss Laura Shelters of Lowell, cousin of the bride, wore pink silk with an over-dress of net and carried pink sweet peas.

Two little flower girls, Helen and Marjorie Derron, cousins of the groom, wore pink dresses and carried baskets of pink roses. The best man was Mr. Harold Smith of Waltham.

A reception was held after the ceremony. The house was decorated with a profusion of roses, sweet peas and ferns. The wedding march and other selections were played on the piano by Mrs. Freeman, accompanied by Miss Marion Shelters on the violin.

After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Moore will reside in Ellensburg Centre, N. Y.

First Woman Journalist.

Mrs. Anne Royall, born in Maryland, in 1769, was not only the first woman journalist, but the first of her sex to own and edit a newspaper. She was the widow of a Virginia revolutionary war officer, and appeared in Washington in 1824 for the purpose of trying to secure a government pension. Failing in this, she started a small weekly sheet which was first called the "Washington Paul Pry" and later the "Huntress." She had met personally and talked with every president from Washington to Lincoln, and was the terror of politicians.

DOGS ASSIST LONDON POLICE

Well-Trained Animals Have Been Found of Great Help in Apprehension of Criminals.

The present wave of crime has given an impetus in Great Britain to the training of dogs for police purposes.

Police dogs were used to assist in bringing the breaker of laws to justice before the word police was ever known. In older days bloodhounds were used on the borders of Scotland in certain districts infested by murderers and robbers, and a tax was laid on the inhabitants for maintaining them; also there was a law in Scotland that whoever denied entrance to one of these dogs should be treated as an accessory to the crime.

The training of these dogs calls for a large amount of patience, intelligence and resource, far removed from the old idea of dog breaking, which was usually to beat the animal mercilessly into the observance of a few set rules.

It is step by step in his daily lessons that a dog gradually becomes a tracker of criminals by their scent, pursues escaping prisoners, discovers missing people, or finds suspected ones in concealment.

He learns fearlessly to seize and pull down any aggressor, whether his master or himself be attacked, and to do it with the least possible damage, ceasing at once when the enemy gives in.

The popular conception of the police dog is a wild, savage brute, which probably accounts for the antipathy to his use displayed in some quarters, and it is well that the public should realize that the properly trained dog is at all times perfectly under control.

ONE THING THEY OVERLOOKED

British Military Authorities Forgot the Humble Printer in Desire to Preserve War Secrets.

The marquis of Hartington tells an episode from the war days when the spy scare was at its height, according to a writer in the Halifax Chronicle. Certain confidential information that the military authorities wanted to keep absolutely secret was sent round by trusted couriers in locked dispatch boxes, with elaborate precautions of signing and countersigning and checking every stage. No one below the rank of major general was entrusted with the knowledge, and even these were bound by tremendous oaths of secrecy.

After a time it was found that these weighty documents, which were circulated in printed form, were being sent up by ordinary printers, who were under no obligation to preserve secrecy, and, in fact, took no precautions whatsoever against leakage. However, nothing did leak out, but the military mandarins, it is said, shuddered when they realized the risks that had been run.

Getting Ready for Channel Tunnel.

The gigantic task of moving back the railway station platforms throughout the Great Northern system to allow the passage of continental trains when the channel tunnel is opened has been begun, the Daily Mail is informed.

"The work of making the stations to fit the trains will take several years," said an official. "It means that every platform in both freight and passenger stations will have to be altered."

The distance the platforms are being set back is two inches. This will allow a good clearance for the continental sleeping cars, and also the large freight cars.

The "gauge" (the distance between the rails) of the continental trains is roughly half an inch wider than the British standard, but the shaping of the tread of the wheels makes it possible for trains of both British and continental system to run on the same track without risk of accident.

When He Died, He Died All Over.

"Doggone!" said Jesse Eschbach, chief examiner for the state board of accounts, as he read one of the letters in his mail. "Here is one!"

The letter told of a man who had paid his dog tax to the township assessor and the ungrateful cur had gone and died. The dog died before the assessor had turned in his books to the county assessor and the inquirer wished to know whether there was any way to get back the dog tax.

"The cruel law," Mr. Eschbach will reply, "states that taxes are paid on property owned March 1."

"That'll raise a howl!" he added verbally.—Indianapolis News.

Desert Land and Desert Sea.

A portion of the journey between Sydney, the New South Wales capital, and Broken Hill, the mining heart of Australia, lies over waterless hot country. Lieut. Sydney Pickles, who has shown the feasibility of an air service between the two cities, saw no landmark as he crossed the barren stretch and so had to use his compass. Describing the pioneer flight, he compared the interminable rolling land before him to the gray lonely wastes of the North sea which he had patrolled in his seaplane.

Got Rid of Pesticiferous Fly.

Health authorities at Saranac Lake, N. Y., declare that this probably is the first "flyless town" in the world. Despite the unusually hot weather of last June and July, there were scarcely any more flies in the town than most places have in January. It cost about $1,000 to eradicate the fly nuisance, which was accomplished by requiring that manure be screened and frequently removed.

DON'T TICKLE THE CELLIST

Happening at Detroit Shows the Un-wisdom of That Particular Form of Playfulness.One should never tickle a cello player in the ribs, especially if he is a famous one such as Phillip Abbas of the Detroit Symphony orchestra, remarks the Detroit News in a recent issue.
Graham Harris, second violinist, did,
and it almost cost him a lot of trouble, to say nothing of a new violin bow.The story came out when Harris filed a suit for $100 in justice court against Abbas. It was a story of temperament and temper and the trouble arose at rehearsal. Ossip Gabrilow-itsch, director, was away for a few minutes, and the temperamental ones indulged in a few moments of playboy, not music. Harris reached his violin bow over and tickled Abbas in the ribs. Abbas does not care to be tickled in his ribs and he swung a wicked cello bow to demonstrate that he did not care for tickling. There was a snap and the second violinist's best bow was a mess and a wreckage."Ah, ha," shouted Harris. "You have broken my bow. You shall pay."
"Shan't," shouted Abbas. "Your own fault. You had no business in my ribs." They glared and then the director appeared and the fight was dropped. It was taken up again via a justice court suit. It is believed that the suit never will be heard. The orchestra manager heard about it first.He got the men together, scolded, fumed, argued, coaxed and at last won. They shook hands. The damage was settled. And harmony of both sorts reigned.

RETURNING TO SAVAGE DAYS?

Feathers, Furs and Jewels, Now So Popular, Are Reminiscent of Our Early Ancestors.Glimpses of present fashions and views of some shop windows lead to the impression that the world is, after all as some commentators say, reverting to the savage, remarks the New York Evening Sun.Women are wearing more and more feathers in their hair and more and more large and ornate jewelry upon their hands and in their ears. Men are showing a decided inclination to ornament themselves to the limit of their purses in these days of the high cost of clothes, and altogether anthropologists tell us it is not such a very far cry from the adornments of present-day civilization to that of the Neanderthal man or the Garden of Eden itself.The fashions of last winter showed a predilection toward furs such as the world has never seen since the days when they were worn raw. Both men and women wore them.In milder climates women seem to be wearing less and less. The stage is noteworthy in respect to the unclad feminine back and certain sections of society seem to follow the stage. Fashion's return to Eve seems in certain cases to be a mere matter of weeks, as we progress in these swiftly changing times.

Gassing Forest Fire Impractical.

The officials of the United States department of agriculture have been in receipt of so many suggestions relative to extinguishing forest fires with the use of gas bombs dropped from airplanes that it has been found necessary to issue a statement for the purpose of explaining that the scheme is not feasible. For the purpose of overcoming a detachment of men, a mixture of one part of virulent poison to 1,000,000 of air would be entirely sufficient to accomplish the purpose, but one of 750 parts to the thousand would not be powerful enough to quench a conflagration. Another thing to be taken into consideration is the difficulty of dropping the bombs with the necessary precision. The art of striking a target with any degree of accuracy has not been developed at this time and there is no prospect that it will be sufficiently perfected to the point of becoming available for the purpose of fighting fires.

New England Least American.

Talk of Americanizing New England rings oddly on American ears. If the cradle of our country needs Americanizing, where are we?We think of Massachusetts as the heart of New England. Among the states it is "next to the oldest." But a count of her present generation's parentage shows Massachusetts to be almost the least American of the 48 states, the World Outlook states.The 1910 census discovered that only 32 per cent of Massachusetts folks were native born of native parents.
More than 68 per cent were either foreign born or were born here of foreign parents. Later figures would be even more astounding. The years that intervene between 1910 and the outbreak of the war saw the greatest influx of immigrants the country has ever known.

New Aerial Regulation.

The small Australian who flies a toy balloon or runs with his Japanese kite against the wind may offend against the majesty of the war precautions act. A new war regulation issued in February, 1920, gives power to the naval or military authorities in the commonwealth to declare any area a prohibited area for the flying of balloons during any specified period.
"Balloon" is defined as anything up to an airship. The reason for this all-inclusive regulation was primarily the flight from Sydney to Melbourne of Sir Ross Smith, the airman who crossed the world from London to Darwin.

SOUND ADVICE

Cost of Living Cannot Be Reduced by Any Artificial Means

"The cost of living," says Roger W. Babson, the well-known statistician and financial expert, "cannot be decreased by legislation or any other artificial means." While Mr. Babson's articles usually are prepared mainly for the eye of merchants, bankers and brokers and investors, this one, entitled "Frocks or Food," has so much of general public interest that Mrs. F. L. Higginson, Director of the Savings Division of the First Federal Reserve District, secured his permission to make it public. According to the author production per man has fallen from twenty to forty percent below normal, people do not want to produce and are mainly bent on spending, "having become lazy and careless as well as extravagant." He estimates that last year the American people spent more than $22,000,000,000 on non-essentials and he claims that the time is approaching when people will have to do without useless clothes and other luxuries or prices will soar still higher. The lesson that he points is that the purchasing power of money and credit cannot be increased by increasing the supply of money, so the only thing to do is to get down to work and return to the war-time thrift; that labor must not be wasted on non-essentials. Mr. Babson's remarks follow:

"We hear so much nonsense about the cost of living and its causes, that a frank discussion of the subject is necessary at this time.

"(1) There is only a limited

Amount of Labor and Materials. "The same glass, iron and labor which go into making automobiles cannot be used for making houses; the same wool, cotton and time consumed in making faddish wearing apparel, most of which is sheer waste, is not available for useful articles. It is estimated that last year the American people spent over $22,000,000,000 on non-essentials. If millions of men are engaged in producing materials for making luxuries or in manufacturing or selling luxuries of any kind, they have not time to devote to raising foodstuffs and making the essentials of life. Hence we must either do without useless clothes and other luxuries or have the price of necessities soar.

"(2) Seven-Eighths of the Selling Effort Today Is Directed to Getting People to Buy Luxuries, according to rough calculation. If you doubt it, look at the advertising columns of your daily newspapers. Notice each advertisement and ask yourself whether the nation or any individual is better off by purchasing such articles. Certainly the great majority of this stuff makes no one healthier, happier or more prosperous. When looking at the matter from an impartial standpoint, it seems impossible that sane people could be induced to give good money for such useless things.

NO ROOM FOR TEACHERS

An Appeal for Help in Obtaining Places to Live for Our School Teachers

We, as citizens, are undoubtedly proud of our schools, our teaching force, and the type of students we graduate. A recent movement which materially increased the salaries of the teachers is proof that Newton desires to attract efficient and highly trained men and women for its schools. In previous years the city has been obliged to lose some of its best instructors to other cities where salaries were more attractive, and then has found itself in the predicament of being unable to fill the vacancies except at a higher rate than was paid to the former incumbents. Such a condition does not now exist. Newton is offering better salaries and is able to secure desirable teachers to fill vacancies. But another difficulty has arisen. The teachers are unable to find places to live. The days of small boarding-houses are over. There are comparatively few in the Newtons and all of these are filled all the time and have waiting lists. Even those who take "meals" cannot accommodate the number of people who desire to be served. The private home where a teacher is a paying guest is almost unknown. The family who will rent rooms is rarely to be found. What are the teachers to do?

There is a Bureau of Information for teachers in regard to boarding places formerly carried on by the Newton Teachers' Association, but now conducted by the Newton Grade Teachers' Club. This Bureau co-operates with the School Department and all inquiries are referred to the local representative who tries to furnish addresses and information which shall be helpful to new teachers coming to the city or to other teachers wishing to change their locations.

The outlook this year has been most discouraging. Never has the Bureau been so much used and never has it had so little to offer. It is a fact that two teachers who had secured pleasant rooms in the city last year were obliged to go to Boston because they could find no place to get meals. It is also a fact that a new teacher refused to come to Newton after he found that he could not get a place to live. Many similar instances might be cited. The recent activity in real estate has caused many teachers to be turned out of homes where they had been established for several years.

It is obvious that teachers want board and room in the same house, and in order to do the best work in the schoolroom they ought to have it. But it is the exception rather than the rule when a teacher does not have to go out for her meals. Some are doing light housekeeping, which seldom insures a sufficient amount of

PRICE OF GAS

Public Hearing on Proposed Increase by Local Company from $1.05 to $1.50

The public hearing Wednesday afternoon by the Public Utilities Commission on the petition of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company to increase the price of gas five cents in this territory in addition to whatever increase is allowed the Boston Consolidated Gas Company by the Commission in the matter of sale of gas to the subsidiary Company, was sparsely attended.

The company presented the following figures on which it based its case. Price of gas, 91 cents, increase in office salaries, 1 cent, labor, 2 cents, depreciation, 2 cents, amortization 2 cents, dividends, 12 cents, a total of $1.10. To this should be added the possible increase in gas, as above stated, which, if granted in full will add 40 cents to the above total, making the price $1.50 per 1000 cubic feet.

City Solicitor J. W. Bartlett represented the city and told the Commission that this increase was unwarranted. The company is now paying 8 per cent. dividends, and desires to pay 12 percent. Mr. Bartlett stated it was his belief that if this increase was allowed the company would be in condition to pay 15 percent. He declared that the figures showed that the company would dispose of about 930,000 cubic feet of gas this year.

A 12-cent allowance for dividends would raise $111,000 on this amount of business and to which the company could add $30,000 more from other sources, making a total of $141,000. An 8 per cent. dividend would call for $45,000, about $43,000 would be required for interest, etc., leaving about $50,000 for surplus.

The petition was also opposed by the Mayor, city solicitor and city manager of Waltham and by the town counsel of Wellesley.

At the hearing last week on the Boston Consolidated Gas Corporation, counsel explained to the commission that since 1906 oil has gone from 4 cents to 14; that generation fuel has advanced from $4.50 per ton to $18.50 per ton; labor from 20 cents to 65 cents per hour, and miscellaneous supplies from 20 to 50 cents, and these various items amount to an increase of 75 cents per 1000 cubic feet of water gas; coal gas is increased by the same elements 71 cents per 1000, and as it takes an average of one-third coal gas and two-thirds water gas to produce the manufactured gas, the total average increase is 74 cents per 1000 feet.

CLASS GOVERNMENT

The most injurious enemies of the American farmer and wage earner are the agitators of class consciousness, class prejudice, class hatred and class striving for special advantage, who graft money and votes from both of these great elements in American citizenship through the pretense of waging class war in their behalf.

The apostle of class enmity and greed arouses ugly feelings and false beliefs and selfish, unpatriotic sentiments among those whom he assumes to lead. But by arraying the particular element to which he appeals against society in general, and making demands sacrificial of the rights and interests of the public as a whole, he also arouses unnatural and unnecessary prejudice against that element. Instead of promoting the interests he professes to serve, he thereby sacrifices these interests and stands squarely in the way of practical measures of relief and betterment justly due and immediately attainable.

The class and caste system, the scheme of using politics for the promotion not of the general welfare but for the promotion of class and group advantage, is a European importation, entirely out of harmony with the fundamental spirit of Americanism. It is the "class war" revolutionary socialists have been talking about for a generation, a philosophy which is the natural reaction from the class and caste government of the more autocratic states of Europe.

Class and caste, class consciousness and class war have no more place in American life than the racial and national jealousies and hatreds, based upon commercial, political and dynastic rivalries that have kept Europe constantly in a state of war or preparedness for war for two thousand years. The whole theory of the class war is based upon the European conception of a state dominant over the minds and bodies of men, a state to which citizens are slaves; upon the belief that political power is a thing to use for the oppression and exploitation of every class but that which has for the time being seized the reins of power. With that conception of government Americanism has nothing in common.

Just now certain more or less self-constituted leaders both of the wage earner and the farmer,—most of them disassociated in both employment and interest from both elements,—lawyers, speculators, adventurers and professional politicians,—are attempting to organize the farmers and wage earners of the country for delivery at some price to be paid the organizers. They are seeking to get in the ground work for this delivery by bitter, violent, unreasonable and unpatriotic appeals to class consciousness and class hatred. They are seeking to array the farmer against all the rest of society; they are seeking to array the wage earner against all the rest of society; they are using the just as well as the imaginary grievances, the proper as well as the impossible demands of the more radical groups of both elements as a basis for extracting money and power from both elements.

And all to what profit,—to what practicable advantage,—of either element? To the inevitable detriment of both. The same energy, the same expenditure, the same organization, directed toward practicable, feasible means of betterment for the farmer, the wage earner and every other element in American citizenship, would produce real though more gradual progress toward better conditions for the toilers of the farm, field and mine. Patriotic Americanism does not lose sight of the welfare of any element in citizenship. It knows that class and group advantage, won at the sacrifice of the general welfare, only provokes retaliation and reprisal. It knows that no progress for any element in our population is worth while in the long run that does not recognize the rights and interests of the general public.

The Republican party is the great party of the common welfare. It is not the party of any single class, element or group. It is a political party founded upon the Lincolnian doctrine that in American industrial and political life "we all go up or down together." It is the party of McKinley protection and of the Rooseveltian square deal. It is a party which appeals, not to the narrow prejudices of a single class, but to the broad patriotism which would serve the common weal, not by tearing down some, but by building up all.

The farmers and wage earners of America have had a recent experience in the practical results of believing the promises and accepting the program of demagogues and doctrinaires who have made platform pledges of "new freedom" for the man who tills. They have been duped by the prospectus of the millennium offered to them by an alleged party of "the masses," and have been handed, as a result, an administration which has in its economic operations harmed and hindered and oppressed everybody and helped nobody.

The great need of the disturbed hour in which we live is common-sense leaders with a common-sense program and a common-sense attitude on the part of the American people toward the practical common-sense purpose of pulling themselves by individual and political effort out of the hole into which we have fallen while following dreamers, rainbow chasers and designing demagogues in the vain quest for the pot of gold at the foot of the political rainbow.

And this is the program offered by the Republican party, in a platform moderate in its program; a party liberal in its leadership, above and beyond all devoted to the fundamentals of historic Americanism, with its guarantees of ordered liberty and protected property, not for any single class, large or small, but for all the people of all the states of all the sections of the whole republic. The common sense, patriotic farmers and wage earners of the country should and will stand, not outside, but within such an organization on the eve of its return to national control, and bear their full part in the control and direction of national Republicanism to the end that the common welfare of all Americans may be promoted through it during the next four fateful years.—Geo.

B. Lockwood, in the National Republican.

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

THE Standard Oil Company of New York was a pioneer in the oil refining industry. It has made petroleum history by constantly improving the quality of its products, and by discovering and developing new ones.

Socony products and service have kept pace with every step of progress made in the petroleum industry—and with every requirement of those who depend upon it in any way.

As a result, Socony gasoline today represents half a century of refining experience. It is truly the standard of quality motor fuels. Socony stations are ever increasing in number because motorists are demanding, more and more, a uniformly clean and powerful gasoline, easily obtainable.

Because Socony is always uniform, it always gives full mileage with low carbonization. And this is true whether you buy it in Bar Harbor or Buffalo. The economy of a permanent carburetor adjustment is possible only when you can obtain your regular gasoline whenever you need it. Socony service enables Socony users to do this.

For complete motoring satisfaction, begin using Socony regularly today.

terial Reduction in the Cost of Living Except as People (Especially Our Wives and Daughters) Stop Buying Luxuries. For instance, all the newspapers and the nation's best brains are directed to selling the most extravagant luxuries. Will people stop such buying until forced by panic and depression to stop? If our women buy—not from necessity—but simply "to keep up with the Joneses," will they stop buying until the Joneses stop first? Statistics show that the Joneses will never stop until forced to by lack of funds or by lack of employment.

"(4) The Total Purchasing Power of Money and Credit Cannot Be Increased by Increasing the Supply of Money. We can expand the quantity of soup by pouring in water; but this does not increase the total value of the soup. When we double the amount of paper money, we reduce by one-half the purchasing power of each dollar. As the real assets behind our currency decrease, those who know about it want more money for their materials. This in turn raises the price of other things. Labor then must have more, and so the merry-go-round operates. In the food-producing sections of the West, farmers applying for credit to market their goods are being turned down. The farmer has begun to grow restless. He takes the risk of producing food and then finds it difficult, perhaps even unprofitable, to market this food. And in addition he sees great amounts of capital being absorbed in the production of chewing gum, candy, pleasure cars, summer furs, and other nonessentials.

"(5) Most People Are Becoming Lazy and Careless as Well as Extravagant. Consumption Is Not Only Increasing, But Production Is Falling Off. Movie houses and beauty shops are crowded; very few people are doing an honest day's work. Production per man has fallen in industry by 20 per cent. to 40 per cent., and this applies often to the officials and directors of corporations as well as to the wage-workers. On the farms it is almost impossible to get help. There is sure to be a milk shortage this winter. Everyone wants to consume or to sell. Very few want to produce. People have entirely forgotten their obligations to society. The Gospel of Service is being entirely forgotten. This is why I say that the need of the hour is Religion.

"(6) Immigration Most Necessary for Low Costs—Has Very Seriously Declined. Previously in our country's history we have had a continual supply of unskilled labor from Europe. Our farms, mines and foreign people have been largely worked by foreign people a month, we now have barely a margin of new arrivals over departures. The labor leaders are correct in their reasoning that the shutting out of the immigrant will boost wages; but it won't give their followers more food. Someone must work on the farms, at the mines and in the forests. Otherwise we must go without food, coal and lumber. We cannot all be "skilled" workmen, chauffeurs and clerks.

"It is not my purpose to advise people to stop buying, but rather to call attention to this fact: Whether people voluntarily stop buying to prevent further inflation or are compelled to do so by high prices and lack of funds, the result will be the same. It means that many will temporarily be thrown out of work. Readjustment always causes suffering. Hence there is sure to be considerable suffering during the next few years. This suffering can be lessened only as we save more, only as we buy more thrift stamps, put more money in the banks and purchase bonds.

"The cost of living cannot be decreased by legislation or any other artificial means. The problem is really a religious problem rather than a physical problem—a religion which will make people think along sound economic lines. During the latter half of every period of depression, people become thriftless, industrious, and get imbued with the Gospel of Service. These qualities lay the foundation for the following period of prosperity. During the latter half of every period of prosperity, people become extravagant, inefficient and irreligious. These qualities result in the inevitable depression which follows. We cannot have our pie and eat it too. We must choose between spending and thrift; between frocks and food. We can't have both."

nourishment when they come in after a hard day's work in the schoolroom and have to get themselves something to eat. It does not seem to be a question of money. The teachers will pay what is reasonable if the opportunity will offer, and be glad of the chance.

What is Newton going to do about it? Are there not some families who will open their homes to the teachers? They are a desirable class of people and they merit the consideration of all citizens who are justly proud of our schools. It would be a fine thing if some organization like the Federation of Women's Clubs would finance a clubhouse for teachers where there should be a cafe—a Franklin Square House on a smaller scale, or a Y. W. C. A.

But since there is not such a place in the city at present, what can we do about it? The need is now. If you will take a teacher to board for next year will you notify the Bureau of Information? If you will rent a room to a teacher will you notify the Bureau? It makes no difference in which Newton you live. There are teachers in each district who desire to be within walking distance of their schools and the Bureau attempts to serve each district. There is no fee required as it is for the convenience and assistance of the teachers. Communicate with Miss Marion D. Bassett, 105 Central Ave., Newtonville, who will be glad of your cooperation.

HOME OF DEADLY SCORPION

Region in Mexico That Is Avoided by Travelers for a Most Excellent Reason.

Revolutionary bands and brigands may ride up and down Mexico, but there is one strip of territory that even the hardest and most daring of them will not brave. It is a desert country that extends from a point near the city of Durango to the borders of the state of Zacatecas, about seventy-five miles long by fifty miles wide. It is asserted that myriads of scorpions infest this region and are the most deadly of the species.

In the city of Durango, although regarded as outside of the more deadly zone, the death rate, due to scorpion stings, is high. This is especially true as to children. The alachrane, as the insect is commonly called, is regarded as such a deadly pest that for many years the municipal government has paid a bounty of one centavo, equivalent to about one-half cent of American money, for each one killed and delivered to the official custodian of dead scorpions. Something like 100,000 of the scorpions are killed and bounty paid for them annually.

Killing scorpions is a regular industry with many men, women and children of Durango. One is told that some of the natives even go so far as to establish regular colonies of the poisonous insects in their homes for the purpose of breeding them for the market.

GERMS FUTURE WAR WEAPONS

Scientist Draws Dark Picture of Savagery That Will Be Part of Next Conflict.

Mobilization of the mosquito, the house-fly, the louse and various other disease-carrying pests for the dissemination of deadly germs in enemy territory is a possibility of "the next war" pictured by Prof. Maxwell Lefroy, a London scientist.

"I foresee the mosquito from Brazil starting yellow fever in new lands, the house-fly, duly infested with cholera, dysentery or enteric and the typhus-laden louse doing their deadly work much more effectively than spies poisoning wells," said Professor Lefroy in a recent address.

"This would be part of the work of a war office of entomologists—the working out of strategic plans for the distribution of these pests by airplane. It seems that the world is intent upon furnishing an airplane service for these pests, many of which are now held somewhat in check by natural enemies in their native climes. This will give them just the means of transit they have required. It will be a peace-time danger as well as one that could be used very offensively in war. The danger from these 'winged battalions of death' is more serious than one dare estimate."

Airplane Has Its Limits.

The officials of the United States department of agriculture have been in receipt of many suggestions relative to extinguishing forest fires with the use of gas bombs dropped from airplanes that it has been found necessary to issue a statement for the purpose of explaining that the scheme is not feasible. For the purpose of overcoming a detachment of men, a mixture of one part of virulent poison to 1,000,000 of air would be entirely sufficient to accomplish the purpose, but one of 750 parts to the thousand would not be powerful enough to quench a conflagration. Another thing to be taken into consideration is the difficulty of dropping the bombs with the necessary precision. The art of striking a target with any degree of accuracy has not been developed at this time, and there is no prospect that it will be sufficiently perfected to the point of becoming available for the purpose of fighting fires.

To Destroy Grasshoppers.

Poisoned bran bait is a simple, reliable and cheap method of destroying grasshoppers. The formula is: Wheat bran, 25 pounds; Paris green, one pound, or white arsenic, one pound; lemons or oranges, six finely chopped fruits; low-grade molasses, two quarts. The mixture is scattered over the fields. Beneficial results have been obtained from the poison, but in whatever process is followed, communication must unite, for if one farm is rid of the insects, a new invasion will come in from the adjoining farm. An interesting incident of all poison baits is that lemon juice is added, thus it seems that it is necessary to hand the hopper a lemon in order to get rid of him.

Europe Takes to Chewing Gum.

The jaws of Europe are wagging on American chewing gum. Efforts were made at different times to popularize chewing gum in the countries of Europe, but always without success until the American soldiers took some over there, after which the gum-chewing habit became a veritable craze. Chewing gum to the value of $2,164,290 was exported by the United States during the year 1919, and England was the heaviest purchaser. During the war chewing gum became very popular in the munitions factories of England, where it took the place of tobacco, smoking being barred.

KEEP WORKING THE GARDEN

The backyard home garden is not unlike the farm in that there is always a lot of work to be done on it. If it is not planting, it is weeding, if it is not weeding, it is cultivating or spraying. There is always something that can be done to advantage.

Many home gardeners are training their tomatoes to a stake. All side shoots should be kept cut off. One should go over his vines at least once a week. Not more than two stems should be permitted to live and bear fruit.

Many home gardeners have harvested their first crop of peas. The pea vines should be pulled and placed in a compost pile for rotting or if one is going to spade the land they may be spaded under. Cabbage and cauliflower plants should be placed where the peas were. If one does not care for these crops it is still not too late to plant winter beets and a late variety of string beans or Victoria spinach.

When one picks New Zealand spinach and it is ready for picking in many gardens the shoots should be nipped off at the end of the stems, also all side shoots which have become long enough. Good young shoots develop in the axis of the leaves which may be harvested in a few days. This process will give one a continual supply of greens.

Many vegetables should be thinned which have not yet been thinned. Swiss chard should not be permitted a stand closer than six inches between the plants. In harvesting Swiss chard the outer leaves are picked, other shoots grow from the stem of the plant to take the place of those that have been harvested.

Squash vines are commencing to start running. It is well to cover two or three joints of each runner with earth so that they will take root. This is in order to protect the vine in case the squash vine borer gets into the main stem. A root system will develop at each joint and will save the vine and mature the crop after the main stem is cut off.

Keep Up the Spraying

Keep up the spraying for blight on potatoes, tomatoes, cucumbers, muskmelon and celery. Continue to use Black Leaf 40 with soap against lice on all the different plants on which they make their appearance. Use arsenate of lead for any eating insect.

There is no twilight zone in politics. Right is right and wrong is wrong, and the same strict standard of morals, equity and justice must obtain as in any private business or professional matter. When we get our politics entirely on this basis, when we live our patriotism daily, we will do a citizen's full duty, and not until then. I repeat I have no use for the individual who is either "too busy" or "too good" to help. He has no just complaint to make, whatever happens. He is riding on another's ticket.

—Will H. Hays.

EDITORIAL

We have been somewhat surprised to learn that some of our good citizens are still ready to swallow the proposed League of Nations, without "crossing a 't' or dotting an 'i'" as President Wilson desires. It has seemed to us that it has been clearly demonstrated that such a league without the reservations proposed by Senator Lodge, would destroy our nationality, deprive us of the inherent right to govern ourselves and place us at the mercy of any combination of the foreign powers might desire. We feel sure that our mothers do not wish their sons to police or fight in Armenia or Siberia at the behest of foreign governments and we can see no good reason why we should consent to such an arrangement. And yet that is the underlying motive in the support that President Wilson is to give the Democratic presidential ticket and the only way to show our opposition is by casting a ballot for Harding and Coolidge. "Let's go."

We earnestly hope that the article we print this week by Mr. Roger W. Babson will be carefully read and considered, for it clearly indicates that fundamental principle, which must be followed if we are ever to return to a safe and sane condition of affairs. Each one of us must do his or her bit. We should put aside the temptation to expend money for luxuries and so far as possible go without many of the things which we are beginning to believe are the necessities of life.

Our city fathers ought also to keep to this principle more closely for bond issues of over $100,000 this year, mostly for improvements which have waited for some time and which could have been postponed another year,—are not to be commended at this time.

We shall never return to normal conditions until we set our faces in that direction. Let us begin NOW.

Newton Republicans have an opportunity at the coming state primary on Sept. 7, to select an admirable candidate for secretary of state in the person of Mr. Fred W. Cook of Somerville. This office has usually been filled by men with political influence and not for particular merit. But in Mr. Cook, we have a man thoroughly familiar with the election laws, vital statistics and other duties of the office of secretary, thru fifteen years service as city clerk of Somerville, where he has had charge of exactly the same kind of work. In the large number of candidates for this office, Mr. Cook stands head and shoulders above them all in point of ability.

Our school teachers are facing a serious situation in the matter of obtaining places to live while engaged in their work in this city.

SUMMER OUTING

The annual outing of the Clafin Guard Veteran Association was held on Wednesday, consisting of an automobile trip to Nantasket with a shore dinner at the "Villa Napoli."

The day was beautiful and the start was made from Newtonville Square at 10:15 A.M. reaching the well known hostelry at 12 M.

The lobster and clam dinner was excellent. After a short stay, enjoying the scenery and fine air of the hill, the party left for Paragon Park where on the piazza of the Palm Garden they enjoyed the music of Mace Gay's Military Band, (which was formerly the Regimental Band of the 5th Regiment, Mass. Nat. Guard) and the various performances in the park.

After a short visit to the beach, autos were taken for home, arriving back in Newton before 6 P.M.

The outing was a success in every particular and was greatly enjoyed by all.

SUMMER CONCERT

An interesting event for mid-summer will be the musical and dramatic program to be held next Monday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Wellington, at 81 Church street, Newton.

The artists include Mons. Maurice Marechal the well known cellist, and the Misses Helen Smith and Lois Perkins. The ladies are to give a play "Masks and Hearts". The entertainment will be followed by dancing.

Miss Perkins, Mons. Marechal and the accompanist, Mr. George Rexford Tillson were overseas in Y. M. C. A. entertainments during the war.

FUTURE AUTO MOTIVE POWER

Interesting Speculation as to What Will Take the Place of Fast-Diminishing Gasoline.

Gasoline will continue to go up in price. A few years from now we shall have to use something else as fuel for our automobiles. The question is, what?

The government bureau of mines thinks that we shall get the requisite substitute from coal. In every city there will be "by-product coke ovens," which will extract from the coal a light oil available for the purpose. The coke can then be used in our furnaces and for other ordinary fuel purposes.

One ton of soft coal in the process of coking yields about three gallons of oil first rate for motor fuel. At present prices the heat in the oil has 20 times the commercial value of the same amount of heat in the form of coal.

Germany during part of the war was practically shut off from every supply of mineral oil. She depended for her motor fuel entirely on coal, putting the latter through by-product coking plants. Before long we shall be obliged to do the same thing in the United States.

Part of the light oil in coal is toluol, which in time of war is needed for the manufacture of TNT. Modern warfare requires enormous quantities of the substance for making high-explosive shells. During the first part of the war the allies came near defeat for lack of it.

Another by-product from the coking of one ton of soft coal is 5,000 cubic feet of gas, available for cooking and other household uses. The coke itself makes an admirable smokeless fuel for furnaces, if people could only be persuaded to use it.

SEES INFLUENCE AS HANDICAP

Charles M. Schwab Insists That Character Is the Biggest Asset in Modern Business.

Influence! The worst thing that can happen to a man is to start life with influence. So declared Charles M. Schwab in a talk to Princeton students upon how to succeed in business, remarks Leslie's. Young fellows who excuse their failure on the score of having no influential friends to give them a boost get cold comfort from Mr. Schwab, who has come up from the ranks, and who now goes so far as to advise any young man who has an influence not to use it to get a start. Mr. Schwab laid down as the first fundamental of a successful life, "Unimpeachable integrity." Character is the biggest asset in business. A whole array of brilliant qualities will not take the place of this cornerstone of enduring success. The whole tenor of Mr. Schwab's heart-to-heart talk was a new emphasis on the old-fashioned qualities of loyalty, industry and persistence. The young man who possesses these traits is bound to succeed, for opportunity was never so great as it is today. No industry is more highly organized than the steel industry, yet with all the progress made in the last 20 years the industry is far from its zenith. So great is the magnitude of modern industry in all branches that opportunities for leadership, instead of decreasing as some imagine, have actually increased in proportion as industry itself has grown.

Big Trade in Old Papers.

A curious item of commercial news is that the east coast district of the island of Sumatra in 1918 imported 886,835 pounds of "second-hand newspapers" from the United States. Imports of the same kind of merchandise from January 1 to September 1, of last year, were 572,585 pounds. The papers are wanted to cover young sprouts of rubber trees and sugar cane. The climate of the island is very hot—as might be surmised from the circumstance that the equator runs through the middle of it—and, to prevent the sprouts burning up in the fierce sunshine, sheets of paper are spread over them. Old newspapers serve the purpose very well, each sheet being held down with stones at the corners. In Hawaii the same method of protection is adopted, but in that archipelago sheets of rice paper, imported from Japan, are used.

Evolution of Man Foreseen.

In one of his recent lectures Sir Oliver Lodge, eminent English scientist, announced that the earth would probably continue to exist for 20,000,000 years more. These are, of course, round numbers. Some scientists estimate that the earth will live for ten times this age. There have been animals of one kind and another on this planet for fully this length of time. The dinosaurs are believed to have lived through some such period. The age of man, which is probably only a few thousand years, seems the merest trifle by comparison. When we consider how man has developed during recorded history, which is less than ten thousand years, we may hope that he will evolve to an infinitely finer type in the future.—Boys' Life.

Rhubarb.

A certain East side man was cutting the dock weed in his back yard with a scythe, and his eight-year-old son was watching, seemingly engrossed in thought. Presently he asked: "Papa, why does God make dockweed?" On receiving no satisfactory reply he set to thinking again. In a few minutes he looked up again with a smile all over his face. This was his explanation: "I'll bet God got mixed up when he was making things and thought this was rhubarb."—Indianapolis News.

BEDSTEADS THAT SAVE SPACE

Three-Story Sleeping Places Are the Latest Idea to Be Placed on the Market.

Two-story beds, that is to say, bedsteads containing two beds placed one above the other, have been in use for years, but something rather novel in this line is the three-story bed, containing three beds, one above another, which was placed upon the market not so long ago.

These bedsteads, which are made entirely of iron, are so constructed that they can be knocked down to occupy comparatively small space for convenience in handling in shipment and transportation. The three-story bed separating into five parts, the head and foot sections and the three beds, each bed section having a wire mattress permanently attached to the side and end pieces.

At the ends of each mattress frame are pins that fit into slots placed at suitable heights up the head and foot pieces. To set up a two or three-story bed one simply stands up the head and foot pieces and drops the pins on the mattress frames into the slots and there is the bedstead with its wire springs in each tier ready to receive the mattresses.

Bedsteads of this sort are intended for camps, apartments, steamers or wherever the floor space is limited.

TOKEN OF THEIR GOOD WILL

Soviet Government Made Present of Entire Train to Americans Whom They Expelled.

When the soviet government took control in the Urals, writes French Strother in the World's Work, the workmen at Kyshtim organized their soviet. They waited on the American staff at the mines and said they were sorry, but a new day had dawned, in which the workers would be able to own and operate everything themselves. Regrettably, because they liked their American friends away. The day of their departure arrived and the workmen and their wives and children escorted the staff, as a guard of honor, to a special train which they had provided to take them away from Kyshtim. The train was decked with flags, and loaded with flowers and delicacies. Just as it was about to pull out, amid the friendly shouts of the newly enthroned proletariat, the leader of the soviet in great excitement called the senior American back to the platform. "I almost forgot to tell you," he gasped. "The special train—don't bother to send it back; it also is a present from the soviet to our good friends the Americans."

European Airplane Service.

Two Danish airplane companies have made application to the Danish government for permission to establish a regular passenger and mail service by airplane between Copenhagen and Warnemunde, Germany. The shortest and most used passenger route from Copenhagen to Berlin is by way of train to Gledser, Denmark, two hours by ferry to Warnemunde and then by rail to Berlin. At present practically all of the Scandinavian and Baltic passengers and mail traffic to Germany is carried over this line, and during the last few months all trains have been crowded and the airplane service if established it will operate in co-operation with a German company, which will establish a regular service between Warnemunde and Berlin.

Electric Plant on Coal Fields.

The modern method of building an electric-generating plant directly over a coal supply, and transmitting energy instead of fuel to the point of consumption, is to be employed by the state of Victoria, Australia, for supplying the city of Melbourne. The field of brown coal to be used immediately is at Morwell, 80 miles away, and is accessible by open cutting. There is, it is estimated, 20,000,000,000 tons in the district and 150,000,000 tons in one square mile, enough to generate 100,000 kilowatts for 150 years. A 40,000 to 50,000 kilowatt station will be built first, which will be sufficient for three years, but later the development will be extended, and finally include the utilization of the Kiewa river and other water powers.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Corn-Cob Industry.

The United States produces from 2,500,000,000 to 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn every year. That means 18,000,000 or 20,000,000 tons of cobs. A large percentage of course, is not available for manufacturing purposes, being scattered over the farms or fed with the corn. Large quantities, however, are concentrated at central points and are easily available. The establishment of a plant for the manufacture of corn-cob products in the Ohio valley is being contemplated. Three shellers will furnish 24,000 tons of cobs a year. The plant will operate on a basis of 100 tons a day. It will turn out cob adhesive, furfural, acetate of lime and cellulose.

Concerts by Wireless.

The Philadelphia wireless school gives a concert between 9:45 and 10 o'clock every night to everybody in wireless range that has a receiving set and wishes to listen, and the music is enjoyed regularly by at least 5,000 persons sitting comfortably in their homes, some of them as far away as New Brunswick, N. J. One man in Chestnut Hill made his own receiving set and the outfit, outside of the receivers, cost him about $7.50.

DISABLED VETERANS' OUTINGS

An American Legion committee of which Henry J. "Sailor" Ryan is the active head, has taken up the matter of providing outings and recreation for the former service men who are confined in the hospitals in and about Greater Boston.

"Many of these boys," said Mr. Ryan today, "will never regain their health or strength. They have sacrificed their lives and happiness for us, and it is high time that their comfort be paid some little attention. I am tired of hearing talk upon the subject and the expression of sympathy that does not do them a bit of good. People who are so disposed are now to be given an opportunity to do something tangible for the relief of these men."

Mr. Ryan's committee plans to arrange a series of outings and entertainments at intervals throughout the remainder of the summer as well as next winter. The first one is fixed for Friday, July 30. On that date every service man in a Boston hospital who is in condition to be moved will be taken in an automobile to the Chestnut Hill estate of Louis K. Liggett. Luncheon is to be served through the kindness of Mr. Liggett by members of the Red Cross Canteen Service. There are to be horse races and exhibit buildings, etc.—to races and exhibitions and other entertainment.

The only uncertainty as to the success of this and subsequent affairs of a similar nature is the securing of automobiles in which to convey the men from and to the hospitals. It is urgently requested that persons willing to devote their care to this purpose for the requisite time on Friday, July 30, notify Mr. Ryan at Room 1259, Little Building, without delay. Cars are required for the transportation of about 200 men who are unable to walk.

Tax of Idleness.

It would be thought a hard government that should tax its people one-tenth part of their time, to be employed in its service. But idleness taxes many of us much more, for we reckon all that is spent in absolute sloth, or in doing nothing; with that which is spent in idle employments or amusements that amount to nothing. Sloth, like rust, consumes faster than labor wears; while the used key is always bright, as Poor Richard says.—Franklin.

—The funeral of Frederic Farley Cutler was held Saturday afternoon at his home, 11 Hobart road, and the friends present included many men in the professions represented by Mr. Cutler's publications. Rev. Oscar B. Hawes, minister of the Newton Centre Unitarian Church, officiated and the music was by the Cathedral Quartet, the selections including "The Lost Chord." The body was cremated at Mt. Auburn and the ashes will be buried in Newton Cemetery. The bearers were General James G. White, George Walker, William B. Merrill, Charles S. The Bells of Michael's Mount.

The pealing of joy bells in the year 1919 has made up for many years of silence in the ancient bellies of Europe. Somebody deplores that on the occasion of the peace the one remaining bell of St. Michael's Mount on the Brittany coast, should not have been rung. There would have been a certain piquancy in hearing the clang of that bell, the gift in 1711 of the abbot from across the Rhine who, he said, reigned at the Mount only by proxy. But St. Michael's Mount is without its bells; even the abbot's bell which used to warn and guide the fishermen out on the bay has ceased to ring. The old abbey's peal was busy indeed, during the Hundred Years' War, warning the countryside of the approach of the enemy. In the Revolution the order went forth that the bells should be melted down, but it was never carried out. In the intervening years all the bells have disappeared except the one given by the German dignitary.

Deer Increasing in California.

Though the game reserve established in the greater portion of the Angeles forest reserve in California, which includes the San Bernardino and Sierra Madre Mountains, has been in existence but two years, wild deer are multiplying rapidly, according to forestry officials. It is believed that within a few years great herds of deer will be roaming the hills. Deer have been on the verge of extermination in the Southern California mountains, but establishment of the preserve is protecting the herds. Even now deer often appear along the boundary lines of the restricted area, and at times wander into cities near the foothills, seeming to be very tame. The forestry service will establish special patrols along the reserve during the coming hunting season to see that the law is not violated.—Christian Science Monitor.

Good-by, Dobbin.

Figures compiled by the New York sanitary bureau of the department of health and reported by Harry T. Gardner, secretary of the Automobile Dealers' association, show a great decrease in the number of stables, and, naturally, in the numbers of horses occupying them. In 1917 there were 108,036 horses. The most recent figures show a shrinkage of 32,936 horses. Chicago, too, shows a falling off in the registration of horse-drawn vehicles under the wheel tax law. In the four years ended May 1, this year, the number of such vehicles decreased from 49,582 to 32,489. This diminution of about 34 per cent-compared with New York's falling off of about 30 per cent.

Active, Anyway.

Paul went with his mother to the country. Fresh watercress from the brook was served on the table and upon venturing to try some for the first time, he exclaimed: "Oh, it's alive!" "Why do you think so?" asked his mother. "Because it bites my tongue," he answered.

MOON AS ALLY OF FARMER

Agriculturist Asserts He Courts His Sweetheart and Plants His Corn by Luna's Light.

A contributor to the New York Tribune, living in the country, is alarmed lest the scientists blow up the moon. He very properly says that the city man doesn't appreciate the moon; in fact, he seldom sees it. But out in the country the moon serves a real purpose, and it ought to be protected from onslaughts from the rockets of the scientists. The contributor's letter is so delightful, and as it contains as much wisdom as many other letters we read we quote at length:

"Nobody knows what the moon is made of. Maybe it's made out of some kind of mineral that will explode when this flash powder goes off on it. And let me tell you, Mr. Editor, that wouldn't be a very funny thing for anybody to have the moon blow up.

"Folks in the city don't know anything about the moon, whether it is anything or whether it ain't, and they don't care. But we folks that live in the country use the moon a great deal. I courted my wife by moonlight, and my oldest boy is doing the same thing with his girl. I've planted my corn in the full of the moon for forty years and never had a poor crop. Besides, we use the moon in lots of other ways. I can't hardly think what life would be here in the country without the moon."

Aye, aye, sir, we are for you—especially since you seem to know how to court. It has been a marvel to us for years how a city boy manages to fall in love with a girl when the light came from an electric bulb instead of from the friendly moon.—Columbus Dispatch.

PILGRIM WORTHY OF HONOR

Elder Brewster Gave Up Much When He Abandoned His Home for a Great Principle.

Gone is the ancient pear tree, and no trace remains of the mulberry tree planted by Cardinal Wolsey, under the welcome shade of which Sir Edwyn Sandys sat in the long summer days of 1575 at Scrooby manor, but Pilgrims in England in 1920 need not neglect to raise their hats to the memory of Elder Brewster at his one-time home, because special arrangements have been made for escorting parties to the haunts of Pilgrim Fathers during the tercentenary year. All the Fathers made great sacrifices, but one will be tempted to think that William Brewster made perhaps more than most when one sees the ruins of his palatial home he left. Traces of the moat still exist, and some of the great carved beams can be found in stables and cowsheds nearby. The size of the house can be realized when it is remembered that it was large enough to shelter Margaret Tudor and her entire retinue on her royal procession to Scotland.—Christian Science Monitor.

One Man Is Crew.

Recent naval tests have disclosed the remarkable characteristics of a new form of miniature torpedo boat, so low in the water that it has almost the invisibility of a submarine, according to a recent announcement in Popular Mechanics Magazine, accompanied by several interesting illustrations of the curious craft. It is operated by one man. It is but 40 feet long, and weighs 8,500 pounds with its single torpedo. The entire forward half of the boat is the torpedo chamber, and that part of the hull is U-shaped to conform to the big projectile, while the deck above is hinged along one side to permit the torpedo to be hoisted in. To discharge it, the whole rounded bow plate is lifted up like a gate, flooding the chamber and permitting the torpedo to go forth on the power of its own propeller.

Catch a Freak Fish.

A freak fish, 11 feet long and weighing 500 pounds, was brought to port by Capt. Steve Massa of the smack Ardita, reports a San Diego (Cal.) correspondent. The fish was caught in a sea bass net off Point Loma at a depth of 30 feet. The fish had a mouth two feet in diameter, no teeth, purple eyes, a short, blunt nose, with a sharp horn composed of solid bone and a skin like a rhinoceros. A. L. Manahan of the state fish and game commission and Capt. W. C. Crandall of the California Biological Institute at La Jolla were unable to identify the piscatorial freak. Photographs were taken of the fish and were sent to the University of California in an effort to trace its ancestry.

Again, Leather From the Sea.

Considerable interest is at present being shown in the possibility of utilizing the skins of sharks and porpoises for the making of shoe leather. The bureau of standards has completed arrangements to test the comparative durability of upper leather made from shark and porpoise skins as compared with that from calfskin and cowhide. The co-operation of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association has been secured in the making of the necessary shoes for the test. It is believed that the results of this investigation will be watched with considerable interest.—Scientific American.

NEWTON "Y" BASE BALL NOTES

The fast Silver Lake Base Ball team comes to Newton to play the "Y" team. They have made a fine record in victories so far this season and those claiming to know say the "Y" team is due for a trimming. Well, they will have to show something big, as the "Y" is going fast just now.

The game will start promptly at 3.30 Saturday afternoon on the "Y" field and the fans will have a good chance to look at Bartlett, the big right-hander who has just lately signed up with the "Y". Bartlett, by the way, was one of West Point's best twirlers last year.

Last Saturday afternoon the team went down to Framingham where they handed the Town Team one of the worst defeats they have suffered in years, winning 17 to 2. The whole team proved themselves heavy hitters, garnering a total of 20 hits off pitcher Dart, claimed to be one of the best in the state.

"Pick-Ups" at Framingham

Newell lost a fine three-bagger, being called out for not touching first base.

Varley found his batting-eye at last, getting three hits.

The heavy hitters of the team, Bills and Gullian, only got one each.

Lane pitched a steady game, as usual.

Curry proved himself a good man to "get on."

Lane did well at bat, getting two doubles and one single.

Barnes handled short-stop well, clouting out a three-bagger.

Haynes started the fun in the first inning with Curry and Varley on, clouting out a neat hit, scoring both runners.

Brimblecom played well in right field, also at the bat, getting a single and three-bagger.

The property, being new, is not taxed, but the selling price was upwards of $22,500.

Riley G. Crosby has bought the estate at 19 Fairmont avenue, Newton, owned by Mrs. J. T. Lodge. This estate consists of a frame house with modern improvements, barn, and 16,000 feet of land. The total assessed valuation is $13,500, of which $10,000 is on the buildings. Mr. Crosby buys for a home.

ENJOYED TOBACCO IN SCHOOL

In the Seventeenth Century It Was Common for the Children to Use the Weed.

The latest diatribe against women smokers—by "a doctor to a famous life insurance company," according to the London paper which publishes it—closes the tobacco habit among women as an evil of modern growth. But when tobacco first reached England it was enjoyed in common by both sexes. In the seventeenth century, according to John Ashton, "it was not only usual for the women to join the men in smoking, but in Worcestershire the children were sent to school with pipes in their satchels, and the schoolmaster called a halt in their studies while they all smoked—he teaching the neophyte."

Scotch women used to enjoy a pipe the same way as they enjoyed a pinch of snuff. One of the compilers of the "Statistical Account of Scotland," published in 1791, records that "The chief luxuries in the rural districts are snuff, tobacco and whisky. Tea and sugar are little used, but the use of whisky has become very great. The use of tobacco may almost be said to be excessive, especially among the female sex. There is scarce a young woman by the time she has been taught to spin but has also learned to smoke. Smoking seems to have been introduced as an antidote to rheumatism and ague. The favorable alteration with respect to these diseases has only produced a greater avidity for tobacco."

TO REVIVE HOME INDUSTRY

Good Work Done by Knitters During the War Has Given Impetus to New Movement.

What was accomplished by the vast volunteer army of knitters during the war is one of the creditable facts in the history of the world upheaval through which civilization has been passing, says the St. Louis Globe Democrat. But for the millions of devoted women who kept the needles flying the horrors of the trenches would have been still more frightful and deadly. The achievements of the knitters have suggested the organization in New York of a society for the revival of home industry and domestic art. Its first move is to gather all the spinning wheels within reach and look up practical instructors in the use of a household implement that had become but an antique piece of furniture. Man-kind needs weavers as well as plowmen, and spinning at home is one of the oldest forms of industry. In the cabins of American pioneers the spinning wheel was a necessity, and kept busy in what, by a stretch of imagination, were called spare hours. Those were the days of homespun textiles because often no others were to be had.

Find New Kind of Animal.

Captain Phillips, writing from British Ruanda, in the Tanganyika territory, states he has shot a specimen of an hitherto unidentified species of duiker. The animal is about the size of a large goat, and is known as an eppo or empu by the natives, to whom it is in a way sacred as being the totem-beast of Musinga, the now reigning chief of Ruanda, over the greater part of which a mandate was recently given to Belgium by the peace conference.

The eppo lives in the bamboo forests of Mount Sabino and other mountain forests, and seldom comes into open country. It often takes refuge in the low and broad forks of large trees. The creature has a stumpy tail, oribi horns, and marsh hooves; in color it is a rufous black, and has a bright yellow stripe along about half of its backbone. In the case of the present specimen, which was, apparently, healthy, part of the back was nearly bald of hair.—London Times.

Plane That Is All Wing.

A system of airplane construction which is being developed and particularly adapted to large craft appears on its face not only interesting but plausible and practical, provided the location of the weight is not detrimental, says a report by J. H. Colwell, published in the Journal of the Patent Office Society. Broadly stated, the system comprises a hollow plane merged into the fuselage so that the large trussed wing spars, the engine housings and fuel tanks, as well as the pilot, are inclosed within the lifting surface itself. The center of the plane between the upper and lower walls is deep, while the wings taper to small depths toward the tips. The entire machine, including the pilot's car, is practically a part of the lifting surface, thereby necessitating comparatively few external wind resisting parts.

He Rode Free.

The rear platform of the car was crowded with poor business men in starched collars and rich laborers in overalls. There would be nothing unusual in that if one of the overalls party had not given the crowd a lesson in thrift.

"See, I've got a dime," he told the conductor.

The conductor nodded.

"I'll pitch it. Heads you get the dime or tails I ride for nothing."

The conductor nodded again and the coin fanned the air.

"Tails," announced the overalls one triumphantly, and he took his place with the rest of the crowd.

BY THE LIGHT OF A STAR

By S. Lillian McMullen

A little drab Mother with tired eyes
Awaits in the crowd for the home-bound car;
Her bag is filled with the week's supplies,
Her arms with bundles o'er flowing are;
And a laughing babe with all the rest
Is gathered close against her breast!

Jostled and pushed on every hand,
A little of no-account creature she;
She struggles aboard and she takes her stand,
For the car is as full as it can be;
And the poor arms ache, but the smile is meek,
When the baby pinches her pallid cheek!

Her hat is shamefully out-of-date,
And her coat is sadly the worse for wear;
And a couple of patches decorate
The shabby shoes, while a wisp of hair
Persistently trails across her face:
Oh, yes, she's decidedly commonplace!

But the laughing babe with his cheeks aflame,
With his brown eyes dancing and opened wide?
There's not a doubt but his beauty came
Not from the Mother's but Father's side!

And the wan little Mother adoringly Kisses the dimples where knuckles should be!

Then lo! of a sudden, ignored, but a Saint,
The little drab Mother stands glorified!
A picture that wants for an artist to paint,
As she quietly passes, unheeding, aside.

Behold on her sleeve there gleams afar
From a plain black band—a Golden Star!

LEAF BLIGHT

The State Department of Conservation has observed that there has been a very general outbreak this summer of a disease known as anthracnose on maples and oaks, and has the following information to offer in regard to it.

The presence of this disease is made evident by the wilting of the leaves and the browning of patches of the tissue. The disease is caused by a fungus of the family "gleosporium" which infects the twigs, leaf stems and veins of the leaves. The effect of the disease is to cut off the transfer of the sap from the wood to the leaf tissue and to thus bring about the wilting and browning effect observed in the leaves. This disease is common on sycamore, but its occurrence on maples and oaks is rare. Unless its operations are carried through several seasons, it will not do much harm.

Spraying with a fungicide, such as Bordeaux, in the early stages will prevent its occurrence, and all fallen leaves should be raked up and burned, as in them the spores of the disease may be carried over to the following year.

WHAT A DEMOCRATIC VICTORY WOULD MEAN

Consider for a moment what the election of a Democratic President would mean to this country. Mr. Cox stands upon an administration platform. He is committed unqualifiedly to the acts and policies of the Wilson regime. This embraces everything, including the League of Nations Covenant as brought back from Versailles, an endorsement of the Burleson conduct of the Post Office Department, a commendation of the operation of the War Risk Bureau, approval of the waste and extravagance that has characterized the Government at Washington since the Armistice—in fact, everything that the administration has done or left undone. He is committed to the platform and must stand upon it, whether he would or not.

But this is not all. His election would inevitably mean a Democratic Congress—both the House and the Senate in the hands of Democrats, and a return to the organization which existed from 1913 to 1919 to the country's great cost.

All the important legislation—constructive legislation so sorely needed—would be formulated and directed largely by men coming from one section of the country only.

The committees of the Senate and House, as made up under a Democratic administration, would have as their heads the present ranking Democratic members. What would this mean? Here it is in a nut shell.

Senate
Banking and Currency would be directed by a senator from Oklahoma. Commerce by a senator from Florida.

Finance by a senator from North Carolina.

Education and Labor by a senator from Georgia.

Interstate Commerce by a senator from South Carolina.

Judiciary by a senator from Texas. Naval Affairs by a senator from Virginia.

Post Offices and Post Roads by a senator from Kentucky.

Rules by a senator from North Carolina.

House
Appropriations, Tennessee. Agriculture, South Carolina.

Claims, Alabama. Foreign Affairs, Virginia.

Interstate and Foreign Commerce, Tennessee. Judiciary, North Carolina.

Merchant Marine and Fisheries, Texas. Military Affairs, Alabama.

Naval Affairs, Tennessee. Post Offices and Post Roads, Tennessee.

Public Buildings and Grounds, Florida. Rivers and Harbors, North Carolina.

Rules, North Carolina. Ways and Means, North Carolina.

POLITICAL NOTES
Representative Brimblecom has a few extra copies of the Manual of the General Court for 1920 which can be had on application at the Graphic Office.

Former Representative Edward L. McManus of Natick is thinking of entering the contest for the Republican nomination for senator in this district.

There are 546 registered voters in Auburndale, 556 north of the track and 290 south of the track. There are also 433 persons assessed a poll tax who are not voters, 106 south of the track and 327 north of the tracks.

Lower Falls has 124 registered voters and 68 persons assessed a poll tax who are not registered.

McINTOSH TREES HIT BY SCAB

The famous McIntosh apple crop produced annually in this section is being severely injured by ravages of apple scab. Recent inspection by county agent A. R. Jenks of the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture, Waltham, seems to show that about two-thirds of the prospective yield is already infested so badly that the apples will be saleable only for culinary purposes. This means thousands of dollars loss to the growers, as McIntosh is rapidly becoming their principal variety. This popular fruit is bound to be scarce and high in price to the consumer this fall.

The trouble is caused by a fungus which attacks both leaves and fruit. Until recent years, growers have controlled it by spraying with a weak lime sulfur fungicide. The scab is much worse this year than usual because of the vast amount of rainy weather during the spring and early summer. This made conditions ideal for the spread of the spores.

The County Bureau hopes to have been instrumental in saving part of the crop through a series of meetings last spring at which it was recommended that the growers substitute home-made Bordeaux mixture for the usual lime sulfur. Orchardists who tried the material report no damage as yet and are entirely satisfied with their results.

The present prevalent condition is very discouraging to most of the growers, however. Apple scab makes its first attack upon the soft skinned varieties. Undoubtedly the experience which growers are going through this year may tend to stop their further planting of McIntosh in this section until the Bureau finds something which will definitely control the pest.

RETAIN OLD RELIGIOUS RITE

Quapaw Indians Stick to Form of Worship of Which Feast Forms an Important Part.

In the vicinity of Devil's Hollow, several miles east of Quapaw, Okla., there is a wigwam-shaped church building located miles from any white man's habitation, and a long distance from the nearest Indian domicile, where the Quapaw full-blooded Indians congregate regularly to worship the Great Spirit in silence. They sit about a tiny fire that has been built on a stone base in the middle of the dirt floor, from Saturday night at sundown till Sunday noon, fasting and praying, but never speaking a word.

A feature of their church meetings is the feast that follows the fast and religious rites. The meal is served in a little mess house nearby, and when the services are over the squaws, who have slipped out a few hours before the time to close, are ready with the dinner and all sit down to partake of the food that is always a part of the program.

The church was built many years ago, so that the residents might have a place to worship, a custom still kept up, regardless of the fact that there is no preacher, no choir, nothing to call them but the religious spirit of the Indian. Chief Quapaw owns nearly 1,000 acres of land in this region, but when he was offered $20,000 for a few acres of it that lay in the city of Quapaw, which was named after him, he refused because, he said, he knew the white man would try to get the money, but could not get the land away from him.

DRAW MUSIC FROM A SAW

New Yorker Gets Startling and Pleasing Effects by Using the Tool as a Violin.

The conventional saw has recently appeared in a new role—namely, as a musical instrument. Indeed, one of the leading novelists of a current New York musical review, the musical carpenter who uses his saw as a violin.

After protracted experimentation and untiring practice, Sam Moore of New York city has succeeded in getting very agreeable music from ordinary carpenter's saw, according to the Scientific American. He holds the saw handle between his legs, holds the tip of the saw in one hand and works the usual violin bow with the other. The vibrating steel blade emits soft, appealing notes, the pitch of which is varied by changing the curvature of the blade.

All sorts of queer effects can be obtained by the adept manipulation of the blade; in fact, the music derived by this means can hardly be described. If anything, it resembles the human voice; then again it has the queer wail of the Hawaiian Ukelele. All in all, the effect is startling and pleasing.

New Vegetable Ivory.

A recent number of the French bulletin of the colonial office gives a description of a new form of vegetable ivory, which can be used in European industry in place of the corozo. This new substance is produced by the kernel of an edible fruit growing upon a palm of the upper Senegal-Niger territory, the Borassus ethiopum. The kernel is seven or eight centimeters long and five centimeters broad, thus permitting the cutting of balls or plates of considerable size to be used in marquetry, or the making of dominoes, piano keys, buttons, etc. The kernel becomes extremely hard when thoroughly dried. As a proof of this it is stated that it is at the present moment being used as building stones for making of the houses of native chiefs, while it is expected that the future cathedral at Dakar will have tiled pillars constructed of these same kernels.—Scientific American Monthly.

Seen in Piccadilly.

A rough little pony in a coster's cart stood near a mansion in Piccadilly on a chilly morning. A pile of logs for firewood was being unloaded and the pony was enjoying the warmth of a somewhat unusual loin-cloth flung over his back. It consisted of a handsome edging of fur attached to a musquash coat, which was seen to belong to a woman who was shifting the wood. Who was coatless while she worked. So the little rough pony was sharing what was known a year ago as "munition overalls"—because these handsome fur coats were the sign and signature of the girl munition workers, whose sudden enormously increased incomes enabled them to realize the ambitions of their life—a fur coat as good as you please. And very handsome they were, and very well they became the owners—and very contented the pony looked.

Serbian Adopt English Words.

From an Oxonian in Belgrade, writing to the London Spectator, we hear of the excursions of English words into Serbia. Some of them are slightly Serbified, but easily recognized. For example, "aeroplane," "budget," "klub," "miting," "shtraik," "drednot," "Trans-pont" has made its way unannounced. "Submarine" has come in from the French in the form of "smaren." Tanks are "tankovi." No interpretation is necessary of the Serbian form of a world word, "fordovi." "What region on the earth is not full of your labor." These are war words, but "djetlemanski" entered Belgrade before the war. So, as communications between peoples increase, alien words of many languages in many languages are naturalized.—New York Times.

NO SYSTEM CAN BEAT BANK

But a Certain Old Lady Surely "Threw a Scare" Into the Monte Carlo Authorities.

Lord Rosslyn, and other frequenters of Monte Carlo, who are said to be racking their brains to invent a system to "break the bank," may as well save themselves the trouble, for, as M. Blanc, founder of the gaming tables, once truly said: "Red wins sometimes, black often, but Blanc (white) always, and in defiance of every system human ingenuity can devise."

"There never has been a system," the directors said to an interviewer not long ago, according to London Answers, "which has given us a moment's anxiety—save one, and that one 'system' was the discovery of an old lady who had frequented the tables for years. She had noticed that at roulette certain numbers always followed each other. Thus, if the croupier spun with the number nine opposite him, 26 was certain to be next; and if zero was in the same position, 32 would surely follow. After checking her observations day after day, she began to play, and won—won in all 300,000 francs, breaking the bank three times. The officials were in despair. M. Blanc was summoned from Paris, and, as a desperate resource, he persuaded the old lady to part with her secret for 70,000 francs down.

"The secret was absurdly simple after all. The roulette wheel had become warped by the heat, and was not quite round, so that when spun from a certain point, it invariably stuck at a certain other point."

TURKISH MOSQUE ON WHEELS

Enabled Pilgrims to Mecca to Conduct Their Devotions While on Way to Holy City.

The "chapel railway coaches, with seating accommodation for 90, now fitted to certain long-distance expresses in America, are not entirely a novelty.

A "mosque car" used to be run on the railway built 15 years ago between Damascus and Mecca the capital being subscribed mainly by pious Mussulmans. All the rest of the rolling stock was obtained from countries outside Turkey, but the mosque car was built in Constantinople.

It was externally distinguished by a minaret about eight feet high projecting from the roof; the walls were inscribed with verses of the Koran, and at one end a large compass was hung, indicating the direction of the holy city.

Pilgrims to Mecca were thus able to conduct their devotions with full pomp and ceremony during the three days' journey from Damascus.—London Tit-Bits.

Electricity to Locate Oil.

New uses for electricity are constantly appearing. One of the latest is the detection of crude oil in the earth instead of boring for it. It is stated that crude petroleum has been located electrically in the shallow oilfield near Corsicana, Tex., and that further tests are being made around Burkburnett. A series of batteries is used for the test, the negative terminal being connected to a wire which is dropped into a dry waterhole, valley or indentation, and the positive terminal being connected to a "land wire," which is used to make contact at various points on the surface of the field investigated. It is stated that the higher electrical resistance of oil compared with other constituents of the earth, permits it to be located by the reduced deflection of a sensitive instrument in the circuit.

Pulp Yields 20 Commodities.

Twenty commodities manufactured from near-silk made from the pulp of fir, spruce and hemlock are being exhibited by the West Coast Lumbermen's association in Portland, Ore. The exhibit was prepared in the United States forests products laboratory of the University of Wisconsin and is being sent to all parts of the country for inspection. The commodities include silk cloth, silk stockings, gunpowder, paper absorbent (a substitute for absorbent cotton), paper bagging, rope and twine, linoleum, shingles, reed fiber for furniture and matting, paper lath, rug yarn, paper webbing and phonograph records.—Indianapolis News.

War Brides Awear.

Incompatibility of American and French customs has caused 12,000 of approximately 50,000 French war brides to return to France, according to Mrs. Reginald H. Johnson, president of the recently organized L'Espoir Franco-American club in Pittsburgh. The club, formed at the suggestion of Mile, Odette de Bongion of Paris, who was in Pittsburgh recently, is expected to broaden the interests of French girls who became the brides of Americans overseas, and to make them contented in their new homes.

Pictures Show Effects on Tires.

Slow motion pictures of the type that have amused movie fans by slowing down swiftly moving bodies to the point where every action may be analyzed have been utilized by a tire company for a scientific study of just what happens when a heavily loaded motor-truck climbs a curb, drops off an elevation or bumps over a railroad track. This is the first time this very valuable form of photography has been used by a tire company. Among the questions the pictures will aid in solving are the effects of heavy blows on highways, trucks, loads and tires.

MID-SUMMER MEETING

Aldermen Transact Considerable Routine Business Before Tax Rate Comes Out

The usual mid-summer meeting of the aldermen, held on Monday night was well attended, only three members, President Harriman and Aldermen Phipps and Spaulding being absent. Vice-President Forknall presided.

There was a list of hearings, many of them routine, including Edison poles on Carleton street, Lakeview avenue, Crescent avenue, Bracland avenue and Centre Green, gasoline permits by A. D. Gentile, 305 Watertown street, L. D. Towle, 785 Centre street, the Saco-Lowell Shops, Oak street and of A. Antonucci, 383 Boylston street, at which no one appeared.

Messrs. W. E. Lowery and J. P. Keefe spoke in favor of the laying out of Rustic street, Nonantum and Mrs. Butterfield filed a written protest against a sidewalk on Chase street. No one appeared on the proposed laying out of Brae Burn road.

Mayor Childs sent in a large number of communications, the following being immediately granted, $821.30 for Laborer's pension, $450 Office expenses, City Engineer, $100 Block system for Assessors, $646 for new chassis, Health dept. ambulance, $3000 for Care of Disease, Health Dept., $2219.16 additional for interest on debt, $150 temporary clerk, $350 Office expenses and $7000 House Connections Street Dept., $506.60 for printing Building Code, $100 for awnings Police headquarters, $560 for rent Waban kindergarten, and $2200 for water mains in Columbus place, Manomet and Bothfield roads. The Mayor recommended $440 for additional clerk in the Buildings Dept. and the board voted $100 for a temporary clerk. No action was taken on the Mayor's request for electric lighting in the Williams school, $700, and in the old and new Claflin schools, $800, on payment of claim of C. G. McMullin for $33.56, on petition of City Employees Union that regular employees shall not be required to work on legal holidays, without loss of pay, for an appropriation for further purchase of canned meats from army supply base, and transmitting request of donors of Burr playground that it be named "The Newton Playground".

The Chief of Police reported that Albert H. Elder, Bernard W. Stevens, Harris P. Gray, William T. Coveney, Robert S. Ingram, Fred T. McGill and J. H. McGready, had no court record and the board then approved the application of these gentlemen to be incorporated as the Lakewood Tennis Club.

The Registrars of Voters sent in a revised jury list for the ensuing year, and the School committee notified the board that the new school house at Waban had been named the Albert Edgar Angier School.

The request of the Buildings Commissioner that the Waban school be allowed to connect with the sewer at a grade of 1.19% was granted.

A large number of petitions were granted including 4 pool tables for Benny Romano, at 200 Adams street, B. W. Riley as an auctioneer, Edison relocations on Oak avenue and attachments on Walker street, telephone relocations on Woodcliff road, Hillside

THE REPUBLICAN LEAGUE

Aims to Enroll 50,000 Voters Before the November Election

Twenty-one thousand men all working hard for one single purpose make a mighty power with which to reckon.

Twenty-one thousand men in Massachusetts bending every energy for the success of the Republican Party in Massachusetts this year spells victory at the polls in November.

This is precisely what the Republican League of Massachusetts means to Harding and Coolidge and to the balance of the Republican ticket.

Never before was the Republican Party in its long and useful career placed in a better position than it is in the Bay State, and the credit for this warrant of coming triumph belongs largely to the organization and development of the Republican League.

The Republican State Committee realized from the beginning what a tremendous adjunct the Republican League would prove to be, and from the organization of the League, January 31, 1919, the State Committee has given every sympathy and entire support.

Today, the League is known from the tip of Cape Cod to the most northwestern mountain peak in Massachusetts. Its ranks are filled with volunteer Republicans, mostly young and active men who are eager to do things.

The fact that the League devotes its entire activity to party development and to enlisting in its ranks men who have not heretofore taken prominent part in such work, commends it to the wise Republican leaders of the State.

The Republican League is the largest and liveliest organization of Republicans in the United States and other Commonwealths are patterning similar organizations from its working model.

While the League is 100 percent Republican, it never takes part in primary work. Its business is to infuse Republican enthusiasm into the rank and file of the party. It has nothing to do with the nomination of candidates for any office. Its business is to elect candidates.

While men who are prominently connected with the party as candidates for leading offices frequently address the meetings of the Republican League, they do not do so as candidates but as apostles of Republicanism. No man pleads his own cause or displays his personal ambitions in a Republican League meeting.

The splendid growth of the League is due solely to its purpose—that of

GAS GOES TO $1.35

A Thirty Cent Increase Allowed by Commission on Public Utilities

The price of gas in this city, on and after August 1st, by order of the State Commission on Public Utilities, will be $1.35 per 1000 cu. ft. or an increase of 30 cents over the present price.

The whole of this increase is allowed by the Commission to the Boston Consolidated Gas Co., as a temporary increase in the price it is allowed to charge the Newton & Watertown Co. for the supply of gas, all of which comes from the Boston Company. The petition of the local company for an increase of five cents for its own use is not granted by the Commission.

In its decision on the Boston Consolidated case, the board says: "The conditions which require the measure of relief are likely to prove of short duration and are subject perhaps to very sudden and violent change. Consequently it is, in our opinion, a temporary situation which we are dealing with, and we wish, therefore, to make clear that, while we are fixing a standard price in obedience to the statutes, we are doing this only temporarily and that the relief which we are now giving, pending completion of the investigation now being made by the city of Boston and the department of public utilities as to what price should be granted permanently, is not intended to be the proper standard price for gas after that investigation has been completed and an attempt is made to settle that question on the basis of the facts and conditions then existing."

"The prices of fuel and oil have been steadily mounting and each increase in the costs of all these basic commodities has caused substantial rises in the expense of manufacturing gas. These facts and their effect have been pointed out in many decisions of this commission in the course of the last few months and have formed the main ground thereof. Here again these causes and their operation have placed a gas company in need of relief in order to perform its functions properly as a public utility, and the only question in the case is what the measure of that relief should be.

"The investigation conducted by the City of Boston has reached a point where the data gathered and the opinions formed by its experts are of distinct assistance to us as independent aids in solving this problem."

"The Boston Consolidated Gas Company not only furnishes gas directly to consumers but also sells 22 1/4 per cent of all the gas made and purchased by it to other companies for distribution by them. The conditions which we have described are just as applicable to the gas which is furnished to other companies as to that which is sold directly to consumers. We feel, therefore, that the burden which has resulted should be properly apportioned and we have accordingly voted that the price of gas furnished by the Boston Consolidated Gas Light Company to the other companies be increased."

In discussing the advance to the com-

GARDEN INSECTS

We dislike talking about garden insects so much, but they seem to be causing a vast amount of damage in this section. At this time of the year there are nearly all the pests prevalent in more or less quantities that are likely to be serious in this section. The striped beetles appear to be unusually bad upon the cucumbers and squashes. Spraying with arsenate and Bordeaux should be repeated every six to ten days.

Bean Worms

Pole beans and dwarf beans are effected with a worm which is not the green clover worm that was so common last year. This worm is about 1/2 inch in length, very slender and light green in color; lighter green in color than the green clover worm which we experienced last year. This looper has a habit of doubling up or looping as it walks. It is a very active worm and difficult to control.
Spraying with arsenate of lead, using the mixture much stronger than ordinarily called for should give good results.

Cabbage Worms

The second brood of cabbage worms are now doing considerable damage. It is safe to use arsenate of lead spray upon the cabbages when they are small. The cabbages grow from the inside, pushing the outside leaves loose, therefore when the foliage is covered on the heads today, these leaves will become loose outer leaves within a week or ten days' time. If one is fearful of trouble from this treatment, any kind of a fine, dry, gritty substance like dry dirt or lime may be used with good results.

Blight

Keep after the melon vines, cucumbers and tomatoes with Bordeaux mixture for blight. The muggy, sticky, damp weather such as we are having is ideal for the rapid spread of this trouble.

THE REPUBLICAN LEAGUE

making the Republican party a mighty power in this State. When it was organized on the last day of January last year, it had but 34 members. Its membership six months later, on July 1, 1919, was 2500! Think of that for a baby Republican elephant!

On November 1, 1919, two days before election day, the League had grown to 9000 members. On January 3rd, this year, it celebrated its first birthday with 9500 members, every one of whom was an active, enthusiastic, believing Republican.

Then the Republican League tightened its belt and rolled up its sleeves and started out on a grand drive for 50,000 members by November 1st. By the time the presidential primaries were held, April 27, the League had recruited 15,750 members. Less than two months later, on June 1st, it had 19,357 Republicans on its membership roll. Today it has just about 21,000 members and every day sees scores more of names added to the list.

Just now the Republican League's staff of talented and devoted official workers is preparing for a mighty Presidential campaign in this state, and the State Committee is co-operating with it. A grand Glee Club is being organized to sing the way to victory. It is led, of course, by Albert Edmund Brown, the League's Choral Master, and the man who led the singing at the Republican National Convention in Chicago.

The League is also organizing a Speakers' Bureau for the campaign and some of the Republicans of National renown are going to be here this summer and swing around the circle and address all the big gatherings.

B. U. SUMMER SCHOOL

Eleven students from Newton and vicinity have registered for special courses at the Summer Session at Boston University.

The registration this year at the Summer School is larger than ever before in the history of the University. Over 500 students are enrolled in the regular classes, this being a fifty per cent increase over the number registered last year.

The names of the Newton students who are enrolled together with the courses in which they are specializing are as follows: Warren S. Beebe of 886 Watertown street, West Newton, accounting and French; Robert Burgess, Jr., of 90 Summer street, Newton Centre, architecture and history;
John F. Dorney of 21 Claffin place,
Newtonville; Ethel B. Griffin of 292
Auburndale avenue, Auburndale, accounting; Julia E. Lancaster of 27 Ripley terrace, Newton Centre, economics and English; William M.
Noone of 144 River street, West Newton, business English and business methods; Philip R. Palamoutain of 9 Hazlehurst avenue, West Newton, history and mathematics; Hubert G.

Newtonville, music, architecture, and drama; Victoria Zellar of 147 Washington street, West Newton, Spanish.

RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

The class of 1920 of the American Institute of Normal Methods received their diplomas Tuesday night in Bragdon hall at Lasell Seminary, Auburndale.
This school has been conducted at Lasell for the past 30 years and is attended by those who desire to complete instruction in musical direction.

The exercises consisted of singing by the class, different members of the class conducting the music of the various numbers. George B. Penny, head of the musical departments of the Rochester, N. Y., schools, is superintendent of the board of instruction of the school, and on this board is Miss Grace G. Pierce, musical director of the schools in Arlington.
Among those who graduated was Miss Eva A. Sanderson, who is musical director in the schools of this city.

DEATH OF MRS. SUCKLING

Mrs. Nellie Brazer Suckling of 676 Centre street, for nearly 20 years prior to her marriage a teacher at the Sherwin School, Sterling street, Roxbury, died Monday.

Mrs. Suckling was well known in Roxbury and Dorchester. She was a graduate of the Dillaway School, Kenilworth street, Roxbury High School and the Boston Normal School.

For several years she was prominent in the affairs of the Boston Y.
W. C. A. and the Massachusetts New Church Women's Alliance, of which she was president. She is survived by her husband, John F. Suckling.

The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon at the New Jerusalem Church, Bowdoin street, West End.

SOUSA CONCERT

After having served through the war as chief bandmaster at the Great Lakes Training Station, Lieut. Commander John Philip Sousa has gathered his old and seasoned bandmen about him and is about to set off on a tour of the country that will take him from the Atlantic to the Pacific. One of the first places he will visit is Boston, and on Sunday afternoon, August 8th, he will give one concert only at Fenway Park. This place will undoubtedly not be large enough to accommodate the multitudes who will want to see Sousa and hear his band.

The occasion will be of special interest to members of the American Legion, for one of the leading selections on the program will be Sousa's own march, "Comrades of the Legion," which will then be played for the first time. His marching song, "Who's who in Navy Blue," is also new, and it will be sung by Miss Marjorie Moody, a talented soprano whose home is in Swampscott, and who has achieved much popularity through her singing with Sousa's Band and also in local concerts in and around Boston.

Other pieces on the program will be "A Study in Rhythms," a transcription in which Sousa has ingeniously manipulated a group of classics. The cornet soloist will be John Dolan, and there will be a xylophone solo,
"Morning, Noon and Night," composed and played by George J. Carey. Sou-sa's suite, "Tales of a Traveler," will also be played.

"Every Gallon

THE number of conveniently located Socony gasoline stations is always increasing. All over historic New England and New York State, Socony service has grown with every community.

The Socony standard of service has always been to furnish Socony products wherever the need for them—however small—was manifested.

As a result, the scope of this service has been constantly broadened. The public requires motor fuel and oils of Socony quality. Motorists demand them because they are uniformly clean and efficient—none better are produced today.

Those most interested in gasoline economy—large users—have found that the regular use of one standard motor fuel of uniform quality gives the greatest satisfaction over long periods.
There is less carbonization, a permanent carburetor adjustment is possible as well as more accurate checking of mileage.

You can fill up regularly with Socony gasoline almost anywhere from Eastport, Maine, to Lockport, New York, and from Long Island

WELL ON ROAD TO WEALTH

Farmer Undoubtedly Has a Great Scheme Unless Some Indignant Motorist Should "Catch On."

Straight ahead lay a long, straight stretch of road, and the man at the wheel of the car settled down in his seat. It was evident he was preparing for a sprint.

But before he was well under way an honest-eyed old farmer stepped from the roadside toward him and held out a detaining hand.

"Thowt mebbe ye would be a-goin' to go full steam ahead," he remarked casually when the car slid to a standstill.

The motorist nodded in reply. "Well, just take a look through these at that tree over the bend," went on the farmer, producing an elderly pair of field glasses, "and happen ye'll change your mind."

"Great Scott!" exclaimed the motorist when the glasses disclosed a blue tressed figure perched on a branch in the tree. "I say, thanks most awfully!"

There was the sound of coin clinking on coin and then the motor went sedately down the road at about six miles an hour. And at the beginning of the clear stretch of roadway the honest-eyed farmer was counting his cash.

"The idea o' carting the old scarecrow from the orchard and perching it in that 'ere tree works out pretty well!" he chuckled as he heard another car approaching.—London Tit-Bits.

MUSIC IN COST OF LIVING

Inhabitants of Densely Populated Flats in New York City Begin to Take Alarm.

Opening windows on the first warm days of the year bring a warning that this will probably be the most musical season New York has ever seen, says the Evening Star of that city. The apartment-house court has always been cosmopolitan in its musical tastes and prone to prodigality in its volume of more or less musical sounds in summer, and this time it appears that not only are all the young men home from the army but that the high cost of everything has also made the apartments more densely inhabited and more continuously so than ever before.

The magnets are lacking that once drew folk away from home in the evening. Beer is negligible as a corner attraction. The movies are more expensive and more tiresome. Soda bears a war tax paid by the dispenser and also charged to the consumer. Home has become a rather forced haven for all and music is being overworked in an attempt to relieve its tedium.

This season we have with us, apparently, not only the phonograph and the player piano—those resources of the musical and unmusical alike—but there is also an apparent return of the child who practices on the piano.

Illuminated Traffic Cop.

With a view to solving the difficulties that beset motorists and traffic officers on Boston streets after nightfall the officers of the First motor corps are conducting experiments throughout the city to make a traffic handler visible to drivers as well as to pedestrians.

An experiment demonstrated that with the help of three light bulbs, which burn continuously, white bands crossed on his breast and long white gauntlets, a traffic officer can be seen by motorists even at the busiest and darkest of corners.

One of the lights is placed on the traffic guard's hat and the other two on his shoulders. They are fed by batteries in the pocket of his overcoat. Both red and white lights have been tried. So far the red lights seem to be more satisfactory.—Boston Globe.

Portable Town Given France.

Many an American tourist will be surprised this summer to find just outside the war-torn city of Lens, France, a quaint Dutch village. The stranger will learn that the village is a gift from the people of Holland to the returning citizens of Lens. The houses, all of wood and of an ingenious, knock-down construction, are now awaiting shipment from the Netherlands, where the parts were sawed and fitted. Assembled, they will shelter in comfort 500 refugees. When all the dwellings are occupied, the Dutch government will send landscape gardeners to lay out flower beds and shrubbery in harmony with the buildings.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Plane Lands on Street.

Thousands of spectators lined the curbs of a business thoroughfare in Oakland, Cal., some weeks ago as a result of the announcement that an airplane was to land and take off from the street. On schedule time the plane appeared overhead, glided down between the walls of the man-made canyon and touched the pavement. Skidding here on the slippery asphalt, the plane grazed a lamp-post, severed to the curb and damaged its tail skid. The accident was trivial, but served as a warning to the authorities, who promptly forbade the take-off.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Need of a Backyard.

"We simply must have a house with a backyard."
"For the children to play in?"
"No. We have no children, but we've simply got to have a place to throw empty cans."

RELY TOO MUCH ON MACHINES

Writer Laments the Lack of Personal Responsibility Discernible Among the World's Workmen

Writing in the Scientific Monthly on the value of handicraft in the re-education of wounded soldiers, Capt. Frank A. Waugh of the sanitary corps, U. S. A., says:

"It is a great defect of modern society that it depends too much on machinery. Everything we touch is machine-made. The common laborer in particular hardly ever sees or touches anything but machine-made objects. He begins life in a machine-made go-cart, eats canned food from a machine-made table with a stamped-steel knife, fork and spoon, dies in the hospital in a machine-made bed, is buried with a machine-made coffin and marked with a machine-made tombstone. When such a man once makes with his own hands a good basket or leather pocket-book he begins to realize the value of honest craftsmanship—the place of personal responsibility in the day's labor. This is a most fundamental element in human psychology now largely lost in a mechanical world where objects are made by machines, not by men. The men only feed the machines and are themselves controlled by another social machine called a labor union."

PERMANENT "NO MAN'S LAND"

Sites of Probably One Hundred Villages in France Too Dangerous to Use Again.

Fifteen villages in the Aisne district, destroyed by war, will never be rebuilt. There are 17 towns in the Marne district which will be abandoned, and probably 100 in all of France. For many years, at least, the soil on which the villages stood will not even be tilled. It will become a permanent No Man's land.

According to government advisers, the sites of these villages are too dangerous to be used again. In order to avoid loss of life the government has purchased the land on which the villages stood and will keep possession of it until it can be made safe.

These sites are the ones often fought over, on which the ground has been turned over and over again, burying explosives of all kinds to unknown depths. There is no trace of buildings left in the 15 villages, so the refugees faced more than the usual hardships. They returned, however, and lived in the worst makeshift caves and dug-outs.

Only signs maintained by the government will mark the sites of the villages, warning people of the lurking dangers.—Stars and Stripes.

Chinese Silk Trade.

The American demand for silk in China has greatly increased in the last few years until at the present time about 25 per cent of the Chinese silk is sent to the United States. This is the result of American enterprise more than that of the Chinese. The Japanese silks had been in favor for a long time with the manufacturers of this country, but it was well understood that the quality of the Chinese was superior, but it was not adapted for use in this country because of the manner in which it was woven. An American manufacturer secured a moving picture reel showing the Japanese methods of manufacture, and as a result the Chinamen were induced to change theirs to a system to conform with the demands of the occidental customers, and the industry has accordingly taken a great jump.

Profitable Investment.

There was once a noble college man, says Harvey's Weekly, who was noted for the profusion with which he spent, wasted and lost money in everything he did, and who kept up the practice for some years in business, after he left his Alma Mater. He disappeared for a few years, and when found again he was working on a farm. A friend asked how he was getting on, and he replied with enthusiasm:

"Splendidly! Top wave of prosperity!"

"But, man, you don't mean that you're making money on this farm?"

"Oh, no! I never expect to make any money. But I'm losing it slower than I ever did before!"

No Tipping Here.

When I first arrived in Venice I noticed large printed announcements in my hotel and in the restaurants. "Vietate la Mancia," and on inquiry I found this meant "tips forbidden," that all over Venice tipping has been abolished, says a writer in the London Daily Mail.

The same rule applies more or less in other Italian cities, but in none, so far as I have seen, so completely and actually as in Venice. The notices are "absolutely" forbidden, others "rigorously" or "severely" forbidden, or "prohibited," others explain more fully that after August 1 tips are "abolished."

Spoiled Dad's Good Intention.

Army life at one time appealed to Sir Hamar Greenwood, recently named chief secretary for Ireland. He has told how at sixteen years of age he ran away from his Canadian home to join the army. His father followed, and found his young hopeful doing sentry duty with all the pride and jauntness of a born soldier. "The old gentleman was for giving me a sound thrashing then and there," says Sir Hamar. "But I turned out the guard and had him arrested for attempting to rush the sentry."

GOV. MORROW'S ADDRESS

The address of Governor Edwin P. Morrow of Kentucky notifying Governor Coolidge of his nomination for vice president, should be read by every citizen of this country. It is as follows:

Governor Coolidge: As a committee representing the Republican Party, we are here to discharge the altogether pleasing and honorable duty of giving you formal notification of your nomination by the Republican Party for the high office of Vice-President of the Republic. This nomination is tendered you as the spontaneous and overwhelming wish of your party. The West called to the East—North and South heard the call, and the Nation made answer. The Republic has faith in Massachusetts, and its sons and daughters have full and pin-swinging confidence in the known character, demonstrated capacity, and the tried and proven courage of Massachusetts' chief executive.

We are met on sacred soil—hallowed by the memory of sacrifice and service in the cause of liberty, the formation of representative government, and the establishment and perpetuation of our free institutions. Today, as children of the heritage, we make grateful acknowledgment to the old State that gave to the annals of freedom Lexington, Concord, Bunker Hill and Boston Common. In this hour so vital to our future as great free people—in this hour of strange beliefs and far-far drifts of national policy, it is altogether well and peculiarly fitting that here at this fountain of American inspiration we, who hold all from those who gave all, should rededicate and reconsecrate "our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor" to the preservation of those principles with which, and for which, the nation was born, and that we solemnly determine that the heritage which has made us free, independent and prosperous shall not be bartered for a mess of unknown pottage.

Sir: you are called to serve your country in a time of your country's need. At home grave economic, industrial, social and governmental problems have too long in the past, and now continue to, press for and demand solution, and upon the proper solution depends the prosperity, security, commercial and financial welfare of a people. But, confronted at home with high duties and most serious responsibilities, the present national administration, entrusted with the great powers of government, has halted and hesitated and blundered, while it bent all of its energies and all of its stubborn determination upon the task of fastening upon our country all of the ills of the world. The President and all those who in the past have bowed to his will, and he whom he has covered with his mantle, committed to his policies, and whom he now seeks to place in his stead, have for more than a year, and now, seek to strip us of our national faith by clothing the Nation in the multicolored garments of internationalism, to take from us our sovereignty by surrendering to a super-sovereignty—and so, through a League of Nations to bind us to the blood feuds of Europe, to make us the guarantors of shifting, vanishing boundary-lines to the ends of earth, and to involve us in the greed and strife and confusion of the old world. In such a time, and with such issues confronting us, you are called to the co-leadership of a great party. In you is reposed the confidence of your fellow citizens—the full trust of patriotic men and women who believe in your unswerving devotion to America, and in your capacity to lead the fight.

of the right for the preservation of representative government under the charter of our ancient liberties, and who believe that when entrusted with great power you will seek always and everywhere the restoration of prosperity, confidence, and certainty at home, and the maintenance of national honor, and dignity abroad. In the coming campaign, and in the administration to follow, you are to serve as the altogether worthy and acceptable associate of our party's leader. He has spoken clearly, bravely and convincingly. His voice rings now like a bugle through the land. We now await your message, convinced that it will be in full accord with the time-honored, time-proven policies of the Republican Party, and that it will proclaim our party's service to the Nation and its people. When you have spoken, America will know that Captain and Mate have turned the old Ship of State from her wanderings.—Home—Home to the needs of the hour—Home to keep all and to save all that the past gave, and which the future promises.—Home to solve our problems here, and to fulfill as we have always done, our full share of world responsibility. Wishing you God's speed on this voyage throughout the land, today millions of patriots with one accord, exclaim:

"In spite of rock and tempest's roar,
In spite of false lights on the shore;
Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea;
Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers and cheers,
Are all with thee, are all with thee."

EDITORIAL

Governor Coolidge, with his characteristic grasp of fundamentals, goes to the heart of good citizenship with the concluding sentence of his acceptance address, "Look well then to the hearthstone, therein all hope for America."

It is a sentence which should be brought home to every father and mother, and graven deep in their hearts. How can the next generation learn true American citizenship, if the father neglects the plain duty of every good citizen. Not perhaps in open violation of law, but in those little things of every day life, which show the youth of the land, plainer than words, just what a man's attitude is towards his country, his church and his home. Good government depends, not on the entire thought and effort of one or a few good citizens, but upon a little more thought and a little more effort, by all our citizens. It is our plain duty to see to it that the coming generation takes a broader and more intelligent interest in government. "Look well then to the hearthstone."

The voters of Newton in considering the merits of the much discussed League of Nations, should bear carefully in mind the distinction between "a" League of Nations and "the" League of nations. All of us without much doubt would favor "a" league of nations—one in which the constitutional rights of this country would be carefully guarded. Many of us object, however, to "the" league of nations which President Wilson brought home with him from Paris and which he insists shall be swallowed without dotting an "i" or crossing of a "t." Senator Harding as President can be depended upon to do his utmost to secure "a" league of nations—possibly "the" league of nations of President Wilson, with proper safeguards. Governor Cox at present seems to have inherited the mantle of Wilson on this important matter and there should be no hesitation on the part of our citizens in regard to their votes.

WANT PAY ON HOLIDAYS

President A. L. Moriarty of Newton City Employees' Union 175 has presented a petition to the Newton Aldermen requesting that all laborers, mechanics and other workmen whose services could be dispensed with, should not be required to work on any legal holiday, but that pay for the holiday at the regular rate be allowed the men. In support of this request Mr. Moriarty offered a list of several other places in the State where such action is taken, many of them being far less able, in a financial way, to meet this concession than Newton.

In addition Mr. Moriarty states that a large number of cities allow their employees a two weeks' vacation each year and every Saturday afternoon off, something which has not yet been granted here.

The following places allow their employees, a Saturday half holiday throughout the year, two weeks' vacation and pay for holidays.—Attleboro, Arlington, Boston, Brockton, Cambridge, Chelsea, Lynn, Melrose, Malden, Medford, Peabody, Quincy, Revere, Somerville, Salem, Waltham and Watertown. Chicopee and Brookline allow 4 months of Saturday half holiday, and Everett 6 months.

Metropolitan laborers get 12 months Saturday half holiday, pay for holidays and sick leave.

Brookline in addition to the above gives one week's sick leave. Boston, Chicopee, Revere and Quincy also pay sick leave.

Concerning the Sabbath.

According to the Bible the Lord created the world in six days and rested on the seventh. As Saturday is the seventh day of the week, the Jews observe it as the Sabbath, as do certain other denominations following the old Moslem law. When Christ said: "The old things have passed away; behold, they are become new," his followers regarded this as a command to change the old order, and they made the day of his resurrection the Sabbath.

Obsolete Word.

What has become of that good old word "earnest"? Folks are "getting" are "paid" and are "making" so much a day. But nothing is said about anybody "earning" anything.—Los Angeles Times.

MASTER OF ART OF WOOING

Missourian Gives Out Some Pointers That May or May Not Be of Value to Others.

There are experts in all lines, but shall not a man who can persuade eight women to marry him rank as an authority on matrimony? According to the Missourian who is locked up in the Tombs as a confessed bigamist, the way to a woman's heart is through her higher emotions. "I appealed to the best in women always," he says, "and never to their lower natures."

Women also, this artist in love discovered, "like to be swept off their feet by those who woo them; they have no patience" with the dawdler. Nor did he find that it was essential for the wooer to be handsome or more than neatly dressed. But these, of course, are old precepts in the manual of courtship. Ugly men have often been great rakes, and ardor is traditionally effective in sweeping the reluctant fair "off their feet." His main contribution to the art of love, and it is one worthy of Ovid, is that of the potency of an appeal to the higher nature of women.

But is "the best" in women a fixed quality, or does it vary and require to be diagnosed in the individual? That is no doubt a difficulty that will confront ordinary wooers. Is the higher feminine nature compatible with matinee tickets and tea dances, or does it incline seriously only to more elevated interests? The recipe apparently leaves the problem about as it was for less successful suitors to whom the mystery remains of other men's easy mastery of an art of which they fail to learn the rudiments.—New York World.

CAUSES OF BROKEN ROMANCE

London Newspaper Points Out Two Reasons Why Love's Young Dream Is Rudely Shattered.

Engagement breaking is in season. "The marriage arranged between Captain X and Miss Y will not now take place." That cold print end to romance can be read any day now in the society columns of the papers. It is becoming a habit.

Experts who study these matters declare that the percentage of broken engagements has never been so high, and they set down several reasons, says the London Daily Express. The main one is:

The great khaki illusion. (a) The woman: "You would not believe how different he looked in his civilian suit, my dear. I simply couldn't do it." (b) The man: "She was awfully charming as a driver in the Women's legion, but when I saw her in one of the new evening gowns—well, it just couldn't happen."

The house famine is given as another cause. Two young people who believe themselves to be twin souls go out and try to find a future home. It is physically impossible for any person's temper to stand the strain of present-day house-hunting. They quarrel, and there is another broken romance.

Cleaning Rusted Tools.

Elbow grease is usually the best thing to use when cleaning rust from steel, but the following manner has also been suggested: Fasten the steel tightly to a piece of zinc by means of wire and place it in a jar containing water to which sulphuric acid has been added. Leave it there until the rust has disappeared. If the article is very rusty add a little more acid from time to time. The process by which the rust is removed is electrical. The steel being in contact with the zinc short-circuited battery cells are formed, and the rust is reduced to iron again by electro-chemical action. The steel will become darkened by the process, but will regain its brightness if rubbed with sweet oil or a mixture of petrolatum and kerosene.

Safer.

At an Indiana high school the other day the athletic society was putting season tickets for ball games on sale. One of the most popular boys in the senior class came up to the desk at which the tickets were being sold, bought two, had his name inserted in the blank on one of the tickets and then reached for the tickets.

"But you haven't told us whose name to write on the other ticket," protested the ticket seller, "and the rules of the association require that all ticket purchasers have their names on their tickets."

Now, the senior had planned to pass the favor of his company along to several girls. "Well," he drawled, "if you have to write something in that blank, just write anonymous."

New and Stronger Bricks.

More substantial walls may be constructed with a new type of brick, patented not so long ago by a retired contractor of the southwest, and known as self-bending and interlocking, the inventor states. On one side of each brick are two circular, bevel-edged bosses, while on the reverse side, in the same relative positions, are two depressions, into which the bosses fit exactly. The brick is recommended for domes or arches, chimneys or hollow walls.—From Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Seeing Herself.

"Hurry, wife. We'll miss the elevator."
"Hurry, eh? I think I see myself."
"In that case, you'll have to stop and make a long inspection."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

NEW TEMPLE OF THE GODS

Beautiful Spot in Southern Utah That Is Off the Beaten Trail of the Tourist.

In the ordinary sense, no part of the United States properly can be called unexplored. The new Temple of the Gods, in southern Utah, is a discovery as far as the average tourist is concerned, though by no means is it unexplored or "new" territory. A bare 17 miles to the west runs the well-traveled state highway from Salt Lake City to the Grand canyon. An old trail branches off from the road between Panutich and Tropic, in Garfield county.

In the distance is Table Cliff plateau, source of the Escalante river; nearer, the broad amphitheater of the Paria valley; at his feet the New Temple itself, a veritable sunken garden, about one by three miles, of exquisite daintiness and beauty. Within its tortuous walls of marl stand obelisks and towers, castles and fortresses, impressionistic statuary and giant sculptures, kaleidoscopic in their coloring and framed by the tufted yellow pines and the red manzanita.

The startling color changes and lighting effects of this great geological stage are, indeed, its most extraordinary feature. In the shifting rays of sun and cloud, the tall, slender shafts and ornamental turrets gleam white, glow suddenly to a cherry heat and suddenly cool to purple black.—J. C. Alter in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

BIG GUNS MUST BE MOBILE

Otherwise in Future Wars They Will Be Quickly Wiped Out if "Spotted" From Above.

While the war was in progress new military inventions and improvements were for obvious reasons kept secret in America. Now, however, they are beginning to leak out.

For example, there is a new 14-inch gun, which is called "pride of the army." All big guns in future will be made mobile (on rails or drawn by gasoline tractors), because otherwise they would invite their own destruction. With the help of "spotting" airplanes they might be quickly wiped out.

The guns which now defend American seacoast forts are stationary, and the big ones of no larger caliber than 12 inches. They are to be replaced by 14-inch rifles on mobile mounts, and it is manifest the plans of the fortifications will have to be altered.

Newest American battleships carry 14-inch guns, which have been deemed the most effective weapons of their type in the world. Some of them did duty on land in France toward the end of the war. But this new rifle (a product of army ordnance experts' best ingenuity) is superior in several respects. It will throw a shell 35 miles.

Poor Packing Causes Waste.

Few persons considering the cost of living realize that more than $700,000,000 is added to the cost of their food, clothing and other necessities each year because of the waste caused by damage, unscientific loading and the tremendous cost of packing these commodities. The railroads and the shippers realize it, as shown by their conducting a campaign to reduce to the minimum the waste through damage, and to utilize to the utmost the capacity of freight cars, which are hauled half empty.

These are some of the items which enter into this waste estimate—damage and theft, $100,000,000; wasted lumber used only once in packing cases, $240,000,000; empty car space, $209,000,000; and the staggering cost to the railroads of hauling half empty cars more than 6,000,000,000 miles, $157,000,000. It is estimated that from 10 to 25 per cent of the cost of food-stuffs goes to pay for the crates which are thrown away.

Big Railroader's Hobby.

Carl R. Gray, the new president of the Union Pacific system, has one hobby—that is his family in which he takes the greatest interest and pride. "When his two boys, who are now at college, were attending preparatory school at Baltimore," says J. G. Donley, Jr., in Forbes' Magazine, "he never missed a baseball or football game in which the school team participated unless he was away from home. And he knew every boy on the team by his first name. One of his greatest delights was to get out on the baseball field on a summer evening and 'bat flies' to his boys. When not on the road or in his office, he spends all of his time with his family."

His Ambition.

Ten-year-old Ted made his first long visit to the country. He was much impressed with the returns of farming, but not with the work which brought the returns. He studied the occupation of farming diligently in order to see what part of it was easiest. And one day he discovered what he thought was.

"Then he went to his mother. 'I always said that I would be a farmer when I grow up,' he told her, 'but I guess I won't be a real farmer. I guess I'll be a hog slopper.'"

Nothing Doing.

"The overall club is a fine idea for men, but I'm afraid it won't work out."

"Why not?"

"Well, we're going to have trouble if we try to get the women to follow suit and appear in public in house-wrappers."

OBTAINING HOME AIDED BY CO-OPERATIVE BANK

Treasurer of Suffolk Co-operative Bank Tells How To Do It

By Ernest A. Haie

The objects for which the Co-operative Bank was organized are not often thoroughly understood by the very people for whose service they were established. In states other than Massachusetts, these same institutions are known either as Building and Loan Associations or Saving and Loan Associations. From these other names one can readily see the real purposes for which the Co-operative Bank is intended. The Co-operative Bank was established to help all classes to save money and either to buy or to build homes.

Many people make the mistake of thinking that money will only be advanced by a co-operative bank to its members for the purpose of constructing homes, and that loans will not be made on houses already built. It is timely to point out that the reverse of this is true in many cases, and a few banks even go so far as not to lend any money on houses in the course of construction, as it involves continuous watching to see that the building is constructed in accordance with the plans and specifications.

A larger proportion of the co-operative banks, however, make loans either on buildings to be built or on structures already erected. They do this because they realize that their sphere of usefulness is measured by the number of homes which they have helped their members to acquire.

In the smaller communities surrounding large cities the building of homes is the prime object of these institutions, as every building constructed increases the wealth of the town, at the same time providing an additional house. In the cities, however, where a man usually constructs a home in the suburbs, it is exceedingly difficult for him to supervise the actual construction of the house in person. Therefore he prefers to buy a house already built, as he can then see exactly what he is getting for his money.

When a man builds a house he should employ an architect to watch the construction, otherwise the builder, either by accident or by design, may deviate from the plans and produce a house which comes far from measuring up to the expectations of the owner. Inferior workmanship and unsatisfactory materials are things that a would-be home-builder must guard against. There are also many other points with which the inexperienced person cannot possibly be expected to be acquainted, and for all these reasons it is obviously safer to buy an already constructed house.

All co-operative banks make loans on the installment plan, by which the mortgage pays itself off without any further renewal. In the case of a loan made on a building to be constructed, the money is advanced as the building progresses. Usually these banks have only a limited amount to loan on construction mortgages and the larger part of their money is placed in first mortgages on property already built.

These institutions are organized for the sole purpose of securing money from all the members to loan to some of the members; these latter being those who are anxious to buy their own homes. As a general rule there is a large demand for loans, and in view of the existing conditions and the many demands made upon all the other sources of obtaining money and the difficulty of securing it, the demand now being made on co-operative banks is unusually large. Banks are doing their best to meet this demand and are supplying urgently needed assistance to a large number of would-be home owners.

The conservative managers of these banks decline to loan money to the speculator, but always make a loan to a member who finds a house that meets his means and fancy.

Very often the appraisers of the Co-operative Banks safeguard the member by disclosing to him the real value of the contemplated purchase. The man of limited experience who, for the first time undertakes to buy a house rarely knows its real value. If the location and the general plan satisfy him, and if the price asked is within his means, he makes the purchase. The member of one of these banks, however, can ask the aid of his bank and always has the advice and the judgment of the investment or security committee to help him in making a decision. Thus the certainty that he is getting value for the money he invests is greatly increased.

How Rats Cause Fires.

Rats are fond of eating the insulating material of electric wires, and are responsible for many of the fires ascribed to "defective insulation." They also gnaw holes in lead water pipes.

NEWTON "Y" BASE BALL

Newton won from the fast Silver Lake crowd Saturday afternoon 11-6. The "Y" team backed up Pitcher Lane very solidly by batting well, getting a bunch of hits at the right time. This Saturday the team goes to Lexington to take on the K. of C. there. A fast hard game is anticipated.

It is hoped to have the fast Watertown K. of C. for a twilight game on next Thursday evening on the Y. M. C. A. field.

"Y" Pick-Ups

Lane pitched a steady game as usual. "Mecca" Adams will be back with lots of new pep next week, after having a vacation.

Curry injured his leg in a game last week and may be out of the lineup against Lexington.

Poy Collins' work as Chief "Ump" last Saturday was of the big league brand.

Art Haynes at short has been coming along like a real champion. Every game sees this youngster driving a few runs across the plate.

WOMAN HURT

Miss Jannie Rogers, a domestic at 145 Highland street, West Newton, was sent to Newton Hospital last evening to be treated for injuries due to falling in the street when, as alleged, she and her sister, Elizabeth, stepped from a moving trolley car in front of the police station on Washington street, West Newton.

Miss Jannie was not seriously hurt and will probably be able to leave the hospital in a day or two. Her sister was shaken up, but was able to accompany Jannie to the hospital and render such aid as she could.

Police and other witnesses said that the car, an open one, slowed down in front of the Police Station to allow a squad of patrolmen to board it, and that while it was moving slowly the two women, who were in a middle seat, arose and stepped off into the street before anyone could stop them.

CITY HALL

Andrew Prior, the sealer of weights and measures, who was recently appointed in charge of investigation of profiteering in the city of Newton, said today that he has received several complaints from householders of supposedly extortionate prices for food-stuffs. Mr. Prior, according to the State procedure in matters relating to the prosecution of profiteers, receives these complaints and makes an investigation. By comparing the prices charged in Newton with the State standard prices on file at the State House, he decides what action is to be taken. Mr. Prior receives his complaints and any information regarding profiteering in any business whatsoever, and such complaints should be sent to him at City Hall.

ENTERTAINS DISABLED VETERANS

Twenty-one of the disabled service men from the U. S. P. H. S. Hospital at West Roxbury were made happy with peach shortcake, punch and games, including tennis and baseball at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Bergfeld on Eliot avenue last Sunday.

Automobiles loaned by Miss Dorothy Chaplin, Mr. William Burch, Mr. Charles Baxter, together with Mr. and Mrs. Bergfeld were used to bring the boys from the Hospital and back again. As part of the entertainment Mrs. Bergfeld sang and Miss Adeline Packard of Watertown played the violin. The North Gate Club was also opened for bowling for the boys.

Mrs. Herbert Pierce, Mrs. William Burch, Mrs. Louie A. Bacon, Mrs. Stewart Tarry, Mrs. Gene Frederick of Chicago, and Miss Minniebelle Burch helped in serving the refreshments and other ways. It is hoped that the Newton people will bear in mind the pressing need of furnishing recreation, particularly the auto rides for the disabled fighting men, who lead a very hum-drum existence in the various hospitals. Mrs. Bergfeld is particularly interested in the disabled soldiers at Rutland. On Wednesday she is planning a trip to that institution and desires contributions of cash and other delicacies. Further information can be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Bergfeld, N. W. 672-J.

POLICE NOTES

Harvey N. Gokey of Wayland was fined $100 last week Thursday for gross negligence in operating an automobile. The evidence showed that Gokey, going east on Commonwealth avenue and closely following a truck, was the cause of a collision with a truck on the wrong side, just as it turned to enter Temple street, near the Brae Burn Club. The truck was badly smashed and Mr. David E. Cohen, the proprietor of the News Co. was thrown and badly bruised. Gokey's machine was going at such speed that it travelled 270 feet further into the plowed field before it was stopped. He appealed.

THAT SOUND IN THE NIGHT

Nothing So Very Terrible, but at Least Henry Found Out Just What Caused It.

It certainly was a strange sound—even though at midnight all sounds are strange. Mrs. Meekton nudged her husband hard.

"Henry," she whispered, loudly, "wake up at once, and go downstairs! It sounds like burglars!"

"Yes, my dear," replied Henry, nervously. "But I don't—"

"If you don't go at once," stated his better half, "I will go myself!"

"I shall certainly go, Maria," Henry said with dignity; then he added, "if I hear it again."

"No, go now," ordered Maria, "or I shall shriek for the police, and tell them that you made no attempt to capture the thieves!"

"Very well," replied Henry, through trembling lips; "but let me kiss you and the baby before I go, and when he grows up tell him that his brave daddy jumped out of bed one bitter night and boldly attacked several armed burglars and fought with them till he was overpowered and—"

"O-o-o-h, Henry, there it is again! Go at once!" yelled Maria, giving him a mighty push.

And Henry went downstairs, trembling violently. Cautiously opening the kitchen door he turned on the electric light—and found the kitten playing with baby's india-rubber ball.

TO TEACH BLIND TO DRAW

English Idea Is That Art May Help the Sightless to Communicate With Outside World.

One of the many experiments of the Royal Drawing society has been to teach people to draw by touch. The pupil is blindfolded and feels a simple shape, like a hammer of a spade, and draws it with his eyes open. An advanced pupil has drawn the head of a classical bust and the mask of Beethoven.

These experiments fired Mr. C. B. Ablett, the director of the society, with the idea of drawing by the blind. He has devised a medium which looks like the frosted stuff on a matchbox made liquid, by which the draughtsman can follow by touch what he has drawn and correct or add to his work. So far there have been no experiments with a blind pupil.

Mr. Ablett does not claim for it more than that a blind man can draw the plan or a design of something he wishes to record and explain. A blind gardener has been known to go into ecstasies over the unfolding shapes of a plant, and the drawing of these shapes, known to him by touch would undoubtedly give him a form of esthetic pleasure. In any case, it would increase his means of communicating with the outside world.

A great boon, if the method is practicable, would be that it would enable the blind to write and to read writing.—Manchester Guardian.

Airplanes Will Aid Mining.

It is predicted that the airplane and the dirigible will prove a great stimulus to the mining industry in presenting a means of getting material and men to and from locations which are known to be rich with ore and which are at the present time inaccessible. There are many such places known to exist, but the cost of building a roadway to them would be so great as to be prohibitive. Attention to this phase of the subject has been recently attracted by a report made by Doctor Lyon, supervisor of the mining stations for the United States bureau of mines. By this means a regular communication could be maintained with sections which are not to be reached by any ordinary means. It is also suggested that the same means might be of great value for getting rescue apparatus to the scene of mining disasters.

Where Big Industry Began.

The dilapidated old shack, still standing at Eastport, Me., is of interest by reason of its being the starting place of the great American sardine industry.

The experiment of converting the small herring into the canned sardine was tried out in this factory, built for that purpose by Julius Wolf, a Russian, and other New York promoters nearly forty years ago. At that time the picturesque weirs, in which the fish are seized, usually joined the factory property.

From its birth, in this small factory, sardine canning has developed to almost the chief industry on the Maine coast, employing thousands of skilled workers each season, and has placed Eastport on the map as one of the most important fishing ports in the country.

Locomotive Rolled Over.

After a storm that buried the New England coast in snow last March, passengers on a railroad line through Rhode Island were amazed to observe a locomotive standing upright in a swampy brook that runs under the right of way at one point. The engine started out with a snowplow to clear the track, but jumped the rails at the brook trestle, the plow going one way and its motive power the other. Confronted, then, by the problem of removing the new obstruction, and not caring to devote three engines to getting one back on the track, the rail men cut the Gordian knot by rolling the big locomotive down the embankment. Despite the slide and plunge, it finished right side up.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

SHOULD GET ANOTHER BEAU

Little Probability That Hoosier Girl Will Ever Eradicate Stingy Streak From Present One.

The stingiest young man has been discovered and he is a Hoosier too—living in Terre Haute, says the Indianapolis News. He has long been termed a chair-warmer by the family of the girl whom he honors with his company, for he has never taken her to a show—even a moving picture one. As for candy and flowers, well he has not sent or brought any of either.

As he seemed to be really nice the girl decided that perhaps he was green—that he needed a little hint. So the other night she decided to give him one. After he had occupied about an hour of her time and also of her father's heat and electric light, she said: "Oh, I'm so hungry for candy. Will you go to the drug store with me so that I can get some?"

He rose to show his willingness, and the girl was delighted, believing that her plan was going to work. But when the drug store was reached and the candy was bought, he displayed no intention of paying the bill. So, of course, she had to do it herself.

Furious at him and the whole world, too, she carried the box home and put it, still in its wrappings, on the piano in the living room. And all the rest of the evening she tortured him by talking of the joy she would have on the morrow when she ate the candy.

BEARDS AS BILL COLLECTORS

Author Gives Possible Reason Why Most Publishers Prefer the Clean-Shaven Face.

Herbert Jenkins, the London publisher who occasionally tosses off a book himself, tells the story of how on one occasion when he was dining with an author and editor, the author suddenly called his attention to a man sitting alone in a far corner of the restaurant.

"That man," remarked the author, "has character. He has a publisher from whom he can never extract money. What do you think he did?"

Mr. Jenkins shook a dubious head. "He went to the publisher's office and demanded payment. There was nothing doing. Without ceremony he seized the publisher by the beard and announced his intention of hanging on until he got a check. He got his money."

"That," continued the author remorselessly, as he fixed a speculative eye upon Mr. Jenkins' clean-shaven chin, "is why very few publishers wear beards."

Weeds and Hay Fever.

Interesting observations made by Dr. William Sheppergill, president of the American Hay Fever Prevention association, are reported in a paper published by him. As a result of a weed-cutting campaign carried out in New Orleans in the spring of 1916 the number of hay fever cases was reduced to less than 50 per cent of the usual prevalence. The "cold storage" treatment of the disease, in which practically all ventilation is excluded in order to insure the absence of atmospheric pollen, is said to afford only transient relief, while the low temperature is likely to cause bronchitis. The effects of an abundant rain on hay fever patients is beneficial because the rain not only washes the pollen out of the air, but also permanently removes its toxic qualities, so that it is harmless when again blown into the air after the rain is over. This has been proved by laboratory experiments, in which pollen, after submersion in water, was inhaled by hay fever subjects without any apparent effect.

On Ogling Gift Horses.

"Sometimes it may prove advantageous to look a gift horse in the mouth," remarked an Australian contemporary recently. It was referring to the proposed gift of six airships to Australia and really meant "always look a dirigible in its air-valve." These six airships are said to have been on patrol duty in the North sea; and Britain, according to a cable message to the commonwealth, has offered them with hangar and equipment to the overseas dominion. Australia's minister for defense, Senator Pearce, has placed the problem before the local air board for decision. As a commercial proposition some enterprising Australian company may welcome the dirigibles, but as a defensive equipment they are not regarded with over-much favor.

Put It Rather Neatly.

He had been tramping for hours, and not once had he passed a place where he could refresh himself. At last, as the sun was sinking, he arrived at an old inn. When the waiter brought his order he looked at it and then at the waiter, remarking:

"Is this the best you can do in the way of a sausage?"

"Why— isn't it good?"

"Good!" repeated the hungry tourist. "Oh, yes, it looks good, but the ends don't suit me."

"The ends?" said the perplexed waiter. "What's the matter with them?"

"Not far enough apart," was the reply.

The waiter took the hint.—London Tit-Bits.

As He Looked at It.

The Optimist—"I tell you, there's no place like home." The Pessimist—"Yes, it's the one place in the world where a fellow feels that he can be just as disagreeable as he wants to be."

DISABLED VETERANS' OUTING

Quite a number of disabled veterans of the late war are being entertained today in this city under the general direction of Mr. Henry J. Ryan of Newton Highlands. The boys left Boston this morning for an automobile ride thru Newton as far as Norumbega Park, with Mr. Louis K. Liggett's beautiful place at Chestnut Hill as their objective. Lunch will be served there with addresses by Governor Coolidge, Admiral Robinson and General Edwards.

The Navy band will play and there will be a show of Mr. Liggett's prize horses. Cigars and 2000 packages of cigarettes have been contributed by the Y. M. C. A. and Jordan Marsh Company have donated American ribbon for the wounded soldiers and the lenders of cars, and flags for the automobiles.

THE RIGHT SENTIMENT

The closing words of Governor Coolidge in accepting the nomination as vice president, should be placed in letters of gold in every home. The Governor said: "The destiny, the greatness of America lies around the hearthstone. If thrift and industry are taught there, and the example of self sacrifice oft appears, if honor abide there, and high ideals, if there the building of fortune be subordinate to the building of character, America will live in security, rejoicing in an abundant prosperity and good government at home, and in peace, respect, and confidence abroad. If these virtues be absent there is no power that can supply these blessings. Look well then to the hearthstone, therein all hope for America lies."

Putting an Egg in a Bottle.

An egg may be put into a bottle which has a mouth much smaller than the egg, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. First soak the egg in vinegar until the shell becomes soft and pliable. It will then be easy to force the egg into the bottle. Pour cold water into the bottle and allow it to remain until the shell becomes hard again. The bottle can then be shown to friends, who are certain to be greatly mystified by the sight of an egg in such a place.

SCOREBOARD IS HIS DIAMOND

Most Hopeless of Fans is the One Who Can Enjoy Game Without Seeing It.

We never see him at the game, nor even in the bleachers. He stands before a checkered frame with scores of fellow creatures. He cannot hear the crack of bat or see the rival fingers, but yet he visions all of that as on the curb he lingers.

He cannot hear the batters "beef" or hoot in wild derision, nor can he raise a cry of "thief" when puffed at some decision. He cannot watch, with features set, his diamond gods embattled; he cannot start a din to get the other twirler rattled.

But yet he groans or whoops with joy, looks glum or starts to grinning, when now and then the office boy chalks up the latest inning. The board dissolves before his view as do the street and alley and fancy speeds him quickly to that dear old Rainier valley.

In fancy he is with the birds that perch upon the railing, with "empties" and assorted words the robber "umps" assailing, and though the scoreboard's potent dope portends a sad disaster, he sticks around in dogged hope his heroes yet will master.

Most anyone can be a fan who owns a season ticket; it takes another sort of man to be a scoreboard picket. He swarms around the boards in packs. He's not aloof or clannish. If he were charged a sidewalk tax how soon our debt would vanish.—Carlton Fitchett in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

LAND WAITS ON RECLAMATION

Water and Modern Methods Will Make the Desert of Turkestan Bloom Like a Garden.

Turkestan is, of course, primarily agricultural country, and cotton, the major crop. The other industries still await development. There is a tremendous field for the cultivation of vineyards and rice and other cereals. At the same time, the development of agriculture will greatly stimulate the sheep-raising industry, which is now in the hands of primitive natives, untrained in modern methods. The fruit industry awaits the guiding hand of modern science. With the help of California specialists, Turkestan could be transformed into an enormous fruit garden. There is at present only one factory for fruit preserving. Similarly, the fish teeming in the lakes and rivers need only the introduction of modern industry to place them upon the food markets of the world. The silk industry, if properly organized, would easily become one of the most important in the world. The mountains of Turkestan are rich in unexploited minerals. Gold, iron, copper, coal and many rare and precious stones and metals await the pioneer.

There is an old legend in Turkestan that the Eden of the first man was placed in the valley of Ferghana and that for his sin Allah laid a curse upon the country and transformed it into desert. The quickening touch of water restores the desert to richness and fertility surpassing all legends. Who will build Eden anew?

Domesday Book.

Domesday Book, or Domesday Book, is the ancient record of the survey of most of the lands of England made by order of William the Conqueror under special commissioners about the year 1086. It consists of two volumes, a large folio and a quarto, and gives the name of every proprietor of land and the extent of his possessions. All of England, except Northumberland, Durham, part of Cumberland and part of Westmoreland, was included in the survey. The Domesday Book was formerly kept in the chapter house of Westminster, but is now in the public record office.

Taxes were levied by this book until 1522, when a more accurate survey was published at national cost in 1783, in two folio volumes. Two supplementary volumes were published in 1810.

Where Life Is Longest.

Which is the healthiest place in the world? If the index is the death rate, as it presumably must be, we have to go to the unlikely neighborhood of the antarctic to find it. In the last colonial report from the Falkland Islands the death rate for 1917 and 1918 was 5.31 per 1,000. During ten years the death rate in England and Wales did not drop below 13.3, and was as high as 17.6.

Yet the climate of the Falkland Islands is vigorous and the country is more bleak and barren than the Shetlands. High winds blow almost constantly, but there is no scarcity of sunshine. To these, Nature's two great disinfectants, is probably due the longevity of the sparse population.—London Tit-Bits.

Measuring Colors.

An English scientist has, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine, worked out a method of taking exact measurement of color. Black, white and gray are photometrically compared with standard white, and their composition expressed in percentage of black or white. A color, such as red, is compared with a white surface in a pure red light. If the red appears darker, it is matched with a gray surface under a red light, the percentage of black then being the same in both. Assigning the number 25 to red, such a composition as cinabar would be signified by the figures 25.04 18, meaning red with 4 per cent of white and 18 per cent of black.

Newton, Mass., July 27, 1920.

The Department of Public Utilities has authorized a change in the price of gas from one dollar and five cents to one dollar and thirty-five cents per thousand cubic feet.

This rate becomes effective August 1, 1920.

The increased price is necessary because of the advanced cost of gas purchased by the Company.

The Nobel Prize

The Swedish scientist, Alfred B. Nobel, who discovered dynamite in 1866, died in 1896, leaving an estate worth over nine million dollars. In his will he directed that there should be a fund, the interest from which should be divided into five equal amounts and awarded as prizes to the persons who shall have made (1) the most important discovery or invention in the domain of physics; (2) in chemistry; (3) in physiology or medicine; (4) who shall have produced in the field of literature the most distinguished work of an idealistic tendency; and (5) who shall have most or best promoted the fraternity of nations, the abolishment or diminution of standing armies and the formation and increase of peace congresses.

In the list of winners there are six Americans, namely: Elihu Root and Theodore Roosevelt for their work in behalf of peace; A. Carrel in medicine; Professor W. Richard of Harvard University in chemistry; and A. A. Michelson, Thomas A. Edison, and Nikola Tesla in physics.

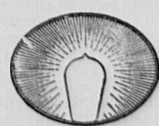

The prizes in physics and chemistry are awarded by the Royal Academy of Science in Stockholm; in medicine, by the Caroline Medical-Chirurgical Institute of Stockholm; in literature, by the Swedish Academy in Stockholm and the peace prize by the Norwegian Parliament. The prizes, awarded annually, amount to nearly $50,000 each.

The Nobel prize in literature this year was awarded to Jacinto Benavente, the Spanish playwright, author of more than eighty plays. Scribner publishes two volumes of his dramas translated by J. G. Underhill. "La Malquerida" was recently produced in New York. The Washington Square Players gave "His Widow's Husband" and "Bonds of Interest." "The Governor's Wife" was given by the Harvard Dramatic Club as its spring production.

Among the prize winners in literature, those who produced the most distinguished work of an idealistic tendency are: Theodore Mommsen, German epigraphist and historian; Bjornstjerne Bjornson, Norwegian novelist, poet and dramatist and probably greatest distinctly Norwegian writer of his day; Frederic Mistral, French poet, who won the prize jointly with Jose Echegaray, the Spanish dramatist; Henry Sienkiewicz, the Polish novelist; Giosue Carducci, Italian poet; Rudyard Kipling, English novelist and poet; Rudolph Eucken, German philosopher; Selma Lagerlof, Swedish author and only woman awarded the prize in literature; Paul Heyse, German poet and novelist; Maurice Maeterlinck, Belgian author; Gerhart Hauptmann, German dramatist; Sir Rabindranath Tagore, Hindu poet; and Romain Rolland, French author.

BALKED AT "WASTING LIQUOR"

Action of Chief of Secret Service That Caused Retainer to Resign His Position.

They tell the story of Bruce Bielaski, head of the United States secret service, and one of his retainers.

In the old days—before the late unpleasantness—the retainer might have been described as a scholarly slipper. He knew the brands, origin, habitat and beading of every first-rate whisky. When he drank he acted like one of the old brandy toppers, who have been statutorily obliterated.

He would eye and sniff and roll the old stuff around in his mouth before the clamorous throat muscles pulled it down. He revered whisky. His sole reading was whisky reading. He was not a drunkard at all, you will understand—merely an enthusiastic connoisseur of liquor.

Bielaski had a room full of whiskies at his Washington headquarters. No one got into that room, either. Every time there was a raid the stuff was placed under lock and key until Bielaski personally superintended its destruction.

The connoisseur of booze used to mourn this waste with tears in his eyes. He said it was a crime, no less. He said he is now convinced that this country is barbarous, and that in its heart it yearns to wear beads on its legs and feathers in its hair. He was orating in this strain one bitterly cold day during the big blizzard when he saw Bielaski come out of his office. Bielaski had a couple of quarts of a celebrated brand under his arm.

He stopped talking. Little flecks of foam appeared in the corners of his mouth. He began to dream of Tennessee meads and Kentucky pastures. His eyes softened and his cheek took on a younger flush.

Then Bielaski poured the liquor in the radiator of his automobile, and the enthusiast violently resigned from the federal service.—Herbert Corey, in Kansas City Star.

BLAME MEXICAN "HOT STUFF"

Pepper and Fiery Liquors May Have Something to Do With the Troubles Down There.

Pepper is the source of Mexican revolutions, according to many people. Hot tamales, chili con carne, which means pepper with meat; chili rellenas, chili con queso, or pepper with cheese; all the other hot dishes that delight the Mexican palate, are supposed to incite these fiery Latin-Indian folk to actions that people of more sober mien would not contemplate.

But the border citizens of this country place the greater blame on the liquid refreshments indulged in by our neighbors to the south. Aguardiente, tequila, mescal, drinks that rouse stormy passions in the Latin and paralyze the senses of the Anglo-Saxon, are consumed in great quantities.

Tequila, father of comets, sea serpents, misshapen giants, juggernauts and a thousand other monsters, is a white liquid brewed from "bear grass," a desert growing plant with clusters of thick, hard and watery daggerlike leaves with needle points. Mescal, a brew of cactus leaves, is its companion drink, and, mixed, the very smell will put even a prohibition enforcement agent in a state of coma.

Canada's Water Power.

It has been estimated by engineers that the available water power in Canada, both developed and undeveloped, is capable of generating 18,832,000 horsepower, of which 7,398,160 horsepower are available in populated areas.

The utilization of this water power is rapidly increasing. During last year the installation of plants was completed with a total of 64,400 horsepower. Developments now under construction will produce 370,000 horsepower; and projects contemplated for the near future will add 750,000 horsepower. The waterpowers in Canada already developed have a capacity of 2,400,000 horsepower. The "white coal," that for ages had been running to waste, is now being made to turn the wheels of industry and to light Canada's streets and dwellings.

The Noisy Guest.

William Jennings Bryan said at his brother's house in Lincoln:

"It is splendid to see the good order that now prevails at political banquets. There was considerable drunkenness at these banquets in the past."
"At a political banquet one evening the chairman said to a rather noisy guest:

"Excuse me, sir, but may I ask your name?"

"Morgan's me—hic—name," the guest answered.

"I mean your full name," said the chairman.
"The guest hiccupped again.
"'It's just the same,' he said, 'full or sober.'"

The Way It Works Out.

The Agent—Have you seen the new ordinance passed by the city council? It forbids rent profiteering under penalty of a hundred-dollar fine.

The Owner—Yes, I saw it. Raise the rent a hundred dollars on each apartment, to pay the fines.

Improving His Method.

Atlas was watching the proceedings of the profiteers.

"These modern fellows," he mused "know a lot more about holding up the earth than was dreamed of in my young days."

PUNISHED FOR KINDLY DEED

English Magistrates Seem to Have Dealt Harshly With Man Who "Broke" the Sabbath.

John Bull is an English publication. The letter we are reproducing from its columns was written to the magistrates of the English town of Reading. One wonders if they ever heard of the distinction between the letter and the spirit of the law, remarks Our Dumb Animals.

"Your Worships: I gather you don't go to church on Sundays as a regular thing. Let me tell you why I gather. On a Sunday during the strike a policeman dug up the Sunday observance act in order to convict a poor devil of a drover—Charles Palmer, to wit—of driving cattle through the streets. The man had fetched the beasts from the railway station, where they had arrived from Dublin. They were then in a bad state. If they had not been removed to be fed and watered they would have been the victims of callous cruelty; and though on this particular Sunday that which is written, 'Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fall into a pit and will not straightway pull him out on the Sabbath day' was part of the gospel, you made the drover pay the costs of his prosecution. To all intent and purpose, therefore, gentlemen, you might as well have convicted and fined him. What a pity it is that the act of 1677 doesn't prohibit Reading magistrates from walking or driving through the streets on Sunday in order to catch their dinner."

VOLCANOES AWAKE TO LIFE

Mount Katmai, in Alaska, Especially, Shows Signs of Preparation for Destructive Outburst.

Affording an awe-compelling spectacle of nature in a sullen mood and awakening memories of the ghastly details of the eruption of eight years ago, Mount Katmai, most powerful and restless of North American volcanoes, is again in violent activity, according to Capt. Charles A. Glascock and Purser Gary Bach of the steamer Admiral Watson, which reached port recently from southwestern Alaska, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

A sable pail of smoke from the funnel of the belching crater broods over the northern sky for a radius of 40 or 50 miles by day, while fretful tongues of flame can be seen by vessels a score of miles at sea at night, according to the Seattle mariners.

Knight's peak, a neighboring volcano, has also been stirred to spectacular efforts by the outburst of its more deadly companion, and wreaths of smoke hang over numerous peaks of the rugged Alaska peninsula.

A slight earthquake shock was experienced at Kodiak island the night of April 8, a day before the arrival of the Admiral Watson. Two days later those on the Admiral Watson had a rare view of the volcano.

Submarine Radio.

The last annual report of the bureau of standards states that members of the bureau's staff have developed very successful methods of communicating with submerged submarines by radio-telegraphy. With a single-turn coil or loop attached to the outside of the submarine, signals can be received as well when the vessel is submerged as when it is at the surface. It is also possible to transmit from a submerged submarine a distance of 12 miles. Thus it becomes possible for a ship and a submarine to exchange recognition signals. A coil aerial is a satisfactory direction finder when submerged and readily receives signals transmitted thousands of miles, just the same as when used in the air. The navy has equipped its larger submarines with this apparatus.—Scientific American.

Airmen Guide Cavalry.

While the Fourteenth cavalry was on the march recently from Fort Sam Houston, Tex., to Fort Ringgold, Tex., an aviator, who chanced to pass over their heads, acted as their volunteer guide.

The observer in the airplane saw that, instead of the Trio City road, they were following what is known as the Somerset road. He advised them of their error by a message dropped in front of the moving column, and the troop detoured to the correct road.

The air-service officers reported the incident to the chief of operations at Kelly field upon their arrival, and 25 minutes later a map showing the route to their destination, Fort Ringgold, was dropped in the middle of the marching column.

Just What Did He Mean?

Little Henry Hoosierhammer is a typical Hoosier youngster, who uses his ears to good advantage. Since prohibition has been enforced in Indiana he has heard a great many remarks made by people who in the past were accustomed to imbibing occasionally. But at Christmas he electrified his family by his own opinion.

The Christmas tree was aglow and everyone was talking about its beauty, etc. Finally it came Henry's time to say something and he did. He looked at the brilliant tree. "Gee, it's all lit up," he sighed, "and I sure wish I was, too."—Indianapolis News.

Hard Luck.

"I was born too early," he sighed. "What's the matter?"
"I had to wear overalls when they were a badge of hard labor, and now that wearin' 'em is fashionable I'm out of the game."
